JFK Confident, Hopeful After Paris Talks

Authorize Start on Final School Plans

FALLOUT SHELTER AT KHS—A demonstration fallout shelter has been completed at the north end of the Vocational Building on Kingston High School property for viewing by the general public. An improved type family shelter for protection against radioactive fallout, it is designed for a do-it-yourself installation in the home basement. It provides a protected area of 64 square feet and can be lengthened in increments of 14 square feet each. The shelter, to be installed against one basement wall provides a protection factor of approximately 250-500. After assembling the shelter, 12 yards of sand or gravel is placed in the space provided around the living area. Material for the demonstration shelter, with the exception of the concrete base, was provided wholly by federal funds. (Freeman photo)

Forsyth Job Is for $3,119,500

Budget Hearing Is Thursday, June 8

Architects were authorized Thursday night by the Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated) to prepare final plans for a junior high school in the Forsyth Park area at an estimated cost of $3,119,500.

The cost of the building itself is estimated at $2,318,000, which is approximately $19 per square foot.

The remainder is for items such as site development ($225,000), architect and engineer fees ($163,000), built-in equipment ($100,000), central kitchen ($61,000), legal and administrative fees, core borings, etc.

Decision on Fire Systems

The board also:

1. Decided to install smoke detection systems in Schools 3 and 4 instead of sprinklers after hearing a report from Hugh Kirkman, fire protection expert, regarding the inadequacy of the water situation in those areas.

2. Authorized architects, Perkins & Will, to proceed immediately with installation of underground piping for sprinklers at Schools 5, 6, 7 and 8.

3. Approved installation of a central kitchen in the proposed junior high school which would serve outlying schools in the consolidation.

4. Decided to proceed with negotiations for a tract of land in the Hasbrouck Park area for construction of an elementary school, after hearing a report from a firm of geological engineers which indicated that the underlying rock formations would not offer a serious hazard.

Public Hearing June 8

A public hearing on the proposed budget for the school year 1961-62 will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, June 8, in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Another meeting of the board will be held Thursday, June 22, for final adoption of the budget.

An organizational meeting of the board will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday, July 1, at which time the two new members of the board—Mrs. Edith Case Murphy and Bernie Singer—will take their seats, succeeding President Robert Herzog and Vice-President Robert O'Reilly, whose terms expire. New officers will also be elected.

To Have Three Levels

Whitney Murphy, representing Perkins & Will, "unveiled" an architect's drawing of the handsome new junior high school which will be located on a gentle grade" with an excellent view of the Catskill mountains in the distance.

He explained that the building will have three levels, although in no one part will it be more than two stories.

He said that "very little rock cutting" will be required, that it will be a "simple structure"

Discuss Zoning to Fit City Planning

35 Split on Ordinance For Controlling Dogs

Argument at Thursday night's public hearing to determine the feasibility of enacting a dog ordinance appeared about even among those for and against a law governing canine life, but applause at one point indicated more vigorous opposing sentiment.

Another hearing dealing with amendment of the zoning law to comply with city planning and urban renewal projects was opposed by one resident who considered the proposal inadequate. He was told, however, that the amendment, as presented, was a beginning and sections were to be added.

Wary of Restriction

Some who opposed a local law aimed at lessening menace, danger and annoyance resulting of dog residency and reported irresponsible ownership, indicated they would favor effective legislation against more flagrant abuses, but were wary of action that would impose undue restriction on the majority of the city's 2,300 dog population.

Those favoring an ordinance pointed to the annoyances resulting of the wanton prowling often resulting in property damage, unsanitary conditions, barking and biting of uncontrolled animals.

Bitten 11 Times

A mailman, who said he had been bitten 11 times by dogs said he was opposed to an ordinance because he felt it would not be properly enforced.

The hearing dealing with a zoning ordinance amendment was conducted by Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, chairman of the Common Council's laws and rules committee. It was held first. The other hearing was conducted by Alderman John P. Heitzman, (D) 12th Ward, chairman of the special dog ordinance committee.

In opening the hearing on the ordinance proposal, Heitzman told an attendance of some 35 that the committee was aware of the fact that the "topic has been controversial" and has been studying an ordinance proposal for some two months.

Public's Night to Speak

It was not the committee's intention at the hearing, he said, to disclose what we have turned up, because it felt its investigation was still incomplete. Several individuals thought to be qualified "to speak about dog problems," he said were interviewed, and it was felt that the committee "may or may not" have something to offer at this time, and added, "Tonight is your night to speak out." He noted that the city has no dog ordinance but has been guided by the state's Agriculture and Markets Law in dealing with canine problems.

Security Of Europe His Pledge

Praises DeGaulle For Leadership

PARIS (AP) — President Kennedy said today he was concluding his three-day policy conference with French President Charles de Gaulle with a feeling "of confidence and hope."

Speaking at a press luncheon, the U.S. chief executive said the most striking impression he would carry from France was of the vitality and dynamism of the French people.

He said he was very happy to express publicly his appreciation of De Gaulle's qualities of leadership.

Still Eyes Test Pact

Referring to specific policy issues of the cold war, Kennedy declared the United States still hopes to reach agreement with the Soviet Union in Geneva on a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests.

Kennedy also praised Britain and France for their "wise and sympathetic policies" toward the newly independent countries which were their former colonies. He said these British and French policies have strengthened the free world.

The time has now come, Kennedy said, for the free world to unite more closely than ever to fight misery in those portions of the world—"the southern half of the globe"—where "liberty is under pressure."

Notes Determination

Kennedy said he expects to discuss the Berlin question in Vienna Saturday and Sunday with Premier Khrushchev and declared he and De Gaulle were agreed that Western rights in Berlin must not be altered by force.

The President declared it must be made clear — presumably he meant made clear to Khrushchev —that "we are determined" to resist aggression to whatever force might be necessary.

In a speech earlier in the day the President said the United States is determined to strengthen its forces in Europe to guard the freedom of this part of the world.

"The United States of America intends to bear its full part," Kennedy told several hundred officers and civilians standing in the rain outside NATO military headquarters (SHAPE) just outside Paris.

Security Affects Both

Referring to U.S. participation in the two world wars and in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the President said the United States three times in this century had demonstrated that its own security "must inevitably be linked with the security of a free Europe."

"We are determined to maintain and strengthen the forces we now have stretched across Europe to defend this part of the world, whose security affects the security of our own country," Kennedy declared.

Kennedy visited the headquarters of U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's supreme commander, before his concluding talks with De Gaulle.

De Gaulle and Kennedy talked for an hour and five minutes then for the first time in their series of conferences were joined by top aides.

Trujillo Accorded Honors, Son Named

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republica (AF)—Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo was paid the tribute accorded heroes today.

His playboy son, Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., became the commander in chief of the 25,000-man armed forces of the Dominican Republic, the backbone of his father's absolute rule for 31 years.

Assassins First Job

Rafael Jr, 32—made a brigadier general at the age of 9 by his proud father—was appointed Thursday night by President Joaquin Balaguer and other government chiefs who served as front men for the generalissimo.

Young Trujillo's first job in preserving the family rule is to hunt down the small band of assassins led by a retired army general who ambushed the dictator Tuesday night as he was being driven from Ciudad Trujillo to his country estate. The elder Trujillo, 69, fell fighting with revolver in hand, a communique said.

Says Asylum Given

The newspaper El Caribe said a Roman Catholic Priest, Father Gabriel Maduro, had given asylum to one of the group that assassinated Trujillo.

The newspaper, considered a spokesman for the government, said Huascar Tejeda Reina was given shelter in the priest's home. The priest denied this.

There was no official word whether any of the conspirators have been arrested.

The dictator was to take his last ride today from this capital city, whose ancient name of Santo Domingo he changed to memorialize himself.

The body lay in state in his luxurious home in the capital during the night, then was moved to the lobby of the National Palace stacked with flowers.

San Cristobal Burial

The burial will be in San Cristobal, 18 miles away where Trujillo was born and worked in a mill before embarking on his military path to power and vast riches.

Archbishop Octavio Bera, ranking prelate of the Roman Catholic Church with which Trujillo fought in recent years, was to officiate at the services.

The nation of almost three million was outwardly calm; the

Reds See Some Good if Kennedy Accepts Policy

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Guarded optimism emanated from the Soviet camp today that something useful might come out of the conference between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev this weekend—if Knnedy is prepared to accept the Soviet point of view on world problems as logical.

Local Communist bloc attaches who could be reached and the Soviet press in Moscow all voice the same message: That acceptance of Soviet policy offers the only chance for world peace and that the American viewpoint is not only wrong but a bit reprehensible.

Pravada Sums Up View

Talking to Soviet officials is pretty much like reading Pravda, and that is the way it is in Vienna. Their point of view was summed up by Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, which said: "The people of good will realize that many difficult problems have accumulated during the course of the postwar period. Obviously they cannot be solved immediately, at one meeting.

"Yet the peace-loving public hopes that during the course of the forthcoming meeting of the two leading statesmen, the open expression of each other's points of view will be possible as well as the finding of points of agreement and the marking of further steps toward a rapproachement.

"Unfortunately," Pravda continued, "from the other side of the ocean voices are heard which cannot be regarded either as sober or clever."

The Moscow Literary Gazette added that "the political blindness of certain U.S. circles is indeed amazing."

State Weather Is To Be Cool, Wet In June: Forecast

ALBANY, N. Y .(AP) — Cool and moderately wet New York State through June, the Weather Bureau says.

The bureau said in a long-range forecast Thursday that temperatures would be about 3 degrees below normal. Normal for the month is 64.2 degrees at Binghamton, 65.5 at Buffalo, 67 at Albany and 71 at New York City.

Rainfall in the state is expected to range from 1.89 inches to 4½ inches, the bureau said.

GOP Elects State Man Party Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller of New York, today was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Miller, generally regarded as a middle-of-the-road Republican, succeeds Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky who resigned to allow himself more time to campaign for re-election to the Senate next year.

43rd Chairman

Miller, 47, is the party's 43rd chairman, and the second Roman Catholic to serve in the post since the GOP was organized in 1856. The first Catholic chairman was Thomas H. Carter of Montana, in 1892-96.

Miller supported former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination last year, but says he is neutral on a 1964 candidate.

Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a spokesman for the party conservatives, all had given their approval to Miller's selection as party chairman.

Now in Sixth Term

A lawyer, Miller is now in his sixth term in the House. He won wide recognition last year by helping to bring about substantial GOP gains in Congress as chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee.

As chairman, Miller will direct the party battle to carry out what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower calls its "clear mandate" to attack President Kennedy's program.

Eisenhower laid before a cheering audience of 6,000 party faithful at a $100-a-plate dinner Thursday night a battle plan under which he said "for America's sake, we take sharp issue with the leadership now in power."

The former President, 70, wearing a fresh daffodil in his buttonhole, was in rare form. He gave the Republicans a political talking-to that he never could bring himself to do while he was in the White House.

Sounding at times like former President Harry S. Truman — in reverse — Eisenhower brought down the house with a wide swinging attack on the Kennedy administration's fiscal policies.

As he never did while he was in the White House, Eisenhower went wholly partisan and seemed

Family Hobby Is Winning Factor In Spelling Bee

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP) — If one word can explain the success of 12-year-old John Capehart, it's spelled f-a-m-i-l-y.

Rooting for John as he won the 1961 National Spelling Bee Thursday were his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice P. Capehart of Tulsa, Okla., and his brother, Mark, 14.

"This has been a family hobby with us," explained the father. He's 42, slim, dark and a neurosurgeon. "We often have little spelling sessions at home after dinner."

Father Participates

Capehart said he participated in these parlor spelldowns with John and Mark, who finished 12th in the 1958 national bee.

Amesse Not Very Helpful at Span Scene: Witness

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) —A witness has testified that David Amesse was "not very cooperative" at the scene where his pregnant girl friend went to her death in the Hudson River.

Amesse, 20, of Staatsburg, is charged with second-degree murder and first-degree manslaughter in the drowning of 18-year-old Rachel Perry. Amesse is accused of shoving her off the Mid-Hudson Bridge on the night of last Dec. 21.

Amesse says he and Rachel entered a suicide pact but that he "chickened out."

During the trial, which started Thursday, one witness was John S. Metzer, State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation officer, since retired. Metzer said he was summoned to the scene and, when he arrived, Amesse, "not very cooperative," told him: "She walked away from me and disappeared. I heard something hit something, and then a splashing sound."

Among other witnesses were three bridge toll collectors—Irwin Brand, Leroy Williams and Chester Decker — who told of the couple walking onto the bridge the fatal night.

Williams testified that Amesse

DecisionReserved On SCAD Appeal In Area Case

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—An attorney representing an Ulster County resort has charged the State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD) with engaging in "unfair practices."

Peter H. Harp of New Paltz made the charge Thursday at a hearing before the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division, third department.

Harp was defending the right of his client—Trowbridge Farm in Kyserike—to use the words "serving Christian clientele since 1911" in their brochures.

Ordered Words Removed

SCAD, after a hearing, had ordered the words removed on the ground they were discriminatory.

"You are making a serious charge," presiding Justice Francis Bergan said. "What do you say happened that was unfair?"

—"I might as well have talked to the wall, Harp said. "I was denied the right of oral argument. Everything the commission's attorneys did was approved."

Miss Ann T. Clarke of SCAD's legal staff, told the court the words used by the resort "while an affirmative expression, has a negative effect."

New State Agency to Help In Regional Development

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The State Office for Regional Development has been assigned the task of expanding the state's economy, encouraging orderly community and regional development and helping to plan better public facilities at reduced cost.

Gov. Rockefeller established the agency Thursday and named George A. Dudley its director. He will be paid $22,000 a year.

Dudley, 46, is an architect and veteran city and regional planner. He previously worked with Rockefeller in the federal government and in private business. Dudley lives in Bedford Village, Westchester County.

The office will coordinate the state's various planning activities, the governor said. Its endeavors will embrace housing, transportation, public works, parks and recreation areas.

Named to a planning coordinator board, all state executives, are: Keith McHugh, commerce commissioner, who will be chairman, James W. Gaynor; housing commissioner; J. Burch McMorran, public works superintendent; Harold C. Wilm, conservation commissioner; Martin P. Catherwood, kmdustrial commissioner; Cortlandt V.R. Schuyler, director of the Office of General Services, and Milton Alpert of the Office for Local Government.

Dudley was named secretary of the board.

In another appointment, Rockefeller named Harry T. Tietenberg of Willsboro to the Lake Champlain Bridge Commission for a term ending June 1, 1966. The post is without salary.

Tietenberg, who previously served on the commission under an appointment by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, succeeds Payson Hatch of Willsboro, whose term expired.

The governor's office announced the resignation of Sol N. Corbin as Rockefeller's first assistant counsel, a post Corbin had held since the Rockefeller administration took office in January 1959.

Corbin will return to private law practice in New York City.

$100,000 Seneca Blaze Blamed on Bolt As Thunderstorms Rake West New York

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A blustery thunderstorm swept across most of western New York last night, damaging homes, knocking down power lines and starting several fires.

One fire, believed started by lightning, destroyed a combination gasoline station-grocery store at MacDougall, Seneca County, causing damage estimated at $70,000 to $100,000.

Thunderstorms moved eastward across the state during the night.

Several thousand homes in Western New York were without electricity for up to two hours as strong winds raked the area.

No serious injuries were reported.

An inch of rain fell at Buffalo, .85 inch at Syracuse and .84 at Rochester.

One of the hardest-hit areas was Fredonia, in Northern Cahtauqua County. Nine trees were toppled in the village, disrupting power to about 1,000 families for more than an hour. One tree damaged a porch roof extensively.

A trailer at Mt. Morris, Livingston County, was tipped over but two occupants suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Lightning caused about $5,000 damage when it struck a church steeple in Buffalo. Barn fires in North Tonawanda, Amherst, Marilla, Gowanda and little valley were blamed by firemen on lightning.

Near Lockport, Mrs. John F. Lederer of Saunders, Settlement Rd. was taking her three young children upstairs to bed when lightning struck the bedroom. It knocked out two windows and did about $500 damage but no one was injured.

Tree limbs were knocked down in widely-scattered areas of Wyoming, Livingston, Erie, Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties.

Gasoline fumes exploded, firemen said, in the basement of a Lackawanna home after a storm sewer was flooded by the downpour and gasoline seeped into the cellar. A woman was treated for minor injuries.

State Police who estimated the damage at the MacDougall fire, said it broke out in the frame structure after heavy lightning raked the area.

A mile away, at Fayette, another fire was discovered in an unoccupied house that was undergoing renovation. Some of the 200 firemen and 10 pieces of apparatus at the MacDougall fire were sent to Fayette. The brick and wood house was described as a total loss by Sheriff Kenneth Wayne, who placed the damage at $10,000.

New GOP Chief Speaks Out

'62 Gains Vital For '64: Miller

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new chairman of the Republican National Committee has this advice for anyone who might be interested in getting the party's 1964 presidential nomination:

"If we don't make gains at the local, state and congressional levels in 1962 then the 1964 nomination won't be worth a damn."

Remark Tells Much

The remark tells a lot about William E. Miller, 47-year-old Upstate New York congressman who was chosen today to head the GOP national organization.

They are the words of a brisk, blunt-talking practical politician, and that's just what Miller is. He is also slim, dark and articulate, with a bundle of energy he is prepared to spend freely to strengthen the Republican party.

He is only the second Roman Catholic to be named chairman in the party's history.

Miller, an orthodox Republican,

Not Committed

(I'm a Republican who loves his party," he says) regards Richard M. Nixon as the leader of the party for the orthodox reason that Nixon carried the party's banner last fall. But he says he isn't committed to the former vice president, or anyone else, as the party's 1964 presidential nominee.

"If I were I wouldn't take this job," he says.

In fact, Miller would like to see all presidential politics softpedaled for a while so he can concentrate on the 1962 off-year elections.

"We can't afford the luxury of division," he says. "We've got to build up our muscle by uniting to capture Republican victories in all states from the top offices down."

Dewey Gave Him Start

Miller, now in his sixth term in the House, is the fourth member of the House of Representatives to hold the party chairmanship and he takes over from another congressional colleague, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky.

Although some Republicans favored a full-time, salaried chairman, Miller is against paid chairmen.

Miller was given his start in politics by former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who appointed him district attorney of Niagara County in 1948. The young lawyer, a graduate of Notre Dame University and Albany, (N. Y.) Law School, had been an assistant prosecutor at the Nazi war criminals trial in Nurenberg, Germany.

He and his wife, the former Stephanie Wagner, are both natives of Lockport, N. Y., where Miller was born March 22, 1914. They now live on the shores of Lake Ontario in Olcott. They have two teen-age daughters and a 2-year-old son.

Meningitis Sweeps Khartoum, 7 Dead

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — An epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis is raging in Khartoum, along with a wave of 110-degree weather. The Public Health Department announced 104 cases and seven deaths have been reported.

Trujillo Accorded

news of the slaying had brought little show of shock. A few steel-helmeted infantrymen stood at street corners but otherwise there were no signs of unusual police or army activity.

The government—its outward composition unchanged because the generalissimo held no formal position in it—quickly pledged to carry on the domestic and foreign policies of the slain leader, especially "aid to the western democracies" and anti-Communist policies.

To Continue Policies

Extolling the dead dictator, it promised to adhere to his policy of nonintervention, "as well as invariable adhesion to the sentiments of friendship which the republic has always maintained for all nations of the free world."

All members of the government and leaders of all the armed forces signed the communique.

Rafael Jr. also was made a member of the cabinet as secretary of state without portfolio.

Retired Brig. Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, once a close collaborator with Trujillo, was called the leader of the band of killers. Widespread reports that he had an armed band of supporters in the mountains brought an official denial from the war department.

May Be In Mountains

Five other men were named as members of the assassin band. Informed sources said one or two of them have been captured or killed but some got away and were believed hiding in the mountains.

The savage mutiliation of Trujillo's body after he was killed was emphasized in the official version of the killing, possibly to create the impression it was a grudge murder.

The U.S. government kept to a wait-and-see policy on the Dominican Republic before deciding action it could take to swing the Caribbean country toward democracy.

Foreign policy makers in Washington said developments would show whether the carryover right-wing Dominican regime is likely to become more moderate or face overthrow — and then Washington will know better how to apply leverage.

A correspondent for the San Juan Star in Ciudad Trujillo said there were unconfirmed reports that Gen. Diaz is in one of the western provinces near the Haitian border with between 750 and 1,000 men.

A Dominican exile leader in Mexico City, Juan Romero Ulloa, said the band that killed Trujillo numbered about 30 men armed with submachineguns and side arms.

Romero said that Gen. Diaz had escaped to the mountains and is heading a revolution with from 1,000 to 2,000 well armed men.

Man on Roof Rescued

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of New Yorkers witnessed a skyscraper drama as police worked to rescue a man from atop a huge electric sign on the roof of the 32-story Hotel Manhattan Thursday night.

The man, an unemployed hotel houseman, walked back and forth atop the 80-foot sign. Passers-by looking up could see him and policemen silhouetted against the glow of lights.

Police finally got close enough to slap handcuffs on him and bring him to safety.

Taken to a hospital for observation, he identified himself as Sam Matosin, 26, of Hoboken, N.J. He said he is the father of five and has been unable to find a job.

Pacifist Is Jailed

DUNOON, Scotland (AP)—An English pacifist was sentenced today to 60 days in jail for interfering with the operation of the U.S. missile submarine base in Holy Loch. The demonstrators have been pestering the base for weeks.

The defendant was Terry Chandler, 20, of London. He admitted in court that he tried to obstruct the arrival of a section of floating dock. A British naval vessel plucked him out of a kayak as he paddled toward the section. He was charged with a breach of the peace.

NEW YORK (AP)—This city has a new king of the scofflaws.

He is Eugene Heil, 40. He received his title Thursday from Chief City Magistrate Abraham M. Bloch in the form of a $6,175 fine, a 60-day jail sentence, and the threat of an additional 600 days if he fails to pay the fines.

Heil, a textile salesman, disregarded 196 traffic summonses.

The previous scofflaw king had 187 tickets.

Dutchess Museum Sends WW1 Planes To Ohio Reunion

Col. James H. C. Palen, operator of the Old Rhinebeck Airodrome and museum, is shipping six airplanes of World War I vintage to a reunion next week of World War I pilots at the Wright-Patterson plant in Dayton, Ohio.

Col. Palen operates one of two museums in the country where the planes actually fly. His Rhinebeck museum features several planes of pre-World War I vintage which he is constantly rebuilding.

The six planes being shipped to the reunion, all of which are in flying condition, include a SPAD XIII, Nieuport, Model XI Bleriot, a Sopwith-Snipe and an Avro-Traverse of 1918 vintage.

The only other museum that has planes that still fly is in California, it was learned. In other museums, the planes are either suspended from ceilings or parked on the floor.

Col. Palen, a World War I pilot and aviation pioneer, is one of the best known men in the field. He has spent a lifetime collecting, rebuilding and displaying all types of planes that go back to the earliest models.

35 Split on Ordinance for Dogs . . .

been the Economy Party candidate for mayor, first to speak when Heitzman asked first to hear from the opposition felt that all dog owners should not be penalized because of what he considered a small percentage of irresponsible owners and offending dogs.

Thinks 100 Nuisances

Last night's "slim turnout" to Rider indicated that "apparently not too many were interested" in a dog ordinance. Of 2,300 dogs licensed in the city, he said, "perhaps 100 could be termed nuisances." He felt that children should be protected insofar as possible from the danger of dogbite, but he held that in instances "where we have nuisances, they almost always reflect the training of the master."

Rider said he realized there might be a need for an ordinance to control the minority, but proposed that the legislators consider the 2,200 dogs "who have created no problem." If there is to be an ordinance, he said, he would "like to see one with teeth in it," but one which would not penalize the 95 per cent who keep their dogs under control.

Kenneth Egan, of 52 German Street, the mailman, who said he had been bitten by dogs 11 times, indicated he would favor an ordinance if one could be properly enforced, but he felt that the police and the SPCA could not follow through.

Some Confused

Argument for an ordinance began soon after Egan talked, but because several came late, and a few apparently became confused as to procedure, the pro and con became involved in mixed argument and rebuttal about midway in the hearing which lasted about an hour.

Thomas W. Miller, of 72 Pine Street, administrative assistant at the state armory, spoke longest in support of an ordinance. He disapproved of dogs running freely and becoming a public nuisance, and favored a "sensible dog ordinance."

Miller said he felt that "some aldermen have attempted to make a joke" of the dog ordinance proposal, and he asked that they give it fair treatment. Even if only a few hundred dogs are allowed to run freely, he held, they are a health menace and cause other trouble.

Points to Danger

Dogs, he said, have the privilege of sidewalks instead of making use of a controlled area. Some owners disregard the rights of others and allow them to run free, and some "create filth" near public buildings, theatres, stores and elsewhere, and many are a danger to children, elderly persons, and those who might use canes in walking. He cited recent cases of dog bites and noted that a mailman reported at the hearing that he had been bitten 11 times.

They are also a hazard to automobile travel, he held, and too often, dog owners are inconsiderate and careless about the trouble they cause others.

Would Charge Owners

Joseph Schneider, of Henry Street, indicated he would like to see an ordinance that would place the responsibility for damage, annoyance and injury traced to dogs, placed with their owners.

"If a person wishes to enjoy his own property," he said, dogs running freely often make this impossible. Those who put babies outside their homes, have to be watchful of hazardous situations that could come from free-running dogs, and they are often a general property nuisance.

L. W. Short, of Court Avenue, told of damage done to a new lawn by two dogs, which were later picked up and confined by the SPCA. This sort of damage, he felt, however, should be considered in drafting a dog ordinance. He felt that dogs should not be "cooped up all day," but he believed they could be trained to stay on their own properties.

What About Pigeons?

Joseph O'Connell, of Washington Avenue, noted that "During the war dogs were heroes. Now they want to tie them up. Maybe they ought to put a curtain over the city and stop the pigeons."

Patrick Gallagher, of Lawrence Street, said he would like to see an ordinance with teeth in it. He also spoke as the sole objector at the first hearing dealing with the proposed Zoning ordinance amendment. He indicated after the latter that he was concerned with a provision in the ordinance that would cover unfavorable existing conditions which bring property value deterioration because of conditions imposed by others.

Officer Frank Stip, of the local police, favored an ordinance that would end the random running of dogs which result in the dirtying of sidewalks, and other nuisances such as the running of dogs out of alleys and snapping at people. Those who are real dog lovers, he said, should take care of their animals.

In answering a question about the city's connection with the SPCA, Alderman Heitzman, reported that the city is contracted to pick up stray dogs and other animals. The SPCA is also obliged to pick up wounded or dead animals. He said the SPCA was on duty about 24 hours a day, and they "do a good job." They have no control over licensed dogs.

W. N. Meyn, of Navara Street, complained of dogs running loose and barking in his area, and favored an ordinance.

Asks About Civil Action

Alderman Joseph F. Carroll Jr., (R) 11th Ward, wanted to know against whom civil action could be brought in the event of damage caused by an unlicensed dog. Heitzman said it would most likely be against the owner, and if there were no owner, it would be a question of having the dog picked up and impounded or destroyed.

Mike Basch, of 113 Hone Street, told of an instance in which the county compensated for such damage, and Heitzman read from a section of the State Agriculture and Market Law dealing with indemnification. It said in part that payment not to exceed $150 can be paid by a county for damage to horses or cattle and not above $10 for fowl.

Oppose Ordinance

Among those opposing an ordinance were Frank Spence, of 15 Staples Street, and Joseph Brennan, of Noone's Lane. The latter's contention that there appeared to be "irresponsible remarks" among proponents of the ordinance, stirred slightly heated reply.

One in the audience remarked that it was regrettable that the "irresponsible people" (those who let dogs run) were not at the hearing.

A speaker, who did not wish to be identified, noted that there are 23,000,000 dogs in the nation, and he felt that the bad ones could largely be considered isolated cases. He asked: "What about the many people killed by automobiles, and how about our juvenile delinquents."

Points to Owners

Another, unidentified, said if there is an ordinance it should pertain more to dog owners than "to man's best friend," who should be given consideration as such.

Heitzman read a letter from Harry Thayer, local radio newsman, who has advocated a dog ordinance, but who was unable to attend because of business in New York. Otherwise, he said, he would have attended, but would have been silent. Probably many, he wrote, "will never believe that I have any motive other than a vindictive one." Actually, he said, he was as interested as anyone in the safety and welfare of dogs.

W. L. Rider, near the end of the hearing, noted that there appeared to be "two general complaints." They were, he said, that dogs attack people and that they foul up property. As to dogs attacking, he said, some persons apparently frighten easily. Recalling that the mailman reported 11 dog bites, he said he hoped none was serious. He felt that the type problems mentioned would not be easly solved by an ordinance.

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, who with Heitzman and Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, serves on the dog ordinance committee, closed the hearing by thanking those attending. He said he hoped the aldermen would arrive at a satisfactory solution. Mayor Edwin F. Radel, he noted, had supplied the committee with 20 types of ordinances forwarded from the New York State Conference of Mayors.

The proposed zoning ordinance changes to facilitate city planning and urban renewal which were first given hearing involved such factors as "conformance of the proposed site development plan with such portions of the master plan of the city as may be in existence from time to time."

It also involves additional data which may be required, including typographical and developement data, and has to do with maximum safety traffic access and egress. In general, it emphasizes conformity with planning and urban renewal.

'Bomb' Holds Up Freedom Riders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a false bomb threat, seven more "Freedom Riders" sat in a white waiting room in Montgomery, Ala., today, then left 37 minutes late on a Trailways bus for Jackson, Miss.

Another group of seven was scheduled to depart for Jackson later.

Uniformed city police and sheriff's deputies kept a tight guard on the downtown bus station to prevent disorder. Some FBI men were seen in the terminal.

The four Negro and three white riders made no attempt to eat at the white lunch counter used by earlier groups of racially mixed segregation challengers.

An anonymous caller telephoned the terminal that a bomb had been put there shortly before the bus was scheduled to pull out. Police and firemen searching the building found nothing.

Numerous such threats have been made in Montgomery since racial violence broke out 13 days ago.

A spokesman for the Congress Of Racial Equality (CORE), who accompanied the first group to the bus station today, said two Negro women used the white restroom before leaving the terminal. There was no incident.

The CORE spokesman, Tom Gaither, identified those aboard the first bus as Charles Butler, 18, of Nashville, Tenn.; Joy Reagon, 19, of Nashville; Ruby Smith, 19, of Atlanta, and Lamar Alford, 18, all Negroes; and Joseph McDonald, 20, of New York; Price Chatham, 29, of East Rockaway, N.Y., and Ken Shilman, 18, of New York, all white.

The Justice Department awaited an answer to its demand for court action to protect riders from mobs.

Khrushchev is scheduled to arrive in Vienna this afternoon by train from Bratislavia, Czechoslovakia, where he has been conferring with Communist leaders of Czechoslovakia headed by party boss Antonin Novotny.

Kennedy Due Saturday

Kennedy arrives on Saturday morning by plane from Paris, and the two leaders will meet for lunch at the American ambassador's residence. Their first talk will follow, until late afternoon.

The talks Sunday will be held in the Soviet Embassy, continuing until two hours before the President takes off in the late afternoon for London.

Although Austrian sources said this week that Khrushchev had assured U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson he would not force a showdown over West Berlin during the first year or so of Kennedy's administration, Pravda today renewed the Soviet demand for an early peace treaty with Germany and indicated the Soviets would sign a treaty with their East German satellite any time they pleased.

The Soviet formula for Germany calls for immediate peace treaties with West and East Germany, withdrawal of the Western allies from West Berlin to leave it to a Communist-surrounded, undefended "free city, and reunification of Germany on terms giving Communist East Germany equal status with the larger and richer West Germany.

The Western formula calls for reunification of Germany by free elections in both parts of the country, elections in which the West and apparently the Soviets are sure the German Communists would be overwhelmed.

Social Security Account Number Card Is Important

When you change your address, you wouldn't think of carrying the same old house key along after you have made the change in residence, would you? Yet, according to George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security District Office, there are some married women who still carry the same old social security cards they had before they were wed. Some fail to make the changes months, or even years, after they have changed their names from Miss to Mrs.

The key to our social security record is your social security account number card. No one should have more than one social security number, yet it is possible to have more than one card under different names. Manager Johnson pointed out that in the interest of having all earnings properly credited to the proper account number, the Social Security Administration needs to know about changes in names whether it be because of marriage, divorce or other reasons. Women who marry and fail to report this change may experience delay when it is time to figure the social security benefits due them.

It is really a simple matter for a newly married woman to insure that her social security records are current and correct under the proper name and number. Manager Johnson advised that if you can, it is best if you bring your old social security card to the nearest social security office. The Kingston, N. Y. Office is located at 61 Albany Avenue and services all of Ulster and Sullivan Counties. Telephone Federal 8-7307. That office will issue you a new social security card with the same account number you had but your new name.

Over Goebbels' View

Feels Eichmann Should Have Halted Killings

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—The Israeli prosecution implied today that Adolf Eichmann should have stopped killing Jews because Joseph Goebbels in a public pronouncement said orders from superior officers did not justify "the murder of women and children" by Allied fliers who bombed German cities.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner introduced the Nazi propaganda minister's statement as evidence in Eichmann's trial, and defense counsel Robert Servatius objected that it had no bearing on his client's case. But presiding Judge Moshe Landau curtly overruled him.

Goebbels' declaration, published in the official Nazi newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, said captured fliers had forfeited all their rights "by their murder of the civilian population."

"The fliers can no more reply that they are soldiers and acted according to orders," said Goebbels. "Those orders are contrary to all human concept of warfare."

The attorney general said this official opinion of the Nazi regime "should work in both directions and must also be followed in the minds of every German. The accused himself said under interrogation, 'What would I do? These were orders (to exterminate Europe's Jews).' And yet here we read the words of his own government."

The prosecution also submitted a series of documents linking the Arab mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, to the Nazi persecution of the Jews.

The mufti was described as active in blocking of emigration of Jews to Palestine. The prosecution claimed he was the "man behind the scenes to prevent" British - American negotiations with Bulgaria and other Nazi-controlled countries in Southeast Europe for the emigration of 5,000 Jewish children.

The prosecution concluded the eighth week of the trial with documentary evidence, including Heinrich Himmler's speech to officers at Posen in 1943 in which he said: "The Jewish people will be exterminated. That is our goal."

Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Cpl. Vincent Yonta, killed in Korea eight years ago today, June 2, 1953.

We often think of you dear,
And then of how you died;
To think you could not say good bye
Before you closed your eyes;
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought your death was near;
But only those that have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.

TwoFromBroome Freed in Bribe For Auto License

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A man and a woman who pleaded guilty to a reduced charge in an alleged bribery attempt to get a driver's license restored have been freed with suspended sentences.

County Judge Martin Schenck suspended sentence Thursday after Adrian J. Rose, 48, a Binghamton contractor, and Miss Iva M. Apgar, 45, of Endicott, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of performing outrageous acts against the public.

A grand jury had indicted them on a charge of bribing a public official, a felony.

The two were arrested here March 17 after a clerk of the Motor Vehicle Department reported he was contacted in the alleged bribery attempt.

Police said Rose's license had been revoked and the two wanted someone in the department to remove Rose's driving record from the files so that he could apply for another license.

Publisher, Prison Reformer Dies; Lived at Auburn

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—Charles D. Osborne, newspaperman, politician and prison reformer, died at his home Thursday after an illness of three months. He was 72.

Osborne was publisher of the Auburn Citizen-Advertiser.

He began his newspaper career in 1913 as an editorial writer and editor of the Auburn Citizen, then owned by his father, the late Thomas M. Osborne.

Osborne a member of the Democratic State Committee from 1934 to 1948, was twice elected mayor of his native Auburn and served two terms as president of the New York State Mayors Conference.

Headed Probation Commission

He was chairman of the New York State Probation Commission from 1955 to 1959.

A bloody prison riot at Auburn State Prison occurred during Osborne's first term as mayor, 1927 to 1931. After the riot, in 1929, Osborne advocated better conditions for inmates and employment of able administrators.

In the newspaper field, Osborne was president of the New York State Associated Dailies in 1924. He had been active in the New York State Publishers Association.

Osborne became vice president and general manager of the Auburn Citizen in 1915. He succeeded his father as president of the newspaper in 1925.

The Citizen purchased the Auburn Advertiser-Journal, Republican paper, in 1919 and Osborne operated both papers.

In his first mayoral campaign, Osborne was supported by the Citizen and opposed by the Advertiser-Journal.

Osborne did not seek re-election as mayor but ran again in 1935 and was elected.

Merges Papers, Buys Radio

The two newspapers were merged in 1931 under Osborne's direction. The publishing company acquired Radio Station WMBO in 1936.

Osborne enlisted in the Third New York Infantry in 1916 and served on the Mexican border. He was a lieutenant with the 78th Division in France during World War I. He had been a captain in the New York National Guard and a colonel in the New York Guard.

Osborne was a graduate of Harvard College.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edith Wendell, and a daughter, Agnes Osborne Griswold of Wayne, Pa.

HELPING YOUR COUNTRY

We Americans who have been waiting for President Kennedy to tell us what we can do for our country now have a broad answer. Some will like it and some will not, but beyond doubt there's plenty in it to chew on.

One compact passage, set forth in what amounts to his second State of the Union message, translates into this practical list of do's and don't for a citizenry caught up in the struggle for freedom:

If you want your country first in space, first to the moon, first with rockets that may spell security in this missile age, pay your taxes without complaint. Don't cheat. And don't fuss if tax loopholes such as free and easy expense accounts should be closed off, as the President requests of Congress.

If you want to see the tide of communism resisted or turned back in wavering lands around the world, let your lawmakers know you favor sharing United States resources with those struggling countries.

Accept the evident fact that in space, on the defense line, on the economic front everywhere, the contest with communism will be long. Understand this—and be patient through all trials.

If you want home front society strengthened as a foundation for this country's efforts in the world struggle, take higher postal rates and higher payroll taxes as part of the price. Better services, schools, roads, hospitals cost more money.

You are asked, then, to pay up willingly. But you are urged also not to demand excessively. Don't seek unnecessary spending for your special benefit (like support for outmoded, useless defense bases).

If you're a businessman, don't hike prices at this time when high cost hampers so much vital effort. If you're a worker, don't push for big wage boosts, and don't strike in missile work or basic industries where delay penalizes us heavily in the great struggle.

If you're a farmer, keep your plantings of such surplus crops as wheat and corn within careful limits so we can reduce costly surpluses.

Young Americans, you are asked to take up military duty ungrudgingly if called, or to volunteer for the Peace Corps if qualified. Make yourself physically fit, as all too many are not today. Work for excellence that seems to elude us in our schools, for fuller grasp of science, mathematics, foreign languages, even English.

Adult Americans, support these efforts of the young by toiling locally for better schools, higher teachers' salaries. Get into government at all levels, even at a sacrifice to yourself. Join local Civil Defense efforts to enlarge our protection against attack.

Prove that democracy is better than communism by making it work, by making it not only economically productive but individually fruitful for all citizens in the full exercise of their human rights.

So now you've been told. If you don't like the President's list, get up one of your own. Just be sure you have the country in mind — not yourself. And do something about it.

SPINNING ON RED

Richard M. Nixon established the point, in his famous kitchen exchange with Nikita Khrushchev, that while the Russians might be ahead of us in rocketry we were ahead in color television. Technology marches on: it now appears that we're also ahead of the Russians in developing translucent red automobile tires.

That's not all. The tires come with built-in electric lights to glow in dazzling circles as you whiz through the night.

The advantages of this may not be immediately apparent except to teen-agers and those who retain a teen-age outlook on life. Kill-joys may even entertain the secret hope that the market for such tires will prove too weak for their profitable exploitation. To coin a new old saying: All is not good that glitters.

THE AMERICAN SYSTEM

George C. Lodge, Assistant Secretary of Labor for International Affairs, wrote a pamphlet entitled, "The Truth About the American Economic System." Like so many government documents, it is buried away. Nevertheless, I believe this to be about the best presentation I have seen of the American way of life—scholarly, objective, declarative.

Lodge seizes at the heart of the Communist opposition which is that monopoly capitalism is evil and that the United States is ruled by monopoly capitalism. He goes directly at Karl Marx, saying:

"Contrary to his predictions, our economic system has in fact proven to be a spectacularly effective means for the creation and just distribution of wealth. Arising from free business competition, among people enjoying political democracy, the American way has been and is more revolutionary than the state capitalism practiced today by the followers of Marxism-Leninism."

This is understandable language to the younger people not only in the new nations but among the older peoples who wonder what is happening to this crazy world. Lodge gives a sound, constructive answer. He discusses American capitalism with wisdom and pride. He says:

"The exploitative capitalism that Mr. Khrushchev boasts he will bury has long since died in the United States — if in fact it ever actually existed. We have produced instead the most effective and egalitarian social and economic system the world has yet known, and it is still evolving, providing an ever-widening distribution of wealth."

The pamphiet goes far to prove that George Lodge is correct and as I read this document, I wonder what the United States has done to give it circulation throughout the world. The weak and backward peoples usually explain their own inabilities by pointing to the wealth and natural resources of this country. In a word, we are a product of good luck. George Lodge has another explanation:

"Great quantities of valuable and widely diversified natural resources are within our national boundaries. We have never been subject to the terrific strains of overpopulation. Generally we have always had enough to eat. But many other nations, too, have had an abundance of resources and yet failed to realize the potential of this wealth in terms of raising the living standard of their people. Our great strength may well be the fact that we never had to suffer the feudal system; that through political democracy achieved early in our national history and through universal suffrage we have been able to control the growth of our economy in the interests of all of our people."

In this pamphlet, succinctly written, is one of the clearest explanations of the American corporation I have seen anywhere.

". . . the development of the professionally managed American corporation which replaced individual or family owners and tycoons and moguls, interested only in building personal fortunes. More than half of the output of American factories and mines is today produced by about 500 corporations. Were these the possession of 500 families or individuals we would probably be suffering from exploitative capitalism. But they are not. The economic power of the corporations is widely distributed and becoming steadily more the possession of the many rather than the few. Actually our corporations have about 12,500,000 direct stockholders. Even more important, a large and growing amount of their stock is held by institutions, pension trusts, insurance companies, mutual funds, etc. Probably 50 million Americans receive a share of the profits of the 500 corporations through investment in these institutions."

From this standpoint, the American corporation is a public rather than a private enterprise. The managers are not owners. They are professionals, functioning by systems and rules which build wealth and provide profits. Management now usually comes out of the work force. As Lodge says:

"The American worker has never thought of himself as a member of the oppressed proletariat. Through his union he has become an equal partner in the labor-management relationship and bargains collectively normally without the intervention of government to secure a just share of the fruits of his labor. His union also protects the American worker's security in his job and his promotion rights. It enables him to determine jointly with management the conditions under which he works. . . ."

The American system is unique because it is conceived in freedom. As long as it remains a free system, it will survive. And that — freedom — is the problem of our era.

★ The Doctor Says ★

Shun These Practices If Abdomen Acts Up

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In preceding columns we've discussed some of the common causes for bellyache and what you can do to obtain relief through simple measures for self-treatment.

Now, before suggesting what you can do to help your doctor help you, we'd like to warn you of the dangers that may accompany or follow self-treatment that is ill advised, over-enthusiastic or unduly prolonged.

Do not resort to local use of ice or an icebag with the idea of "freezing the infection" (appendicitis). The temperature within the abdominal compartment is not influenced by external applications, whether of heat or of cold. And freezing the skin may invite complications if an operation has to be performed through the frozen area.

Do not take or give any medication other than aspirin or a related product. A powerful pain killer, such as an opiate, may mask symptoms with a resultant delay in seeking and obtaining proper treatment; a dose of a strong purgative may produce complications such as a peritonitis due to bursting of the appendix.

Do not continue taking a cortical steroid if you have been taking regular doses for some unrelated condition. Cortical steroids possess an anti-inflammatory reaction that may mask localizing pain and favor perforation of an ulcer with resultant peritonitis.

Do not assume the responsibility of home treatment if the attack of abdominal pain is the first of its kind. If it is severe and/or persistent, if it is accompanied by fever or any other manifestation suggestive of serious illness and/or if it fails to respond promptly to measures previously detailed.

To help your doctor help you, be prepared to give accurate and concise details pertinent to the attack.

These include an account of events immediately preceding attack, a description of previous attacks and their responses to treatment, findings and procedures at previous abdominal operations, especially as to removal of the appendix, changes in appetite, eating habits, bowel movements, urination and the appearance of stools and urine, dates of last and next expected menstrual periods, etc. And, don't forget to provide specimens of urine and stool, collected during and/or immediately after the attack.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—When President Jack (The Giant Killer) Kennedy sits down in Vienna June 2 for his friendly little game of stud poker with Nikita (Big Boy) Khrushchev, the face-up cards on the table will show marked contrast.

THE RUSSIAN'S hand shows definite strength. Over the past five months he has been doing the dealing and there is even some indication that the deck has been stacked.

1. In his January 6 speech in Moscow, Khrushchev laid down the Communist program for international conduct.

He is for complete disarmament, on his terms.

He is for peaceful coexistence, also on his terms.

What these things mean is that he doesn't want a general war. He also doesn't want limited wars which might grow into general wars. But he is all in favor of "wars of liberation," which means any form of revolution the Communists seek to promote, like those in Cuba and Laos.

2. In presentations at the United Nations, at the Geneva conference on nuclear test bans and in the other Geneva conference of 14 nations on Laos, Khrushchev's ambassadors have insisted on three-way—Communist, free world and neutral—control of everything, with a built-in Russian veto to stop anything they don't like.

3. For the past three years Khrushchev has been threatening to make a separate peace treaty with East Germany and make Berlin, as its capital, a "free city"—meaning that the U. S., British and French forces would have to get out.

Those are three pretty tough show cards to beat.

1. THE PRINCIPAL Kennedy show card is in his May 25 second State of the Union message to Congress. The President issued a challenge to the Communists in the battle for men's minds. To counter Khrushchev's threat to back revolutionary "wars of liberation," Kennedy set forth his "Doctrine of Freedom." It would develop U. S. armed forces to fight these "sub-limited wars" and "assist the peoples of the less-developed nations to reach their goals . . . before they are engulfed in crisis" by communism. By contrast, the other Kennedy show cards are not so good:

2. Early in his administration, President Kennedy decided to liquidate the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency-trained-and-directed Cuban invasion attempt by anti-Castro rebels. Later that decision was reversed. The resulting operation was a failure that has made the U. S. look bad all over the world.

3. In Laos the United States aid effort — though not yet a complete defeat — has been subverted by Communist infiltration and the U. S. diplomatic effort has been thwarted again at the second Geneva conference of 14 nations.

After both the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk said they would not negotiate under existing conditions they have done so, to their loss.

BUT IN ALL GAMES OF STUD POKER, it is the hole cards that often count the most and determine who wins the hand.

The American cards that are face down might as well be face up, for they are well known to the whole world.

1. The superior strength of the American economy with its vaster resources, greater wealth and huge military potential is enough to make anyone who seeks to challenge it hesitate.

2. This American hole card is backed by another ace in the resources of free world allies and their great strength.

THE KHRUSHCHEV HOLE CARDS, BY CONTRAST, are really face down. For nobody on the outside really knows what goes on inside the Kremlin and its secrets are well kept. But two possible Russian hole cards are worthy of consideration.

1. Confident over the successes of Communism in Cuba and Southeast Asia, cocky over their triumphs in the sapce race, the Russians may feel they are now in a superior position to push harder than ever for their demands.

The question is:

How far will the Soviet union go in using its power at this time? In other words, how much will Khrushchev bet on his own hand?

2. Equally as important is the other hole card in the Russian hand, which is a king—Khrushchev himself. It is pure speculation to try to interpret his present mood — whether he is aggressive or conciliatory, hostile as he was to President Eisenhower or friendly as he says he wants to be with Kennedy.

The answer to that will come only when the poker game begins at Geneva.

Ike's Attack on Democrats Called Sound, Penetrating

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 1—It's always a significant event when spokesmen of the party out of power give their size-up of what the party in power is doing.

Former President Eisenhower's remarks at the testimonial dinner here honoring Republican members of Congress tell at least what the chief executive who left office a little more than four months ago thinks of the succeeding Administration. Mr. Eisenhower used the implicit rather than the explicit style of expression, but it was not difficult to discern his meaning.

Many people, as a matter of fact, who supported the Republican ticket have been wondering why the Republicans in Congress have not been more vocal and more pointed in their criticisms. The speech of former President Eisenhower was dignified but nonetheless penetrating. Here is a passage, for instance, where the inference is clear, though the words are restrained:

"I was proud when, in recent crises, members of our party did not attempt to criticize, condemn or belittle those in authority. This we did even though some seemed disposed falsely to blame. us. We did not scurry about in search of a 'scapegoat.' We decry anyone's efforts to do so. Here I pay my personal tribute to the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, all the members of which body I have known long and well. It is my conviction that America possesses no group of men more dedicated, more patriotic and more capable in meeting grave responsibility."

Unwise to Weaken Trust

The reference undoubtedly was to press reports recently that President Kennedy has been passing the buck to the Joint Chiefs for the fiasco of the "invasion" of Cuba, though it is well known that they were not given responsibility for the conduct of the operation. The implication is plain that Mr. Eisenhower thinks it was unwise for the present Administration to start blaming the military chiefs and thus tend to weaken public confidence in them.

It was in domestic affairs generally, however, that the former President expressed his most vehment criticism. He said:

"What, exactly, do we stand for here at home? We Republicans see Mr. American in his high station as a free, self-reliant, proud individual. We are convinced that he can plan his own life and spend his own money better than some possibly benevolent bureaucrat can in his behalf. Any action that weakens any citizen's selfrespect is wrong. That is the reason we oppose the ever-increasing concentration of power in Washington.

Government Can Rob, Too

"All agree it is criminal for one man to steal from another. But over-powerful government can rob the individual just as surely—only the scale is grander, the stakes are greater, and the loss far more tragic. For what is stolen by paternalistic government is that precious compound of initiative, independence and self-respect that distinguishes a man from the mob, a person from a number, a freeman from the slave . . .

"We Republicans take our stand for the individual! . . .

"We will not barter local and state responsibility for centralization, nor will we trade a little government intervention for a little handout.

"We consider it sheer arrogance to believe that people in government know better for the people than they know for themselves.

Opposed to Coercion

"We are, therefore, against programs that would substitute coercion for co-operation. The new farm proposals, creating an agricultural czar, are a case in point.

"We are against programs that erode away citizen, local and state self-reliance. Federal payment of teachers' salaries—as distinguished from needed construction—is a case in point.

"We are against the insulting concept of government by Big Brother. Excessive public housing, rampart public power, Federalized youth programs are cases in point.

Responsible Progress

"But as we fight the unwise, we Republicans proudly stand for positive programs in every area of public concern. We have long stood for advances in such programs as education, agriculture, minimum wage, medical care and area redevelopment. But here is the great difference—our Republican watchword is 'responsible progress' . . .

"I look in vain, and with deep concern, for fiscal responsibility today in the public affairs. As I note the mounting expenditures, I often think how easy it is to buy things when you're spending the other fellow's money. That this must stop is one of the things that a strong, unified Republican party should be teaching and preaching — and, so doing, can stop."

Mr. Eisenhower cautioned against friction within the party when members begin to "choose up sides" for 1964's Presidential election. He urged party harmony and a "combined voice" by its leaders and would-be candidates.

On the whole, Mr. Eisenhower gave his party some good advice, but he might have selected and emphasized above all else one issue—the inflation that, unless checked, will make the dollar worth less and less as the prices of almost everything rise due to excessive spending by the Federal government. That's what may affect the next election more than any other issue.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

It has been about 10 years since a hot-eyed reporter-columnist of the same name as mine raised a wild outcry against criminal practices of unions in the war-effort racket by collusion of the Roosevelt Administration and the American Federation of Labor and the CIO. From Cape Cod to San Diego, from Kansas City to New York, hither and yon, this frantic nuisance yowled and squawked. He squawked about the overtime racket, the fee and permit racket, the compulsory insurance racket and the extortion of billions of dollars. Unskilled strangers were fired off their jobs as soon as their exorbitant initiation fees were paid off by installments and replaced by other faceless gullibles on the same terms. Jobs were sold and deferment from the military draft was an authorized union concession.

This is not to say "I told you so," although I did tell you so a thousand times.

The occasion for this reminder is the disclosure that at Cape Canaveral the "missile gap" was aggravated and exploited by typical greedy, licensed union racketeers of the Democratic Party's constituency. The graft and sabotage were so flagrant that Senator McClellan, a negative man, finally was moved to say that the government had been bilked. Bilked, he said—a loud word, coming from him. There was at the moment a dramatic contrast between the vermin of "labor" and the sublime character of the young officer who had just made our first flight from Canaveral into space and back.

All the rackets of the 'forties were complicated with patriotism and the material of treason. Draft boards were warning men to get out of "non-esstetial" jobs and into the "wah effawt." And racketeers bestrode the roads to the plants selling permits without which they were barred from war jobs and sent to the Army. Union officials wrote their own deferments. It was a vile arrangement but only a minor phase of a colossal wrong. Yet, the good people, the people who did the fighting, could not arouse their moral fury. Hitler was monstrous, and the dictatorship of Brown Shirts over human beings an evil to be fought to death in Europe. But the wild mobs of the UAW under the Reuthers at home were democracy in action.

In 1944, Roosevelt touched off his campaign against Tom Dewey with an oration that fittingly insulted American ethics and intelligence, and two young combat naval officers were beaten up by drunken henchmen of the Teamsters Union for expressing disgust. Public revulsion was only momentary.

Ever since, for all the palaver about Taft-Hartley and other diversions, the Democratic party, with Republican acquiescence, has refused to correct the defects in government rather than any lack of law that permits canaverals and all such enormities.

There were 15,000 strikes in the "Wah Effawt," costing lives in battle and taxes in needless expense beyond any computer's power to guess. This was so although Kennedy's party had given the rackets a closed shop monopoly in exchange for a promise not to strike.

The election returns did not expunge the Kennedy brothers' protective attitude toward the corrupt nature of some unions throughout the McClellan hearings and in the concurrent futile efforts of a few decent Americans, notably Sen. Barry Goldwater, to bring the jackals to heel.

But meanwhile, popular conduct, first observed in Goldwater's own Arizona, is beginning to show an independent mind repudiating the established forms of unionism.

Some new body of labor is beginning to stir in the womb of political evolution.

In the Arizona state convention of the AFL-CIO, formal admission came from the rostrum that membership in all unions throughout the state had dropped one per cent in a year.

In Michigan but for compulsion and the power of Kennedy's national and state machines, the decline easily could have been greater.

Tragedy Mars 'New Start'

Mother, 2 Children Lose Lives in Crash

PRATT, Kan. (AP)—Dr. Zane Gard's bright new start in life, after nine years of scrimping through school, turned to tragedy in an instant Thursday night. A big truck smashed into a station wagon carrying his wife and their five children.

Mrs. Gard was killed, along with two of the children and her father, Herbert Weseman of Mountain View, Calif. The other three children were hurt but in satisfactory condition. Three men in the big tractor-trailer truck were treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

Dr. Gard received his degree Wednesday night from the Kansas City College of Osteopathy. He and his family and his wife's parents set out about noon Thursday for Phoenix, Ariz., where he was to begin an internship at the Phoenix General Hospital.

Dr. Gard drove the station wagon 268 miles from Kansas City to Pratt, pulling a four-wheeled trailer loaded with household goods. He developed a headache. Weseman took the wheel of the station wagon. Dr. Gard shifted to a car carrying Mrs. Weseman and another Mountain View couple, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mast.

About five miles west of Pratt on U.S. 54, the trailer started whipping crazily behind the station wagon. Investigators said gusty winds may have caused it to jerk the station wagon across the highway into the path of the truck.

Dr. Gard rushed to the wreckage and picked his way from one to another of his loved ones. Becky, 4, died in his arms. Mrs. Gard, Larry, 11, and Weseman were dead in a few moments. Mrs. Gard was 28, her father 57.

Zane and Yvonne Gard were married 12 years ago when they were 16 and moved from California to Kansas City about 1955. Zane drove cabs and worked at other jobs while he studied at the University of Kansas City and the College of Osteopathy.

Tillson Firemen Quench Mattress; Smoke Fells One

Prompt action by Tillson Fire Department under direction of Chief Kenneth Gordon averted a serious fire at the Harold O'Bryne home on River Road, Tillson early this morning.

Anthony DeSanto, who is building a house next to the O'Bryne home, was sleeping in an upstairs room of the O'Bryne home and was awakened by heavy smoke about 3:30 a. m. He gave the alarm. DeSanto was overcome by smoke before he could leave the house and was brought to Kingston Hospital by Moylan's Ambulance, Rosendale, where he was treated and later discharged.

Mrs. O'Bryne and her six children left the house without incident.

When firemen arrived they found heavy smoke from a fire smouldering in a mattress on a bed in a sun porch. Flames had just communicated to the floor but were quickly brought under control. Streams from a 1½ inch hose were used. Damage to the room was slight, Chief Gordon reported.

Mutual Aid Fire Control Center was notified but no additional equipment was dispatched to the scene.

Po'keepsie Man Found Hanging From Ceiling

A 57-year-old Poughkeepsie man employed by the New York Telephone Company was found by his nephew Thursday morning hanging in the cellar of his home on Violet Avenue.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's office identified the man as William O. Pells who was on vacation at the time.

A tentative verdict of suicide by strangulation was issued by the Dutchess County medical examiner pending an inquest.

Pells was found by his nephew, Gordon Daley of Pleasant Valley, who had come to the home to do some work. Pell's wife had been in a Poughkeepsie hospital for several days, it was reported.

Brooklyn Youths Held for Thefts At Resort Hotel

Three 19-year-old Brooklyn youths were picked up by town of Fallsburgh police, Sullivan County, Thursday afternoon on charges of burglary third degree involving theft of two transistor radios from a South Fallsburgh hotel.

They also admitted entering the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville, and hotels in Loch Sheldrake and Liberty, but reportedly took nothing.

Committed to the Sullivan County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail apiece were Richard J. Yarczower, Aaron Finkelstein and Howard J. Koppel.

Town of Fallsburgh police told The Freeman that the three men admitted taking two transistor radios from two different guest rooms at the Windsor Hotel, South Fallsburgh. The radios were later found in a trash basket in a wash room in the hotel.

About 4 p. m. police received a call from the proprietor of the Windsor Hotel reporting three suspicious looking youths on the grounds. Shortly thereafter the theft of the two radios was reported. Town police moved in. Assisting were Ferndale State Police. The case was adjourned by the magistrate to June 8.

Boy Fractures Leg in Ball Game, Other Hurt by Car

A local boy suffered a leg fracture in a base slide in a baseball game off West Chestnut Street Thursday and another suffered injuries in a traffic mishap on Hudson Street.

James A. Gardner, 13, of 58 Linderman Avenue, injured in the ball game, was reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital. A police report at 8:10 p. m., noted the mishap, and said the boy was taken to the hospital in a Fatum ambulance.

Wesley George Grant, 6, of 97 Hudson Street, who was injured in contact with an automobile, suffered ankle, back and head injuries, a police report at 4:10 p. m., said. He was also taken by Fatum ambulance to the Benedictine where his condition was reported today as "good."

The car, owned by Betty G. McCaffery, of Box 6, Rifton, was driven by Robert Kenneth McCaffery, 28, of the same address. Officers John Crespino and Richard Dempsey, with Sgt. Julius Glassman and Detective Gurnsey Burger, investigated.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices continued mixed early this afternoon as Wall Street kept a wary eye on the coming Kennedy - Khrushchev conference. Trading was slow.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 249.50 with industrials up .30, rails off .20 and utilities off .10.

Changes were fractional among most key stocks but coppers were soft in continued response to the cut in copper scrap prices. Some of the copper shares fell more than a point.

Motors, drugs and mail order-retail stocks were steady to a bit higher. Chemicals, steels and oils were mixed.

As coppers beat a retreat, Anaconda was down 1⅝, International Nickel 1⅜. Kennecott, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge took fractional losses.

Motors responded only slightly to news of bigger production.

Lockheed was off about a point. Other aircrafts were moderately lower.

Just With Jackie

PARIS (AP)—President Kennedy deadpanned his own introduction today at a press club luncheon.

After formal presentation, the U.S. President arose, faced the audience and said:

"I do not feel that it is inappropriate for me to introduce myself. I am the man who accompanied Jacqueline Kennedy into Paris."

arrived this morning from Washington; Soviet Affairs expert Charles Bohlen and Foy Kohler of the State Department; James M. Gavin, the U.S. ambassador to France; French Premier Michel Debre; Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and other high-ranking French advisers.

Previously the two presidents had conferred with only interpreters present.

The U. S. President flies to Vienna Saturday for a two-day conference with the Soviet leader. He intends to emphasize to Khrushchev that the Western Allies want to improve East-West relations and to negotiate a disarmament agreement but are fully determined not to yield to Communist threats or pressures on West Berlin or any other disputed point.

Kennedy's final policy session with De Gaulle was a two-hour morning meeting at the Elysee Palace. Their main subject for this session was the North Atlantic Alliance, about which the French and U. S. Presidents are known to hold some sharply different views.

Meanwhile, a top team of U. S. diplomatic advisers gathered in Paris to accompany Kennedy to Vienna. Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew from Washington. Llewellyn Thompson, the ambassador to Moscow, arrived late Thursday. Roving Ambassador Averell Harriman, the U. S. delegate to the Geneva conference on Laos, was due this afternoon.

Both Are Pleased

U. S. and French officials said Kennedy and De Gaulle were very pleased with the results of their talks. Diplomats reported that the 70-year-old French president obviously was favorably impressed with his 44-year-old ally. Already their spokesmen have announced agreement on Berlin policy.

It was understood the two leaders decided Kennedy would make clear to Khrushchev that the Western powers will protect West Berlin and defend fully their rights of access to the city across Communist East Germany.

The spokesmen reported Kennedy and De Gaulle discussed political and economic problems of Latin America and Africa at their sessions Thursday.

The U. S. President was believed to have expressed the hope that France would work for a larger European role in assisting the Latin-American countries to raise their living standards.

It was also believed he assured De Gaulle that the United States, contrary to some French fears, has no intention of expanding its own influence in Africa at the expense of French interests there.

Kennedy has also spoken more than his predecessors, Presidents Eisenhower and Truman, about a necessity for the Atlantic allies to accept global responsibilities—a concept that in principle at least would seem to appeal to De Gaulle.

Social Life, Too

The social side of the Kennedy visit reached its climax Thursday night with a resplendent banquet in the historic Hall of Mirrors at the Palace of Versailles, followed by a gala ballet performance for some 600 guests in the palace's Louis XV theater.

At the dinner, Mrs. Kennedy paid a surprise tribute of her own to France, wearing a white silk gown and matching coat created for her by Paris designer Hubert de Givenchy. Advance word on her wardrobe had been that she would wear only American fashions during her visit; and the presence of the new Paris creation in her luggage had been a closely guarded secret.

Hitchhiker Awaits Hearing at Catskill

Clarence Tompkins, 29, who said he resides at a hotel in Saugerties, is being held by Leeds troopers for a hearing Monday 6 p. m. before Justice of the Peace Arthur Webster on a disorderly conduct charge. Bail was set at $25.

Troopers A. J. Petersen and A. P. Johnson arrested Tompkins while he was hitchhiking on Route 9W Wednesday at 9 p. m. State police said he refused to identify himself.

al contest was to do as well as his brother," smiled Capehart. "Quite frankly, we had no idea that this would happen."

What happened was that John, as cool as a prarie night, zipped through 24 rounds of words like "ochlocracy" and "propitiatory" before spelling down Mary Lukes, 12, Oxnard, Calif., for the championship.

After Mary fumbled on "distichous" by making it "dictychous" John spelled it correctly, then wrapped up the title by reeling off "smaragdine" without even waiting to hear it defined. It means of or pertaining to emerald. "Distichous" means arranged in two vertical rows.

He's Going to Bank

John said he'll bank most of the $1,000 first prize.

This and other awards will be presented tonight at a banquet winding up the contest sponsored by Scripps-Howard Newspapers in 18 cities and 54 other newspapers and radio and television stations.

He also won a trophy cup, a ruby-studded medal, a trip to New York and a plaque for his school.

Mary Lukes won $500 as runner-up and Karen Grimm, 13, of Reisterstown, Md., got $250 for third. There also were five $100 prizes, 10 worth $75 each, and $50 for each of the other contestants.

Stolen Bicycle Recovered

John Lee Harris, 20, an employe of the Avon Lodge, South Fallsburgh, quit his job Thursday night but took the proprietor's bicycle when he left the premises, according to the town of Fallsburgh police. He was picked up about 2:30 a. m. today riding the bicycle through the streets of South Fallsburgh. He entered a plea of guilty to a charge of petit larceny upon arraignment and was sentenced to 15 days in the Sullivan County jail.

to be enjoying it as the Republican audience rewarded him with 52 applause interruptions. This was more than he ever got with a State of the Union address in eight years.

The former President, appearing heavier, tanned and fit, said Kennedy carries "the hopeful and sympathetic goodwill of all loyal Americans, regardless of party" into his foreign policy moves, especially his forthcoming meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

"History will judge the wisdom of his efforts," Eisenhower said. "But we cannot allow, today, the nation's basic unity of purpose to be in doubt."

Although he avoided any mention of the Cuban invasion fiasco, the former President went out of his way to praise the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The military leaders have been under fire for the role they played as advisors in the invasion.

Without putting it in as many words, Eisenhower implied criticism of the handling of the Cuban crisis by citing some of his own more successful experiences. Observing that Republicans stand ready to consult and advise, he added: "We have had some experience in careful and effective planning. In Iran, off Formosa, in Viet Nam, in Lebanon, in Guatemala and elsewhere we have known — and met — similar crises."

company because three employes were "fired" for what he claims was union activity.

He remarked that a spokesman for the 28-year-old company told him nobody was going to tell him how to run his business.

Griesi said two of those dismissed had worked for the concern 14 years, Clifford Cole and Joseph Hutton. The third was a woman, Miss J. Crawford. They were told that there was no work for them, the union man said, but "we understand two new employes were hired."

In saying that the union intends to file charges of unfair labor practices, Griesi stressed that "we intend to ask for their reinstatement with pay for time lost."

Cole and Miss Crawford were dismissed last week Thursday, Griesi said, and Hutton on Friday.

The company pays $1.10 an hour, Griesi said, which he considered substandard for the area, and criticized what he termed dusty conditions in the plant which reclaims grain bags.

He said the union intends to ask for an adjustment on pay, working conditions, and for other benefits including hospitalization.

Griesi said the petition for a union election would be filed today with the Buffalo office of the National Labor Relations Board.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Air Freight Issues OK If Risk Is Allowed

Q) "What do you think of the prospects for the air freight business over the next few years? Would I be taking on too much risk by investing in the industry? R.D.

A) I believe that the air freight industry as a whole could turn in a fine performance over the next few years. If this is to happen, though, several factors will first have to come into play.

A significantly lower rate structure will be necessary for larger, more profitable operations. One current projection shows that, with rate cuts, domestic air freight volume could rise a dramatic five-fold by 1965, and international volume could grown at an even faster pace.

Another requirement for success will be improved efficiently. To some extent this has already begun with the placing of orders by several cargo lines for Canadair Ltd.'s CL-44 turboprop, a faster, longer range plane with substantially more cargo room and lower operating costs than the carriers currently in use.

Two stocks which have a specialized interest in air freight are Flying Tiger and Emery Air Freight, the latter involved only in the handling of air freight. Although both of these issues are speculative, I think they have a good potential and can be bought moderately in accounts where some risk can be assumed. Of the two, my own preference is for Emery Air Freight, which has shown a more consistent earnings pattern.

Q) "I am 74 years old and still actively engaged in my own business. I would like to invest, not speculate, and would consider a good growth stock. I am anxious to safeguard my money against inflation." M.D.

A) Good growth utility stocks would, I believe, be your best answer. These will provide an adequate inflation hedge without subjecting your capital to undue risk. Montana Power (NYSE), Northern Indiana Public Service (MSE), Long Island Lighting (NYSE), and Orange & Rockland (NYSE) are all quite suitable for your particular needs.

Authorize Start on School Plans for a good functioning school." There are some piles of quarried rock which were deposited at the site in the past. Where necessary such rocks will be removed.

Walls of the board offices in the high school were covered with drawings and plans for the proposed 1,200-pupil junior high school which would house grades 7 through 9.

George Schneider, chairman of the building committee, moved that the architects be authorized to proceed with preparation of final plans. The motion was seconded by Benson A. Kom.

May Bid in September

Schneider said that final plans for the junior high school should be ready to go for bid in September.

The proposed junior high school will be one-story in part, the remainder of two-story design, fitting the contours of the slope on which it will be placed. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 650.

Kirkman said the National Board of Fire Underwriters conducted tests last year at Schools 3 and 4 which indicated that the water pressure there is inadequate for sprinklers. He also consulted with Edmund Cloonan who heads the city water department.

Kirkman told the board that a new trunk main would have to be installed, at a prohibitive cost of perhaps $30,000 to $40,000. The schools are scheduled for replacement in the foreseeable future.

Recommends Detectors

He recommended smoke detection systems in the two schools, which could be installed without changing the budgeted amount. At its last meeting the board voted to sprinklerize the two schools. Smoke detection is the only practical solution under the circumstances, Kirkman stated.

Howard Fox suggested that the board communicate with the water department in connection with the water situation in that section of the city. Andrew T. Gilday said he felt the board should "get ourselves on record" what would be done in case of a fire in one of those schools.

It was pointed out that water would have to be pumped in. An adequate water situation in that area will come with urban renewal, it was explained.

Kirkman asked for permission to proceed immediately, before school is out, running underground piping at Schools 5, 6, 7 and 8. He explained that in some cases the pipe will be run through the school yard. The board felt that work should be started and that safeguards could be established to prevent pupils from having accidents. The work will also be insured for liability, thus protecting the contractor and the board.

Advises Central Kitchen

John Mason, a special consultant on cafeterias, presented a report in which he recommended installation of a central kitchen in the proposed junior high school, indicating that it will be less costly than having a kitchen in each school and will provide a pleasing and adequate lunch program for the children.

Under the plan Kingston High School would continue to serve Schools 2 through 8 in the city.

John Johnson, school cafeteria manager, pointed out that the biggest saving under the central commissary plan would be in payroll.

Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, a member of the board, said the plan appeared to offer opportunity for a substantial saving and that she has heard good reports on the quality of food, that children in elementary schools are enjoying the roast beef, turkey, etc., now available to them through the high school commissary.

Cost Discussed

Mason presented a cost analysis which indicated that the capital expenditure for the central kitchen in the new junior high would be $61,714.

Cost of equipment for the "satellite" kitchen would be $33,000, he said, with an approximate value of equipment estimated at $133,000. From this amount, however, can be subtracted the value of new and old equipment which would be reused ($47,000) and the salvage and refund values of old and new equipment ($24,286).

Murphy said that if the board doesn't go on the central kitchen plan the cost of installing additional kitchens in each school would come to approximately $94,000, plus equipment which would raise the figure to about $159,000. Subtracting from this the cost of installing the central kitchen in the junior high would still leave about $100,000 which would be saved, he said.

Three Disappointed

Schneider moved that the board include a central kitchen in plans for the junior high. It was seconded by Mrs. Connelly and adopted unanimously, although Fox, Gilday and Krom suggested that they were disappointed not to have received the report earlier in order to give it more study.

A report was also presented containing details of a survey by a geological firm of the Hasbrouck Park site for an elementary school.

There was no report of any "slippages" or faulting in the underlying rock mass. Core borings indicate some holes, or cavities, in the limestone but not large enough to cause slippages.

It is felt that the board would be safe in proceeding with negotiations for acquisition of the site. The board directed that copies of the geological report be sent to members of the planning commission and Common Council.

Mrs. Connelly reported briefly on her recent attendance at the National School Boards Association Conference in Philadelphia, Pa., saying that there was much stimulating discussion. Theme of the conference was "How to Finance Public Education."

Takes Pride in Handbook

It was also indicated at the conference that there is a national emphasis on handbooks of rules and regulations for school systems, she told the board. She felt a certain pride, she said, in the fact that the Kingston School District adopted such a handbook several years ago. Mrs. Connelly was the guiding spirit in its formulation, this reporter recalls.

Mrs. Connelly said the conference split on the question of federal aid to education, with the majority opposed to it, feeling that it would create a monster which would encroach more and more on local control.

The board approved salary increments for Mrs. Dorothy Thiel, Harry W. Mahood and Veronica Corcoran for additional graduate studies.

Amesse Not Very

later told him, "A girl just jumped off the bridge."

The state contends Amesse pushed the girl from the bridge after learning of her pregnancy. The defense has called attention to a suicide pact note left by the girl and claims that she fulfilled the pact while Amesse did not.

Lutherans Back Non-Violent Freedom Riders

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The United Lutheran Synod of New York and New England backs efforts of Freedom Riders to end racial segregation in public transportation "through non-violent techniques."

Delegates to the synod's convention adopted a resolution yesterday that offered "warm and symoathetic support."

The resolution did not mention Freedom Riders specifically. However, groups of white and Negro Freedom Riders traveling through the South on buses and trains have practiced non-violent opposition to segregation regulations in force in Southern states.

The 700 delegates to the convention voted a 13 per cent increase in the synod's budget, bringing the total to $2.3 million. Of the total, the United Lutheran Church of America will receive $1.3 million. The balance will be used within the synod.

A resolution asking the Lutheran Church in America to consider forming additional synods in New York State was defeated, 181-168.

The three-day convention ended yesterday.

"OUR 28th YEAR"

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

HEAL THYSELF, UNCLE

It is accepted doctrine in Washington today that our public school education has failed to prepare us for the kind of world we live in. Therefore, Uncle must take charge.

At long last, it is now believed that schools should teach kids to think hard rather than to dance,—in particular, the children who have the capacity to think hard.

It has occurred to us, since Sputnik, that college freshmen should at least be equipped to read, write, spell and understand words of more than one or two syllables, when such words happen along.

I agree. But during the past 30 years, the U. S. Office of Education has been a chief promoter of the Dewey, Kilpatrick, Counts, Rugg philosophy of soft, sloppy "life adjustment" teaching. If you need proof, read "Life Adjustment for Every Youth," put out by said Office of Education.

E. F. Hutton

I do not defend all traditional education, for example, that teachers should spend years trying to pour algebra into a skull that leaks like a kitchen colander. And Dewey would no doubt disclaim some of his "followers."

But I view with apprehension the idea of now turning education over to Uncle. Uncle can make mistakes—e.g., Cuba.

No. I would turn the job over to the tens of thousands of sturdy, patriotic, individual teachers who have for years fought a silent rear-guard action against the "progressive" educational hierarchy.

OLD TIMERS' CIVIL WAR NOTES

This columnist in a previous article has described, in part, the exercises connected with the 1880 Memorial Day observance in Kingston: The street parade down Union Avenue (Broadway) to Wiltwyck Cemetery; the great crowd of people who turned out to witness the procession and also the inspiring services which preceded the decorating of graves in the several city burying grounds by members of Pratt Post, Grand Army of the Republic. Today's column will be devoted to telling something about a few of the honored dead upon whose graves tenderly were laid the wreaths which had been brought along in the flower carriage of the precession.

Wiltwyck Cemetery: Leander Smith, B Co. 59th Regiment; died at Annapolis July 23, 1864, of wounds received before Petersburg. He was formerly a local cigar manufacturer and was admired for his integrity...Sgt. William A. Ingraham, B Co., 20th Regiment, a native of Kingston, was color sergeant of his regiment at 2nd Bull Run where, while carrying the flag, received wounds from which he died, Oct. 4, 1862, aged 20 years and 8 mo. After being wounded the eagle at the top of his color staff was shot off but he managed to conceal it upon his person so that the enemy could not get it. He carried the eagle to the hospital with him and would not deliver it to anyone save an officer of the Old Twentieth.

Reposing in Sharpe's Burial Ground: Capt. Rodney Baldwin Newkirk was born in Kingston Jan. 6, 1838. Following Lincoln's first call for volunteers, he served three months in the 71st N. Y. Militia Regiment, participating in the first Battle of Bull Run. Aug. 12, 1862, he was commissioned First Lieutenant of B. Co., 120th Infantry and was promoted to captain for bravery. April 13, 1863, he wounded before Petersburg, Va., and was mustered out with the 120th June 13, 1865, and died Nov. 25, 1868. Captain Newkirk was of a genial disposition, an excellent officer and was liked by all who knew him.

Reposing in Montrepose Cemetery: Ellis H. Bishop, a three-months man in Ulster County's 20th Infantry, later enlisted in Col. Sharpe's newly formed 120th Regiment as a member of I Company. Severly wounded in the head during the bloody engagements in front of Petersburg, 1865, he was left on the field for dead but recovered and was taken prisoner. He was later exchanged, and died from the effects of his wound at Rondout in 1869 . . . Also interred in Montrepose was Isaac A. Terwilliger, 87th N. Y. Volunteers. He enlisted in 1861, was wounded in 1862 and died in Rondout, November, 1862 while home on sick leave, aged 22 years. . . .Richard Castle, a sergeant in G Company, 43rd N. Y. Volunteers was killed at Fort Sterns, Virginia.

Lieut. Wm. James Cockburn, whose grave was in Houghtaling's Burial Ground, enlisted first as a sergeant in C Co., Twentieth Infantry and afterwards joined the 120th. He was wounded at Gettysburg July 2, 1863, and suffered amputation of a leg from the effects of which he died July 2, 1863, aged 28 years. He was a man of fine education and of remarkable intelligence; liked by everyone, his death regretted by all. John Blackwell, B Co., 20th Infantry, died Aug. 31, 1864, at City Point, Va., of typhoid fever, aged 20 years.. . . Lieut. Peter S. VanVoorhees of C Company, 20th Regiment, died at Kingston, Jan. 18, 1879.

Among the soldiers reposing in St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery was Edward Beckett, 20th Infantry. At Second Bull Run where the Ulster County boys were caught in a murderous cross-fire from the enemy, he maintained possession of the colors after the death of five bearers and held the flag until his regiment was relieved, and was slightly wounded. Receiving a severe wound at Gettysburg when the flagstaff was cut in two by enemy bullets, he died at Rondout May 1, 1867. . . . Another soldier in St. Mary's whose grave was decorated by the veterans was Sgt. Archibald McMullen, F Company, 20th Infantry who served throughout the war and died from the effects of a wound received at Gettysburg, at Rondout, May 1, 1867.

The Wiltwyck Chapel Burial Ground held the remains of Capt. Francis W. Reynolds, who organized I Company (known as the 'Havelocks') of Colonel George Sharpe's 120th Infantry, was mustered into service August 22, 1862 and was wounded at Chancellorsville, May 3, 1862 and received his discharge from the service the following October 14 and afterwards died at Kingston. Captain Reynolds was a man of fine promise who stood high in the estimation of the public . . . Also interred here was Lieut. John J. Lockwood, who entered the service as a second lieutenant in the 120th, was promoted to first leutenant and was killed in the Wilderness campaign May 5, 1864, while in command of K Company.

Members of the several GAR Posts in the rural sections of Ulster were leaders in the arranging and carrying out of Memorial Day ceremonies in the 1880's. Ketcham Post promoted observance of the day down around Marlborough and Milton. At Ellenville, home of Ward Post 191, the Academy Grounds was filled with people for the exercises, while at Saugerties, J. R. Tappen Post decorated graves and details their did likewise at Plattekill, Glasco, Katsbaan and Blue Mountain. Services were held in Napanoch by Bankstone Post 186, and veterans assisted by local women placed flowers on the graves. A detachment from LeFever Post, Marlborough went to New Paltz and decorated the grave of Johannes Lefever for whom their post was named. In New Paltz and vicinity the procession was formed under direction of Lieut. Charles J. Ackert, assisted by his aids Capt. George W. VanVoorhees and Sergeant Charles W. Bleeker. The attendance of citizens on this 1883 occasion was large. John N. Vanderlyn made the principal address at Soldiers Monument in Rural Cemetery.

"Cover them over with beautiful flowers,
Deck them with garlands, these brothers of ours,
Lying so silent, by night and by day,
Sleeping the years of their manhood away —
Cover them over with beautiful flowers."

Ben Merch Elected President Woodstock Taxpayer Group

Benjamin R. Merch, manager at H. Houst and Son for the past four years, has been elected president of the newly-formed Woodstock chapter of the Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association.

Merch was the unanimous choice of the associate members at a meeting held recently at town hall. The chapter now has a membership of 24.

Other officers named were: Albert Jacquez, vice president; Mrs. Frederick Platt, recording secretary; and Arthur P. Shepard, treasurer. All officers elected will serve until the permanent elections on Saturday, August 12.

Merch has been a resident of Woodstock for about five years, coming here from Albany. He was formerly active in P-TA and Woodstock Festival. He and Mrs. Merch and their two daughters reside on Country Club Lane.

Lawrence Casey, president of the parent association, enthusiastically welcomed the new officers and members and convened his meeting in order for the chapter to begin their first official meeting. Casey and the directors of the Lake Hill group fully discussed with the associates the purpose and aims of the association, its constitution and by-laws, the inception of a delegate's committee on inter-chapter functions and the association's responsibilities to the community as a whole.

Names Chairman

In his first official act, president Merch appointed Miss Anette Dietz as chairman of the membership committee. In doing so he stressed the need for every member to create interest, to fully explain the association and invite all taxpayers to join in this effort.

"It is true," said Merch, "that this association is surpassed by no other organization in providing for, protecting and promoting the rights and representation of every taxpayer-member or non-member." In conjunction with this, he said plans were in progress to release a general information bulletin and fact sheet on the association, its achievements and plans for the future.

At the conclusion, Casey spoke briefly to express his admiration of the "fire and interest" shown by all associates. He promised 100 per cent cooperative effort to increase the taxpayers strength and influence for promoting the welfare of all taxpayers against excesses of government.

Speaking of the need for individual interest in tax affairs, Casey said: "The trend is toward big government, massive controls and suppression of individual rights. If we ignore our local government because of apathy or indifference, then it is we, the people, who shall be controlled as sure as if we lived in Russia. Our representative rights are not God given, our forefathers fought for them. We are not asked to fight. But we must remember our responsibilities to ourselves, our families, and yes, to our community."

A formal charter presentation for the Woodstock Chapter will be made at the next meeting of the association.

Mrs. Hazel Freitag, chairman of fund raising for the Lake Hill group, announced that a cake sale was scheduled for July 29. Other means are contemplated to raise funds for operation expenses in the coming year. Full details will be released later.

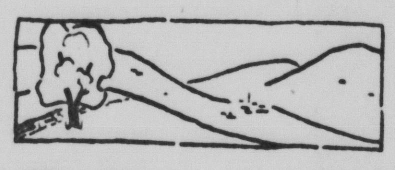
WOODSTOCK



PB-QA

Following is another question and answer in conjunction with planning and zoning in the town of Woodstock:

Q—What will a Growth Plan do to our roads?

A—One of the principal virtues of a Growth Plan is that it starts with studying local conditions of traffic as they are and as statistics show they will become in 5, 10 and 20 years. Then the professional planner asks whether these conditions are and will be what the people actually expect or would like to see. Traffic is broken down into local and through traffic and into heavy industrial, light commercial, passenger travel, shopping movements and others.

The planner will avoid letting all traffic bear on the same roads and will try to provide the most convenient type of road connections for each. He will not want to see heavy traffic squeezed through a shopping, civic or residential area, to create hazard and annoyance for the citizens, delays for through traffic and loss of business for the stores. One of the first things a planner does is to go see the future plans in the state and county highway departments. He will project by-passes and new roads that suit the conditions for the years ahead and his plan will become a welcome and respected guidance for the state, county and town authorities. The overall result will avoid indiscriminate widening of existing roads to carry more and more unrelated traffic and consequent disfiguration of our built-up areas, greater traffic hazards, and unnecessary condemnation of private property. And the refined planner will not only think in terms of trucks and automobiles but also of the pedestrian; he is likely to project pedestrian paths, horse riding trails, and havens where the pedestrian can walk, shop, and go about his daily chores in peace. Such conditions will never be attained by letting the state highway department continuously widen existing roads on the basis of ever increasing traffic counts and leaving town development to simply represent the sum total of all individual building projects. The only way to safe and agreeable roads is through careful planning, which means a Growth Plan.

2 Former Oneida Women Are Found Dead on Coast

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Two former Oneida, N. Y. women, an aged pensioner and her 46-year-old daughter, were found dead in their apartment Thursday. They apparently died of malnutrition.

Authorities, noting the women's $5,000 checking account and plenty of food in the apartment, were mystified at the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Farley, 84, and daughter, Katherine.

Deputy Coroner Don Bouchette said each woman weighed about 75 pounds. He said the daughter had been dead for six to eight days. The mother for four or five days.

The deaths were discovered when Richard Griffith, son of the apartment house owner, became curious because he hadn't seen the women for several days. He opened the apartment with a passkey.

A neighbor said the women had lived secluded lives since they came here from Oneida a year ago after the death of Mrs. Farley's husband, Robert, a retired railroad man.

It was dedicated April 20 by Gov. Rockefeller, and will be used for industrial and medical research.

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose—to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Final Settlement Reached in Costly Building Strike

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Contractors in Upstate Eastern New York today recalled workers to some projects, following settlement of a costly, month-long construction strike that had idled more than 10,000 workers.

Work on all other projects will resume Monday, the contractors said.

The final settlement was reached Thursday between contractors and the Troy local of the Plumbers Union, the last of about a dozen building - trades unions whose contracts expired May 1.

The Troy plumbers' two-year contract calls for an increase of 17 cents an hour the first year and 15 cents the second year, including fringe benefits, it was reported.

Only the Troy and Albany locals of the Plumbers Union and the Operating Engineers Union struck May 1 against members of the Eastern New York Contractors Association.

But other unions honored picket lines and the contractors subsequently shut down all but highway construction, halting work on building projects valued at $40 million.

Hundreds of men in building-material supply industries also were idled or lost time.

Construction was at a standstill in an area extending northward from Greene and Columbia counties.

Operating engineers agreed last week to 15-cent-an-hour increases in each of two years. Their wages had ranged from $3.24 to $4.28½ cents an hour.

The Albany plumbers settled last week for pay raises and benefits totaling 30 cents an hour over two years.

Plumbers had received $3.85 an hour.

Court Backs Firm Against State Insurance Dept.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) —Although a state law bars out-of-state life-insurance companies from selling fire and casualty insurance in New York State an out-of-state life-insurance company had court approval today to acquire a fire and casualty company licensed in New York.

The Court of Appeals, the state's highest, held Thursday that the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. could acquire controlling interest in a fire and casualty business without losing its license to operate in New York State.

The court split 4-3 in supporting Connecticut General against the New York State Insurance Department.

The department had told the life-insurance firm in 1955 that its license would be revoked if it bought control of the National Fire Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn., which also was licensed in New York.

The court held that the state law barring combined insurance operations did not apply to the plans of Connecticut General.

Connecticut General, represented in court by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, contended it was being discriminated against. It said two other Connecticut Insurance companies, Travelers and Aetna, were operating fire and casualty subsidiaries in New York State.

The insurance department argued that Connecticut General's attempt to buy controlling interest in a fire-insurance company meant that the life-insurance firm wanted to engage directly in the fire-insurance business in the state.

But the court said Connecticut General had sought the acquisition to improve its competitive position and to enable its agents to offer casualty and fire insurance as well as life insurance.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 2 —This was the motel industry. Perhaps it continues to be America's fastest growing industry from a money - invested standpoint; but the number of new individual motels declined in 1960. Motels are becoming "big business" and from an investment standpoint may now be classified with hotels. Motels, now, are hotels laid on their sides! Let me venture to say that real estate has become our fastest growing industry.

Real Estate in General

The first English translation of Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction—upon which the theory of the Economic Cycle and the business of most Investment Counseling are based —was made in 1729. In those days, this Cycle practically applied only to gold and real estate. The price of gold has since become controlled by the Federal Government; but the cycle theory still applies to real estate. I personally believe that we may have passed the peak of the present real estate cycle.

Of course, the general condition of business always has a profound effect on the real estate situation,—housing in particular. Since I fear that no great economic boom is now probable, the immediate future of real estate must depend upon other factors. One of these is the availability and cost of money. Another is the cost of new building. Neither of these factors is now helpful to real estate.

Consider Human Factors

Another thing to remember is that the regularity and balance of cycles in real estate activity are especially pronounced. Upward and downward swings tend to match, in both intensity and duration. But according to Sir Isaac Newton's Law, it is the product of the intensity and duration which must ultimately balance. As the intensity of the real estate boom has been rather magnified, then the duration of the following slump may be greater than expected. This is contrary to most reasoning, but this is Newton's Law.

Overextension and retrenchment are phychological human forces which cannot be measured. Another human factor is the large number of people reaching the age of 20, which means more marriages. This will call for more rented houses and small apartments. The big home-buying age is 30-35. The percentage of Americans reaching these ages has begun to decline. There is, however, a growing trend toward home ownership, especially homes in the suburbs. This figure is now 60 per cent. Hence, rental price rises have fallen below the cost-of-living advance. Foreclosures have been increasing in certain new subdivisions. Office buildings continue in demand, with vacancies of not over 5 per cent.

Watch Farm Land

Since the Kennedy Administration's policies should result in higher income for the farmer, I expect a further rise in farm land prices —especially land near cities, both large and small. The old advice: "Buy by the acre and sell by the foot" is still good. Also remember that each city is growing fastest in some one direction,—it may be "east" or "west" or "south."

Before speculating in vacant land, there are certain facts you should get: Determine the current land values and prices in the area, tax rates and appraisal methods, new roads and highways approved for construction (as well as those in the proposal stage), all pertinent construction plans by government and private enterprise, the growth rate in the area as compared with other sections of the country. You must guess: The length of time before land appreciation will take place, the possibility of being isolated by highways not yet proposed, the danger of sharp tax-rate boosts, the future cost of utilities, likelihood of industrial expansion, and future prospects for existing industries.

In Summary: Real estate investment at this time can still be sound—particularly in relation to many other profit ventures—but the absence of any evidence of a great new boom makes it more important than ever for you to select your vacant-land investment with great care. Final thought: Remember how fast interest and taxes pile up!

Trappers Say Bear Is Prowling Killer

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (AP)—A bear has killed about 100 domestic animals and terrorized rural residents in recent weeks, trappers say.

Several persons had reported seeing a "big cat" prowling the northern suburbs of the city and there had been speculation the nocturnal raider might be a mountain lion.

But trappers of the State Conservation Department said Thursday the animal was an Adirondack black bear yearling, based on paw prints found near a barnyard.

The trappers said the bear probably has headed back into the Adirondack foothills.

TV Highlights Will Center on Kennedy's Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television emphasis during the next week centers on President Kennedy's European trip and meetings with France's De Gaulle and Russia's Khrushchev.

All networks are bumping regularly scheduled programs for news specials — some on such short notice that it is best to consult the daily TV listings in the newspaper for the latest word. NBC, for example, will have one of its continuing "JFK" reports daily over the weekend and through Monday.

Still in the current events area is another item of special interest: CBS' telecast of the Belmont Stakes on Saturday (4:30-5 p.m., EDT). This is the last of the "triple crown" races.

Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, will be Sunday's "Meet the Press" guest (NBC, 6:30 - 7 p.m.) in his first network TV appearance since his retirement from CBS.

Vivian Vance of "I Love Lucy" will be Red Skelton's guest star Tuesday night (CBS, 9:30-10), and there will be a special ice show starring Peter Lawford and Peggy Lee on NBC (10-11).

On Thursday there will be a repeat of "CBS Reports" documentary on "A Case of Real Murder" (10-11), and, for those in search of a chuckle, there is ABC's "Silents, Please" digest of heroines in peril (10:30-11).

NEW YORK (AP)—The mother of a pre-teen daughter of my acquaintance has a little problem: getting Suzy to wash her face.

Suzy, it seems, watches the toilet soap commercials on TV and insists on following the demonstrations of beauty care faithfully. She first wraps her "hair-do" in a hand towel, and then proceeds carefully to dab each rounded cheek and the middle of her forehead with a small circle of suds.

She scorns the face cloth as old-fashioned — after all, all the TV face-dabbers use their hands. And Suzy is not convinced by her mother's explanation that the TV girls caress rather than scrub on screen because they don't want to mess up their carefully applied lip and eye make-up.

CBS' bi-weekly Steel Hour has been renewed for another season. That's welcome news because it is one of the few dramatic shows to survive the ratings battle with westerns and private eyes.

But the joy isn't undiluted because the scripts are too often stodgy, stilted and garnished with cliches.

This week's offering, for example, was billed as a "rollicking comedy," and there were all the ingredients for a breezy, amusing period piece. But nothing rollicked — in fact, there wasn't a single laugh in the entire 60 minutes.

The play, adapted from a Stephen Vincent Benet short story, was called "Famous." It was about an aging playboy song writer who doesn't want his children to follow his footsteps into the theatre. Eddy Albert played the father with a leaden touch. Even Dolores Gray, as a 1927 musical comedy queen, couldn't brighten her corner.

Ed Sullivan will present three scenes from "All the Way Home" the Broadway show which won playwright Tad Mosel a Pulitzer Prize, on Sunday night. Sullivan is credited with saving the play when it was about to fold, with an enthusiastic plug on his program. Sports Programs of both CBS and ABC in mid-June will be devoted to French auto races: CBS' "Sports Spectacular" on June 15 will report on the 1961 Grand Prix de Monaco, the Riviera's big car racing event, and ABC's June 17 "Wide World of Sports" will show the famous 24-hour-long Le Mans circuit.

Recommended tonight: "Twilight Zone," CBS, 10-10:30 (Eastern Daylight Time) — Burgess Meredith stars in "The Obsolete Man."

Same May Hold for Vienna Talks

KennedyDeGaulleSum-Up: Just Restating of Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, to no one's surprise, so far in his Paris visit has given no new insights into his thinking on foreign policy.

He wasn't expected to. Nor is he likely to in his remaining talks with President De Gaulle or later, in Vienna, in his meeting with Premier Khrushchev.

Pomp and Circumstance

His meeting with De Gaulle has been given far more attention for what they did and where they went than for anything they said—which, apparently, hasn't been much.

They went through all the ceremonial fol-de-rol which has become customary when one head of state visits another: Exposure to crowds, airport bands, wreath-laying, graveside bands, banquets, speeches.

In a short visit like Kennedy's, with a man he had never conferred with before, all the time spent on pomp and circumstance might have been much more profitably used in conversation between the two men.

What Kennedy has told De Gaulle (so far as is known)—and why there's nothing new in it—can be summed up like this:

Was Policy Before

1. He pledged America to stand with its NATO allies, particularly France and West Germany, in defense of West Berlin against any Communist attempt to take it over or shut it off from the West.

But this was American policy before Kennedy became President. He's simply reaffirming it.

2. He said the future of the backward countries in the southern half of the world is the responsibility of the Western allies.

This is no revelation. For years the United States realized the responsibility and has been trying to help the backward areas. Further, it has been needling its allies to do more of the same.

3. He pledged the United States to the defense of Western Europe. But that's exactly why the United States joined NATO in the first place a dozen years ago. So Kennedy is simply restating long-established American policy.

And later this week when Kennedy meets Khrushchev, since he is not going to make any commitments behind the backs of American allies, there may be some understandings but hardly any settlements.

No New Ground Broken

Once again the events surrounding the Kennedy-Khrushchev conference—rather than what they say or accomplish—is apt to get the attention and provide the color.

In short, up to this point in his presidency, except for wanting to give backward areas aid on a long-term basis so they can plan better, Kennedy has hardly broken new ground or departed from the policies of his predecessors.

Many Problems in JFK Plan

Army Skeptical of Step-Up For Guard, Reserve Units

HIGH-HANDED — Cyclist's crouch is impossible with this motorbike's elevated handlebars. With its high spotlight, front lights, horn and mirrors, this fancy job stopped traffic in Stockholm, Sweden.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, trying to meet President Kennedy's requirements for a combat-ready reserve, plans to intensify training of National Guard and reserve divisions ticketed for quick callup in event of emergency.

But Army officers voiced serious doubts today that these measures, involving an increase in weekly drills and summer training, would be enough to get the citizen-soldiers in shape for rugged field service.

Eyes 10 Divisions

From talks with Army officials, it was evident many problems remain to be solved before realization of Kennedy's plan to mount a force of 10 Guard and reserve divisions set to move to trouble spots within a few weeks after being ordered to duty.

There was an undercurrent of skepticism that the plan ever would work out the way Kennedy outlined it to Congress.

In his special message last week, the President said the Army "is developing plans to make possible a much more rapid deployment of a major portion of its highly-trained reserve forces."

When these plans are completed, Kennedy said, two combat-equipped divisions could be ready in an emergency for operations with but three weeks notice, a total of 10 divisions with less than eight weeks notice.

Political Woe as Well

Not the smallest of the problems is re-equipping the Guard divisions, now using mostly gear of World War II vintage.

And there is a political problem too. Army officials indicated some governors will have to be persuaded to give up strength in Guard units under their control to permit building up of divisions earmarked for the quick reaction reserve force.

Of the 27 infantry and armored divisions in the National Guard, seven infantry divisions are designated as high priority units constituting a ready reserve.

Jaycee Auction Is Shifted to Lake Pavilion

The site of the Junior Chamber auction to be held June 3 has been changed from Forsyth Park to Pardee's Spring Lake Pavilion. This was necessitated because of numerous complaints to the Chamber office and the mayor's office, protesting the Jaycees using city property for an auction.

The auction will start Saturday at 10 a. m., the Jaycees report.

The Jaycees also pointed to the fine response by Kingston merchants in their contribution of articles for the auction.

Mt. Marion Man Held for Injury To Show Horses

William Goetz, 26 of Mt. Marion Park, arrested by state police on a charge pertaining to injuring certain domestic animals, appeared before Saugerties Town Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers Thursday afternoon where examination was set for Saturday 9:30 a. m.

Goetz was taken before Judge Myers following questioning about the death of one of two prized show horses valued by the owner, Fred Shader of High Woods at $5,600. Both horses grazing on land in the vicinity of property owned by Goetz' father, and near Yula's Shangra La, well-known area boardinghouse, were injured by .22 caliber rifle fire, troopers said.

One of the horses, a seven-yer-old mare, named Pepper, valued at $600, died of gunshot wounds inflicted Wednesday night in the back and left side, according to Trooper Richard Ryan, who investigated with Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon of Kingston BCI.

The other, a 17-year-old gelding, Amos, valued at $5,000 was treated by Richard Holmes, area veterinarian for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Troopers said the shooting occurred between 8:30 and 9 a. m. Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Shader reside in a bungalow on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yula, proprietors of the Shangra La.

Navy Color Girl Likes Routine, Keeps on Kissing

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The 89th Navy Color Girl, nurse Betty Fears, is counting her kisses.

The kiss is a traditional part of the presentation of colors ceremony at which Miss Fears will present the national, brigade and Navy colors to Midshipman John J. Sheahan's 21st Company.

"I guesss we'll have to kiss about 15 times at rehearsal," she said as she smiled at Sheahan, whom she has dated steadily for 2½ years.

Sheahan, 24, a former Marine sergeant from Rego Park, N. Y., said he had spent some of Thursday studying parade procedures but was quick to explain they involved more than the kissing sequence.

Miss Fears blushed slightly but said she won't mind kissing Sheahan in front of the entire 3,900-man brigade of midshipmen and thousands of June week visitors to the Naval Academy.

The 5-foot-7 brunette with flashing green eyes was chosen by Sheahan after his company was named the best among 24 at the academy in a year-long competition.

Miss Fears, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fears of Balboa, Canal Zone, was homecoming queen, a cheerleader and a high-scoring forward on the girl's basketball team at Cristobal High School in the Canal Zone, where she graduated in 1956.

William Coley, Fishing in Area Sought by Wife

William Coley of Middletown, Conn., said to be fishing in the area, is being sought by his wife, who reported to Kingston state police that there was a death in his family on Thursday.

Coley is vacationing with a friend, William Bueno in a housekeeping cabin near a creek or river in the area. Coley's wife told troopers she thought it was in the Saugerties vicinity.

Coley is driving a 1959 black rambler with Connecticut registration 134-029.

State police have alerted all news media to seek the aid of motorists and other fishermen who might see Coley's car parked along a stream. If found, Coley is requested to call Kingston state police for further information.

Welfare Head Is Kiwanis Speaker About Facilities

The Department of Welfare and Public Assistance is the largest agency in Ulster County according to Commissioner of Public Welfare Joseph Fitzsimmons in a brief talk before the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

Former Mayor Frederick H. Stang, chairman of the Kiwanis program committee, presented Commissioner Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons told his audience that over 60 people are employed by the department which he heads, and that the budget exceeds two million dollars per year. He explained that the department takes care of home relief, the aged, child welfare, medical care for those in need, and other necessary objectives.

The 280 acre farm in New Paltz, maintained by the Welfare Department, was also the subject of remarks by the commissioner. He pointed out that the "rehabilitation value of this farm could not be measured in dollars and cents" — that the farm accommodates 65 people and has a 26-bed infirmary. Food grown on the farm supplies the needs of the welfare department to a large extent.

The Kingston infirmary on Flatbush Avenue has facilities for 96 people, commissioner said. People from 28 to 100 years of age are provided for at the infirmary, he said, and praised the therapy programs and the "dedicated department heads" for making the local welfare program successful.

Commissioner Fitzsimmons extended an invitation to all members of the Kiwanis Club to visit the various facilities of the Welfare Department.

Jackson Poised For Riders, 42 Still on Fast

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Missisippi's capital city girded today for a fresh onslaught by segregation-testing "freedom riders."

Meanwhile, other integrationist freedom riders—jailed when they tried to crack "Jim Crow" barriers here—continued a protest hunger strike.

At least seven riders were expected to leave Montgomery, Ala. today for New Orleans via Jackson. Their departure time was not announced.

Acting Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson urged residents of the state to let the law take its course. Gov. Ross Barnett was out of the state on an industry-seeking trip to the East.

Already 52 have been arrested by Jackson police. Nine have been released on appeal bonds and one paid a fine.

The 42 remaining freedom riders—seven whites and 35 Negroes —are all believed to be participating in the hunger strike. Leaders vowed the fast would continue until federal authorities intervene to end segregation in bus and rail facilities throughout the south.

The fast began at breakfast Thursday when the white prisoners, including three Cornell University students, refused to eat. The Negroes, held in another jail, joined the hunger strike at noon.

Khrunichev, Reds' Space Chief, Dies

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced the sudden death of the political chief of its space program, Deputy Premier Mikhail Khrunichev. He was 59.

The announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass did not give the cause of death.

Tass said Khrunichev died suddenly. Apparently death occurred during the night. He was listed among the Soviet leaders who attended a reception for a visiting Somali government delegation in the Kremlin Thursday night.

Khrunichev was appointed to the space chief post April 8 and made a deputy premier. He was little known in the West.

Khrunichev worked as a messenger and a blacksmith's assistant until he joined the Red army in 1920. His army career boomed and by 1937 he was director of all Soviet war plants.

He continued administrative work in aviation and military supplies during World War II with the rank of lieutenant general.

By 1952 he was a member of the Communist party central committee.

He was a deputy premier during 1955-56, left that post to take on an important planning job—deputy chairman of the state economic commission—and became aviation minister in 1957.

He held seven orders of Lenin, two Stalin prizes and had the title Hero of Socialist Labor.

Red Hook Area Favorable Spot

Meteorologist Reported Here on Hail Project

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
(Freeman Staff Writer)

This is the eighth in a series of articles on weather modification experiments in the Hudson Valley and elsewhere in the nation.

Reports after cloud seeding for hail suppression in the Hudson Valley made no important claim but they revealed some interesting facts as to the nature and extent of storms in our area.

One published in the 1957 record of proceedings at meetings of the New York State Horticultural Society was made by Tom Henderson, meteorologist for the Weather Modification Company, at that time. Dr. Schaefer recently revealed that Henderson now heads his own organization, Atmospherics Incorporated, Fresno Calif. He will be working this coming summer with the Colorado State University Group on a radar study project dealing with the giant hailstorms of northeastern Colorado.

Henderson, in his report here, said his men worked with one airplane and some silver iodide generators placed to protect an area of 1,200 square miles. The plane operated from a hill some five miles east of Red Hook. A radar unit also operated there, and the spot, he said, was favorable "because you could see the entire target area with the eye on clear day. The view was unobstructed in all directions except at one minor point to the northeast. This spot was picked before I reached the Hudson Valley, and in my opinion, it is the best spot for this particular area."

A brief summary of the overall program, he said, "indicates that between July 9 and Sept. 21, we experienced 29 storms, 16 of which were identified as hail bearing. We identified these either by talking to people beyond the target area" or through the plane pilot.

Those on the ground, he noted, reported hail when they saw it, and sometimes the plane was hit by hail when it flew through clouds. Some storms, he said, might have been hail bearing without knowledge of those working on the project. He reported "282 precipitation cells associated with the storms, or about 10 per storm. The silver iodide ground generators were operated a total of 1,632 hours, or about 56 hours per storm. The aircraft made 15 flights during the mentioned period and logged 28.4 hours."

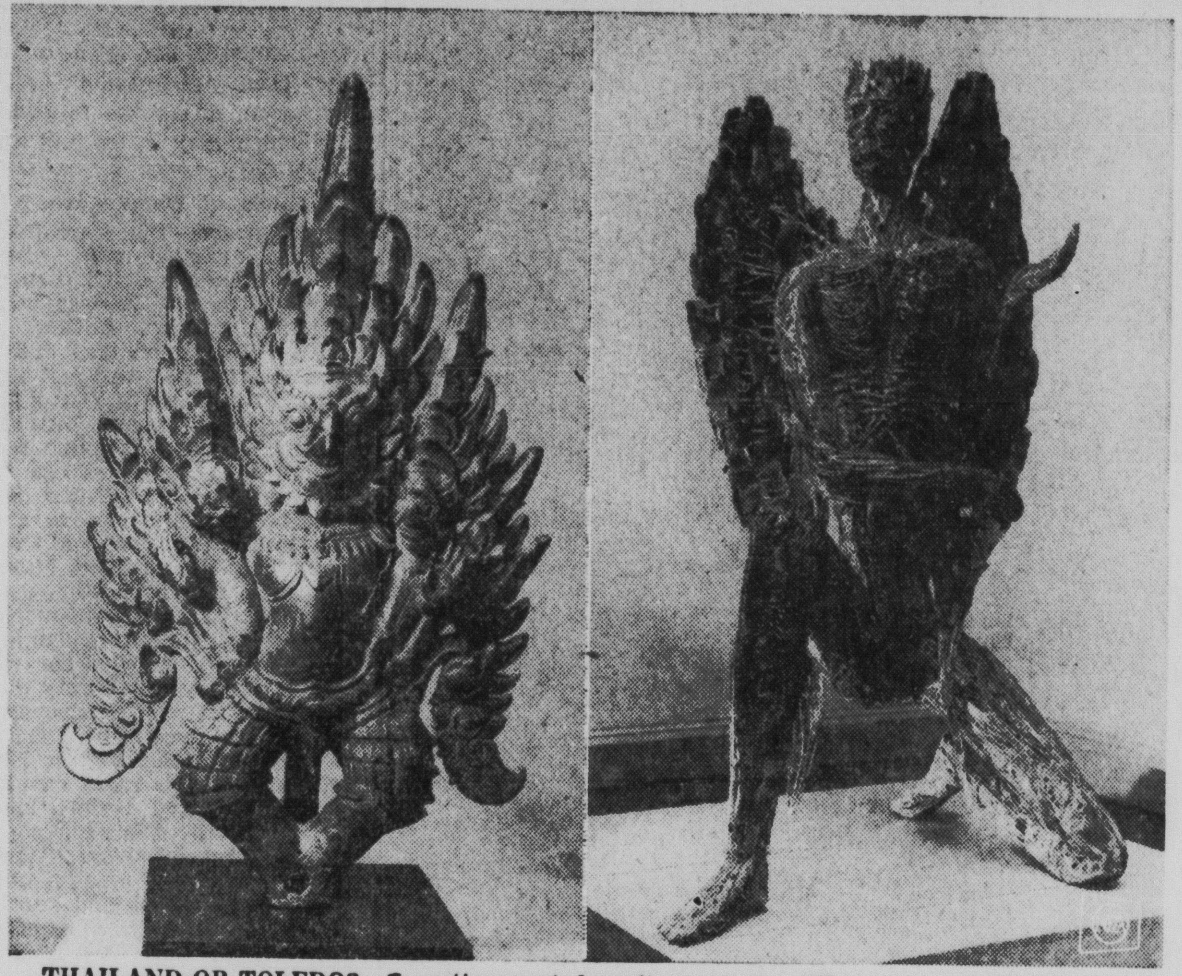
Hail fell "inside the target area four times during the 29 storms. One of these occasions produced only a trace of hail, and no damage. The other three producd damage in different degrees in some of the orchards inside the target area. We think we know why the hail got inside the area, and we think we know the steps necessary to correct the difficulty. However, I don't believe anyone can assure you of a 100 per cent hail protection program. There is nothing wrong with the theories behind this work, but since humans are involved in the operation of such a program, there are bound to be occasional human errors. The only thing we can do is to be absolutely conscientious about the operation of the program, and attempt to keep thse human errors to an absolute minimum."

Of the storms observed, No. 1, he said was named "Dave Ring." It started near Kerhonkson July 14, "intensified over the Shawangunks, and swept through an area between Kingston and Poughkeepsie. Damaging hail was experienced in the Salt Point and New Paltz areas, and in a few isolated spots between these points. Cloud tops that day reached 35,000 feet, which is fairly normal for hail storms in this area."

The storm, he said, was seeded by air and ground, and he felt that hail resulted of two main causes, one being the inoperation of the radar. On the previous night, he noted, there were two lightning strikes "right by the control center." It put phones and radar out of service.

Among August storms, he said, one was named Marlboro-Fishkill. It also moved from the Shawangunk area. Another was the Claverack Area Storm. It formed northwest of Hudson. It was in twin phase and produced hail which caused apple damage.

The worst on Sept. 2, he said was named The 100-Mile Storm, because it had 100 miles of precipitation cells from a point just south of Albany to the New Jersey State line. The cells moved from west to east. He said 44 generators were used in the western area and there was no hail inside the target area. It was felt, he said that the generators were in the right place and in the right number. It was difficult to determine how much good was done, he said, but if hail records had been kept, it would have been easier."



THAILAND OR TOLEDO?—Sometimes art doesn't appear to differ a great deal, whether it's from Bangkok or Bowling Green or from different centuries. At left is a 13th-century "Garuda"—a supernatural being, half bird, half man—from Thailand. On the right is "Ex Voto," a modern welded sculpture by John Zeilman of Bowling Green, Ohio. Both works are on display at the Toledo (Ohio) Museum of Art.

Area Roadblocks Seek Unlicensed, 6,000 in State

State police roadblocks in the area and throughout the state are seeking approximately 6,000 would-be penalty dodgers who are without chauffeur licenses due to the Department of Motor Vehicles' new punch card license system. Many regular chauffeur licenses expired at midnight Wednesday.

The penalty-dodgers are drivers whose bad records had led to their license suspension or revocation. But they had refused to turn in the actual license itself, and have since been dodging efforts of police to pick up the documents.

Time ran out on them Thursday, however, when their three-year chauffeur license expired. They found they were unable to renew.

Prior to the punch card system's initiation, it would have been possible for them to go into an issuing office at expiration time, and by falsely certifying that his record was clean, could have renewed. Under the department's old manual filing system, it would have taken as much as several months for the department to catch up with them.

But under the new system, which uses electronic equipment, applications are mailed out only to drivers who are entitled to renew. Such applications may not be obtained in any other way. All complaints that the punch card applications were not received by mail are carefully checked against revocations and suspensions, before substitute applications are mailed.

In order to reinstate their licenses, the 6,000 drivers must wait the prescribed term of suspension or revocation. Then those under suspension will automatically receive their new applications by mail, and those under revocation must apply for a new license.

"Six thousand licenses against a state total of 750,000 expiring this year doesn't seem like a great deal, at first glance," Motor Vehicle Commissioner William S. Hults said.

"But on the other hand, we know that in up to 85 per cent of all accidents some violation of the law is involved. We know that these drivers are the ones who are consistently violating the law, and by enforcing previously invoked orders, we feel we are materially advancing the cause of highway safety where it will do the most good."

Wednesday marked the conclusion of the first phase of the Department's "Operation Punch Card,"—the program that will leave all licenses—operators and chauffeurs—on punch cards by the end of 1963.

Although it involved three-quarters of a million drivers, it went off with only minor difficulties, Commissioner Hults said.

Name Classroom At Heidelberg for Ex-Cornell Head

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—A group of Cornell University officials and alumni rededicated a classroom building at Heidelberg University Thursday presented a $50,000 student scholarship fund.

The building, Schurman Hall, originally dedicated in 1936, is named in honor of Jacob Gould Schurman, Cornell's third president and a student at Heidelberg from 1878 to 1879.

From 'Sons of Cornell'

Arthur H. Dean, chairman of the Cornell board of trustees and American ambassador heading atomic test ban negotiations at Geneva, unvieled a plaque in memory of Schurman. It was presented by "the sons of Cornell."

The scholarship, also named after Schurman, is to send one Heidelberg student a year to Cornell for the next 10 years.

Heidelberg has a similar scholarship fund for Cornell students.

Schurman was a professor and president of the American university at Ithaca, N.Y., from 1886 to 1920, when he resigned to enter the U.S. diplomatic corps.

While ambassador to Germany, from 1925 to 1930, he backed an American fund drive to build a $500,000 classroom building at Heidelberg.

Cornell President Deane W. Malott, in a speech at the ceremony, said the event re-emphasized the humanitarian and philosophical traditions binding two great peoples in a common destiny.

Other speakers included Dr. Gottfried Koethe, rector of Heidelberg, who said the 250 Americans studying at the university "have proved to be the best ambassadors of their homeland," and U.S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling.

Dr. R.H. Jackson of Cleveland, Ohio, a Heidelberg graduate, represented American alumni of the university.

Plaque From '61 Class

Thomas B. Gilchrist of New York City, a Cornell alumnus, arranged funds for the Schurman Scholarship. The Cornell Class of 1961 raised money for the plaque.

The rededication, also attended by American and German political, military and educational dignitaries, was in conjunction with [illegible] anniversary of the founding of Heidelberg.

[illegible]bassador Dean represented Schurman's son, Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr. of Bedford Village, N.Y., at the event. Judge Schurman was unable to attend because of illness.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

After watching the history of railroads on TV the other night I wondered what other manner of transportation will be invented so that the worker can go back and forth to work more easily. Every city is now suffering from that "rush hour" transportation problem, and instead of getting better it is getting worse. I remember the first time I saw "rush hour" on express subways in New York City, I wondered how grown up folks put up with it, a football battle every working day of their lives. Many have moved to small towns and cities like Kingston to get away from it and now we all have the problem Everything is on wheels, and at the same time.

Going back to when the railroad fever struck Kingston, back in the 1860's Judge Clearwater's Ulster County book, on page 222 gave a good coverage of it. He wrote, that the railway fever broke out on two sides of the town, and local capitalists were induced to start the projects, which meant progress in those days. He said, "both proved costly for the people of Kingston and the various towns through which the roads ran. But in the end all have been benefited beyond estimate." That was written in 1907.

There was the Rondout and Oswego, its original title, later known as the Ulster and Delaware railroad. The purpose was to build to Lake Ontario. This was later changed, on the re-organization of the company, to the New York, Kingston and Syracuse, and finally to the above title, in June 1875. The road then came into the ownership of Thomas Cornell, and ran from Kingston Point to Oneonta, 108 miles, and from Phoenicia to Hunter and Kaaterskill, some 22 miles.

In those days, the equipment was considered the most modern, with the track of steel and a standard gauge. It proved the great developing factor of the Catskills as a summer resort and of course of great importance to Kingston, bringing industry, trade and population increase. People with extra money came up this way from the city, for the whole summer and spent their money here. With it there was also the extensive railway shops in Rondout, which were operated in a most modern manner by electricity, and gave hundreds of men steady employment. Samuel D. Coykendall was president of this railway system and it carried some 500,000 passengers in one year.

The railroads and the depot were an important part of Kingston in the 1920's and 1930's. It was a comfortable way of traveling, and in my day the trains were on time. In 1939, during the World's Fair in New York City, you could go round trip to New York City and back for $2 in one day and had plenty of time to see the fair.

It is sad to see the tracks taken up, because I feel in case of any emergency, transportation by train, of people or supplies can be very important. In World War II trains were constantly run in all directions across the nation, without interference from auto traffic. If the track is clear and the trains running, I feel, it is entirely up to management to make it popular again. Trains are roomy, one can walk up and down the aisle and visit with friends. There were smoking cars, dining cars and the big city stations always exciting. The small depots were always neat, with flowers and lawns.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest MacDonald, Philmont, Columbia County, were among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Also here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Miller Fagley and daughter of Glen Spey, Orange County. Fagley has a large collection of Civil War items pertaining to the cavalry branch of the Union Army. His most recent acquisition along this line is a cavalry saddle and blanket. A part of his collection has to do with the famous Harris Light Regiment, much of whose personnel was recruited in Orange and Ulster Counties.

George Mayhew Sr., Ohayo Mountain Road, is building a new house for Chester Lyons Jr. Site of the building adjoins the Lyons home along the side road leading up to the Ben Swanson development, or one time David Perry farm.

John Messina, World War 2 veteran, is commuting daily beteween his place along the east Branch of the Butternutkill and his work at the Ford plant in Mahway, N. J.

Henry Wells, Woodstock resident for many years and former Shokan boy called on local friends Sunday.

The Rev. Richard Coons and wife of Penney Farms, Fla., may not come up to their place in the village center this summer on account of the continued illness of the Rev. Mr. Coons who is a patient in the clinic of the noted colony for retired people.

Mrs. Davis Harrington of New York and Stone Ridge called on Shokan friends recently. Mrs. Harrington before marriage was Janet Bloom. She is the granddaughter of Dr. Burton B. Bloom, resident physician in the old village of Shokan for many years who with his family moved to Wallkill in late waterworks days.

Mrs. Leon Farney of Gardiner RFD was a caller at the local museum of antiques last week.

A number of Ashokan Reservoir employes attended the turkey dinner which was given recently in honor of several retiring members of the force. Foreman Paul Joyce was master of ceremonies at the banquet. The men retiring after many years of service are Harry Jones and Elson Oakley, Shokan; Leo Clare, Kingston, and Harry Krum of Olive Bridge. Robert Nussbaum had recently resigned as a city employe following his appointment as postmaster at West Hurley. Each of the honored guests were presented with a wallet containing ten dollars.

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette," etc.

A WELL-BROUGHT-UP BOY

Q: I have been teaching my young son to call our friends Mrs. Brown, Mr. Doe, etc. I was taught to call my parents' friends by title and wouldn't think of calling them by first name. In this community, however, children are permitted to call everyone by first name regardless of their age. I have been called snobbish because of my insistence that my child use a title when addressing older people. I don't want to set myself, or my child, apart from the others and yet I do want to teach him what is right. Am I being too strict in this present day of informality and should I conform to the ways of the community even though I do not approve?

A: You are not being too strict and I hope you will continue to bring up your son properly. Perhaps if you stick to your guns, other mothers will follow your excellent example.

A Baby's Christening Dress

Q: Is it necessary that a baby's christening clothes always be white? My baby daughter is going to be christened in two weeks and I would like to dress her in very pale pink instead of the usual white. However, I have been told that only white is correct for a christening. Will you please tell me if this is true?

A: Although not a church requirement, white is customary for a baby's christening dress and you will risk criticism if you dress your baby in pink.

Wife Waited in Car

Q: One of the men with whom my husband works stopped at our house last Sunday afternoon to see my husband about a business matter. His wife, who was a stranger to me, waited out in the car. Do you think I was rude not to go out and ask her to come in?

A: If the man stayed for more than a very few minutes, you should have asked him, "Wouldn't you like me to go out and invite your wife to join us?"

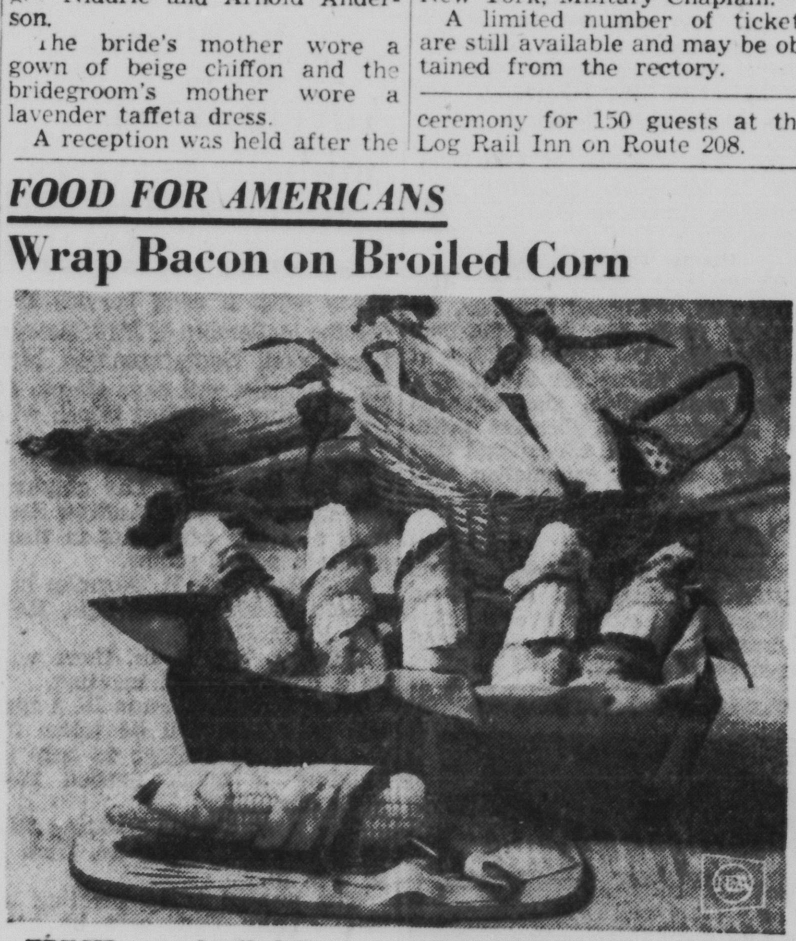
FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Wrap Bacon on Broiled Corn



FRESH corn, broiled in a wrapping of bacon, is a summer treat. The idea is a novel change from the usual serving.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fresh corn is early on the market, coming now from the South and the West. It is sweet and in excellent condition. So between today and the end of September, corn lovers can always be happy.

Here are two happy suggestions for fresh corn combined with other ingredients. You'll enjoy them after you've been having boiled corn on the cob with butter for a while and feel like a little change on the delicious theme.

Broiled Corn and Bacon
(Allow 1 to 2 ears per person)

Husk corn and remove silks. Drop in boiling water to cover, using 1 teaspoon salt to each quart water. Cover and boil 4 minutes or until almost tender. Remove partially cooked ears from water. Skewer ends of bacon to corn with toothpicks. Set oven control to broil and preheat.

Arrange ears on a broiler rack and place in broiler 4 inches from the source of heat. Broil 7 minutes or until bacon is crisp, turning to cook bacon on all sides. Remove bacon from ears and serve with the corn.

Fresh Corn and Crab Meat Salad (6 servings)

1½ cups cooked fresh corn, cut off the cob, about 4 ears
4½-ounce can crabmeat or 1 cup cooked fresh or frozen crab meat
1 cup diced green pepper
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Head lettuce
Stuffed green olives
Fresh tomato wedges

Combine corn, crabmeat, green pepper and seasonings. Add mayonnaise and lemon juice. Toss lightly. Serve on lettuce. Garnish with olives and tomato wedges.

Four Girls Complete Hebrew Studies at Talmud Torah Here

A Bas Torah ceremony was held in Congregation Agudas Achim on Sunday, May 28. More than 300 friends and guests attended.

This annual service is sponsored by the Talmud Torah of Kingston to honor those girls who have completed the required Hebrew and religious studies of the Hebrew School.

This year's class consisted of Francine Weiner, Marcene Basch, Blossom Rappaport and Susan Goldman. Each student read a portion of a Haftorah, a translation from Hebrew, and gave a commentary on the Torah.

Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport of Congregation Agudas Achim opened the program and introduced the Bas Torah Class of 1961.

Presentation of certificates was made by Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel. Gifts, which were also presented, consisted of the Holy Scriptures and two religious texts, "Jewish Home Beautiful."

During the program, Morris Nussbaum, chaiman of the Talmud Torah Board, presented gifts to former board members, Herman J. Eaton and Joseph Krosner. Both have served five years on the board.

A gift was also presented to Congregation Agudas Achim by the graduates.

Home Extension Service News

With the bridal season approaching, you may be considering a shower or wedding gift of dinnerware for the lucky couple. Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, offers the following facts which may be helpful and interesting:

Kinds of Dinnerware

Earthenware—There are three types of earthenware: semi-vitreous, stoneware, and pottery. At the bottom of the clayware ladder is pottery. Pottery is made from common clay and is baked at a temperature just high enough to harden the clay a little but not high enough to make it really durable. Although pottery is thick, heavy, and sturdy-looking, it tends to chip and break easily. It is porous and, when chipped or cracked, will absorb liquids and food stains. You can recognize pottery easily because it is not translucent, is simple and unfinished-looking, and is usually gaily decorated. Because pottery is not very durable, it should not be purchased as a lifetime investment.

Stoneware is fired at a high temperature. It is more durable than pottery and resists heat. Because of this, it is most popularly used for ovenware. Stoneware is naturally grayish-looking and looks rustic and sturdy.

Semi-vitreous is the most often used everyday ware. It is fired at medium temperatures and is made from moderately good clays, making the finished dishes fairly strong, and fine textured. Because semi-vitreous ware is somewhat porous, it will absorb food and dirt into chips and cracks. A semi-vitreous dish will not ring when tapped.

Chinaware — Fine china is made of choice refined clays, fired at such a high temperature that the clay particles melt and fuse, to form a completely non-porous product. China may look fragile, but it's very durable.

Porcelain is fired at an even more intense heat than china. It looks more like glass and is more transparent than china. Bone china is made of clay to which ashes of ox bones have been added. Because of this, bone china is very white and translucent. Chinaware is translucent when held up to the light, gives a bell-like ringing tone, and has a white or cream colored body.

Buying Dinnerware

When you choose dinnerware for your home, your first consideration will be the style. If your home is modern in style, you will choose a design that is clean, uncluttered looking. However, if your home is decorated in some traditional period, your choice in dinnerware should reflect a similar style. Other points to consider include: are the shapes of the dishes practical, are they easy to handle, especially cup handles.

Are there any defects in the dishes? Check a dish for warping or crazing. These factors will affect the wearing quality of the dinnerware. Pin holes or white patches in the glaze of the dish will not harm the wear, but will detract from its beauty.

Color on the dishes should be even, unless meant to be otherwise. The tiny little marks on the bottoms of the dishes are marks made by "stilts" on which a dish sits when fired. These marks are not defects. Decoration that is put on before glazing will last longer than that put on after.

The cost of a dinnerware piece indicates its quality, to a certain extent. Fine china, for example, will cost more than pottery. The amount and kind of decoration will influence the cost. A design requiring more work will cost more. Gold or platinum edging will made a dinnerware piece more expensive. The price of dinnerware sometimes depends on the name of the manufacturer. You pay more for a name. Imported dinnerware will cost extra because of the duty.

Jacqueline Kennedy Pays Tribute to Hosts By Wearing French Creation for Banquet

By FRANCES LEWINE

PARIS (AP) —Jacqueline Kennedy forsook her all-American wardrobe Thursday night in a surprise personal tribute to her French hosts and their fashion industry.

To the final gala of her three-day visit to Paris—a banquet in the historic Hall of Mirrors of the Palace of Versailles — President Kennedy's wife wore a gown of heavy white silk and matching coat made for her by Paris designer Hubert de Givenchy.

It was the only French creation worn by Mrs. Kennedy during her visit. Already the toast of Paris, today she was even more popular because of her gesture.

Mrs. Kennedy's fashion surprise was a well-kept secret. A press preview of her wardrobe for the trip showed only American gowns and reporters were told she would wear a pink and white straw lace number by New York's Oleg Cassini to Versailles.

Instead she wore the Cassini number Wednesday night to the Elysee Palace, then Thursday night unveiled the ensemble Givenchy made for her some weeks ago and secretly sent to America.

The sleeveless gown had a bell-shaped skirt, high neckline and bodice embroidered in jewelled rose, mauve and green floral design.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

MABEL DE PUY, Correspondent

Treasurer Named By Village Board

NEW PALTZ — Mrs. Hildur Hogan was sworn in as village treasurer to fill out the unexpired term of Marinus Petersen, who resigned, at the regular meeting of the Village Board Monday evening.

The board passed a motion to make application to the State Youth Commission for funds for the Youth Program.

The board also decided to obtain bids for the rental of a police car. Trustee William George was given permission to obtain one.

William Schmalkuche Jr. requested permission to open a street between North Oakwood Terrace and Grove Street. He said that seven feet would be deeded to the village to widen John Street.

The bids for porous concrete underdrain pipe were opened and the contract was awarded to Windsor Building Supplies Co., the lowest bidder.

Merrill Peck representing the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, was on hand to explain their program of inspecting electrical installations and making reports of their findings to someone in charge of the department, which in the case of New Paltz Village would be the building inspector.

It was reported that at a recent special meeting the board had granted permission to Mr. Schulte, building contractor, to extend the water line to several lots on Millrock Road.

Chris Larios of the firm of Brinnier and Larios, reported on the progress of the sewer construction. He also reported that a survey of the water system including testing of the water is under way and that a full report will be available in the near future.

It was announced that there had been an increase of $10,577 in the real property of the village making a total of $2,434,522.50. The tax rate is $33.415 per thousand.

Town Recreation Program Planned

Mrs. Fannie Lawson, field representative for the New York State Youth Commission, met recently with the members of the village and town boards to discuss this year's recreation program for New Paltz.

Peter Savago and S. Parks Glenn, representing the town board, and William George and Harold Phillips, representing the village board, were appointed to an active recreation committee following the meeting.

It was suggested by Mrs. Lawson that a program director be hired outside the boards to coordinate between the activities director and the boards. Leon Keator acted in this capacity last year and was hired to fulfill this position again this year.

Peter Savago was selected as chairman of the New Paltz Recreation Commission.

Last year's budget showed a balance of $1,506.88, $1,000 of which was alloted to the Mike Moriello Park for last year. The banance was alloted for equipment, most of it to be used for the New Paltz Junior Baseball League to give the league a boost for the coming year.

The budget for the coming year is $1,000, alloted to the Moriello Park to be paid when the present program is accepted by the State Youth Commission; salaries, $1,410; equipment, $990; transportation, $200; winter activities, $200; insurance, $200; making a balance of $4,000.

Recently the commission met with William Russell, coach at the central school, to go over his program as activities director. The program operates from July 3 to Aug. 11, each day from 9 a. m. until 12 noon. George Bond will assist Russell.

Margaret Glancy will assist with the program again this year, and Marlene Winnie, a physical education student at Cortland College, will also be on the staff.

Russell will conduct a course in leadership training for his assistants prior to the opening of the program. He hopes to improve on the quanity and quality of the program this year.

Ike, Mamie in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) —Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here today by train from Washington to spend the weekend.

The former president had little to say to newsmen except that he thought "It's a good thing for national heads (of state) to know each other." This was in reference to the weekend meeting of President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Heiress Balks, Won't Give $3.8 Million to Dad's Old Alma Mater

NEW YORK (AP) — Heiress Diana Cullon Davis has refused to surrender a $3,800,000 trust fund to her father's alma mater, Princeton University.

Miss Davis, 22, is at odds with her investment banker father, Shelby Cullon Davis, over the huge fund he set up for her, and which he has slated to go to Princeton.

Davis set up a meeting with Princeton officials to have his daughter sign over the trust fund. Diana didn't show up.

But Thursday she denied knowing about the meeting and said she was resisting "pressure" to sign over the fund. She added: "I called him and told him that after my marriage I would consider seriously what to do about the trust fund. He was so bitter that he hung up on me. Now I don't know what I'll decide to do. He's doing all this for his own glory, anyway."

On June 24, Diana is scheduled to marry John Means Spencer, a history teacher at the Darrow School in New Lebanon, N. Y.

Diana also intimated that her parents are against the marriage.

Davis accuses his daughter of "unreasonable selfishness" and says she has "an assured $30,000-a-year income for life and a $100,000 cash gift."

The big trust fund grew from a $4,000 fund started at Diana's birth. With additional gifts and investment management by the father, it grew to its present stature.

Diana's brother, Shelby Jr., 24, also a Princeton graduate and now with a New York bank, has a trust fund for the same amount.

Davis said his daughter's $3.8 million fund was intended by him as a memorial for his father, George Henry Davis, Princeton '86.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The men who buy from the nation's producers and processors say identical pricing is increasing and that this restricts competition in some industries.

But only about one-fifth of them see an increase in illegal price fixing of the sort that got 29 electrical equipment manufacturers into antitrust trouble.

This seeming paradox is found in reports of 1,000 industrial purchasing agents queried by the national magazine of their trade, Purchasing.

They also report price cutting below list quotations is on the increase with industrial buyers finding several ways of getting a better deal.

And the majority approves the ment of antitrust laws and holds

And the majority approves the government's stepped-up enforcement of antitrust laws and holds the effect will help business in general.

The agents' reasoning isn't paradoxical. The majority holds that in most cases identical bids—such as government agencies are complaining about—are normal and stricly legal. That is, they're arrived at by usual business practices and without the collusion that brings the Justice Department onto the scene.

Producers and manufacturers may be competing actively, even if the price is the same. The sales pitch is: "My product is better and I'm the better supplier."

Here is how the purchasing agents reported on the questions that have been making front-page news and stirring much talk and some action in industrial circles:

Seventy-three per cent find illegal price fixing among industrial suppliers isn't increasing; 21 per cent say it is; 6 per cent have no opinion.

Identical price quotations without collusion in evidence are increasing, say 56 per cent, while 44 per cent disagree. This practice restricts competition in certain industries, 55 per cent believe. But 34 per cent say not, and 11 per cent aren't saying.

Some degree of identical pricing protects smaller suppliers from being driven to the wall by price wars in the opinion of 49 per cent. This is disputed by 43 per cent, and 8 per cent abstain.

The government's stepped-up antitrust enforcement is approved by 73 per cent, disapproved by 21 per cent, with 6 per cent silent.

And 65 per cent say this will benefit business in general, 23 per cent say it will be harmful, and 12 per cent aren't sure.

Cement Workers 2-Year Pact May Set Pattern Here

A recently negotiated two-year contract settlement between United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union with Ideal Cement Company may set the pattern for settlements throughout the industry including five plants in the area.

Ideal has 15 plants all over the nation.

Aubin Straub of the union's district office in Catskill said Ideal agreed to pay salary increases of six cents an hour this year and eight cents next year. The agreement reached last week at the union's office in Chicago followed closely the settlement with Dundee Co., Michigan, a new subsidiary of Canada's St. Lawrence Cement Company, Straub said.

Union workers in the three Catskill plants, North American, Lehigh and Alpha are working on a day-to-day basis. Contracts covering the three plants expired midnight April 30.

No immediate negotiation meetings are scheduled, Straub said.

Sickler's Homer Climaxes Rally For Seventh Win

One big explosion in the sixth inning catapulted the Kingston High school varsity to a 6-3 victory over Our Lady of Lourdes, Thursday at Poughkeepsie.

Coach Al Gruner's Maroons were trailing 2-1 when they came to the bat in the sixth and erupted for a five-run rally climaxed by Rich Sickler's home run to right field.

The victory was the seventh in 12 games for the locals, who will round out the season with games against Poughkeepsie today and Middletown Wednesday.

Bream and Dunn collaborated on a seven-hitter for Kingston, while the Maroons collected only six hits off Epstein and Morrelli, but jammed four of them into the big inning.

Natale Starts It

Paul Natale triggered the rally with a single, but was forced at second by Dick Broberg, Mike Ferraro singled and Jerry Hawkins doubled to send Kingston ahead, 3-2. The rally stayed alive when third baseman Hickey booted Secreto's grounder. Sickler then hit a long drive into the right field corner for a home run.

Natale was the only Kingston player with two hits, both singles. Anderson and Duke each hit two singles for Our Lady.

Marlboro In Walk Over OCS

Onteora Central tossers experienced a mild nightmare in dropping a 5-2 decision to Marlboro Central in the UCAL League Thursday.

A solo home run shot by Di Giovanni tied the score at 2-2 in pitcher's duel between Hyatt of Marlboro and Gordon of OCS.

Then came the top of the sixth. An error got Gordon in a jam and Hegyi drove in what proved to be the winning run for Marlboro. A walk loaded the sacks and Gordon was lifted in favor of Len Muhlich, who promptly forced in two runs with walks.

Hyatt then nailed down the Marlboro win by fanning the side in the Onteora bottom of the seventh.

Di Giovanni had a single in addition to his home run. Bartsch stroked three singles. Woodward and Ferlita hit doubles and Hyatt had a triple for Marlboro.

Avery Leads in Points

Four Drivers Bid for Second 25-Lap Win at Onteora Track

Having given way to the midgets for one day, the big cars return to Onteora Speedway Park Sunday, with four feature winners of the 1961 season in the field.

Latest to join the select circle was Jim Markle of Atwood, who nosed out Don Avery in last Sunday's 25-lap main event.

Avery, the current point leader with 58 prior to last week's card, has been a winner once and runnerup three times, indicating he is well on his way to repeating as the best point collector at Onteora.

Racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan are also looking forward to entries from Big 77—Johnny Flach of South Waterlo and Rebel Harris of Poughkeepsie. Stretch Van Steenburgh of Saugerties who was forced out of race last week is expected to return with his new motor job.

Pete Keator of Kerhonkson, a consistent performer at the track by the Catskills, is also due in the field. Although not a feature winner, Keator has managed to win a couple of heats and is one of the popular performers at Dick Lane's track.

The card will feature the usual three 10-lap heats, a consolation and the 25-lap feature.

Prior to last Sunday's races, Avery held an 8-point lead over Ray Anderson of Newburgh in the points race. D. D. Harris of Poughkeepsie, better known as "Rebel," John Flach and Don Cronk were tied with 38 points.

The leaders at the end of three weeks, all of whom will be on hand at 2:30 p. m. Sunday are:

Car	Driver	Pts
16	Don Avery	58
99	Ray Anderson	50
AAA	D. D. Harris	38
77	John Flach	38
80	Don Cronk	38

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

The $75 million bond issue for land acquisition approved by the voters last fall, is already producing results for the sportsmen. On April 17, Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm announced the appointment of Charles W. Mattison of Saratoga County, as a full time consultant for the program. Mattison, a Sullivan County native, has had extensive experience with the C.C.C., U. S. Forest Service and the conservation departments of several states until his retirement last summer. His new employment serves to emphasize the importance that Albany attaches to the necessity of purchasing land for recreation purposes while it is still available, or as the hucksters labeled it last fall in their pitch to the electorate, "Now or Never."

On Wednesday, a news release from Albany, indicated that the program is in full swing and that many notable purchases have already been consummated. The alacrity which has been demonstrated, once again points up that Wilm is a top notch administrator who somehow has learned to sidestep and avoid government red tape that has so completely ensnared his predecessors in the top post in the Conservation Department.

On crowded Long Island, where N. Jansen Fowler, Chris Morris and other local residents with their families have spent their vacations, tenting at state campsites along the beaches of the Atlantic Ocean on Long Island Sound, the Department has acquired 1,426 acres in the Lloyd's Neck area. This is slated for development as a new state park. With available land on the Island at a premium because of the rash of housing developments, the purchase of this large tract from the Marshall Field Estate, was a rare opportunity that probably would not have existed in a few more years.

GOOD NEWS TO LOCALS:

For the Bud Potters, Wilson Tinneys, Doc Bovees, Jack Reynolds, Jack Bartons, and the legions of other Ulster Countyites who head north toward the Adirondacks on their camping safaries, the acquisition of Nick's Lake for development as a public campsite, will come as good news. Located about two miles south of Old Forge, the 3,747 acres includes all of Nick's Lake estimated to be about 220 acres in water area, 24,400 feet of lake frontage and nearly 24,000 feet of frontage on the Middle Branch of Moose River.

There is ample space along the lake front for development of up to 500 tent sites and, commented Wilm in the release, if additional facilities are needed to meet the public demand, sites can eventually be developed along the Moose River. Nick's Lake will be less than 200 miles from Kingston, with most of the traveling being via the Thruway.

Closer to home, the purchase of a mile and a half of public fishing rights on the East Branch of theDelaware between Downsville and Hancock, was recently announced. This stream with its regulated flow from the cool depths of the Pepacton Reservoir, has consistently produced the best late summer trout fishing in the Catskills.

Under the $75 million bond issue, $15 million will be used to purchase land for hunting, fishing, boat-launching sites, wilderness consolidation and to provide access to existing Forest Preserve land that is now surrounded by private holdings. The remainder of the funds are to be used for new state and local parks. If future purchases are of the same caliber as those announced this week, the future for those who love the out-of-doors in our state, looks very rosy.

Snead Puts U.S. in Lead In Canada Cup Matches

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico (AP)—Sam Snead put the United States into the lead of the ninth annual Canada Cup matches but the man the experts were chattering about today as the golfers teed off for the second round was little Ben Arda of the Philippines.

Unknown outside his island country until the current tourney, Arda is the talk of the clubhouse on the 7,115-yard Dorado Beach course because of his picture swing.

In the first round he shot a 69, duplicating his final practice tour over the tropical par 36-36—72 layout. That was good enough to give him a tie for second with Al Balding of Canada and Peter Thomson of Australia, behind Snead's spectacular 5-under-par 67.

But Arda's total was made the hard way. Only a few hours before teeing off, he received a cable from his home that his wife was suffering from a heart condition.

His 69 and the 76 of Celestino Tugot lifted the Philippines into fourth place in the team standings with 145, five strokes more than the Snead-Jimmy Demaret combination needed to give the United States a start on defending the cup it won a year ago at Dublin.

Snead cut two strokes off par on the way out, but still was one stroke down to Demaret. Then the heat and the lack of tough tourney play hit the ex-Texan and he scrambled for two successive double bogeys on the home nine and wound up with a 73.

Behind the United States in the team standings it was the favored Australian duo of Thomson, four time British Open champion, and Kel Nagle, current British Open champ, with 143, Wales third at 144 and then the Philippines, followed by a three-way deadlock of Egypt, Argentina and Colombia at 146.

Detroit Holds Two Game Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers were held to a 4-4 tie by Kansas City in a game called after 7½ innings because of rain Thursday and retained a two-game lead over idle Cleveland in the American League race. Boston beat New York 7-5 and Washington defeated the Los Angeles Angels 3-2 in the ninth inning on a passed ball by catcher Earl Averill with two out and a two-run pinch double by Gene Woodling.

The Senators were blanked on five hits for eight innings by Eli Grba. But when he gave up his fifth walk, to Chuck Hinton leading off the ninth, Manager Bill Rigney called in reliever Ryne Duren.

Duren walked Jim King, then struck out Willie Tasby. But the Senators pulled a double steal and Dale Long hit a sacrifice fly. Then came the third strike-passed ball that put Billy Klaus on base and the break up shot by Woodling, who hasn't played in two weeks because of a leg injury.

Gabler In Relief

John Gabler, another ex-Yankee, won his second in relief of Joe McClain.

The Tigers blew a 3-0 lead before salvaging the tie with the A's on two walks and a single by Al Kaline in the seventh. Kansas City had taken the lead with four runs in the fifth, two on Wayne Causey's home run, against Phil Regan. Norm Cash homered for Detroit, off Ray Herbert.

Veteran Vic Wertz puffed out his first triple in six seasons and drove in three runs for the Red Sox, bringing in the deciding run in the fifth inning. Bob (3-3) was the loser. Bill Skowron drove in three runs with a pair of homers for the Yankees, who collected half of their 14 hits and four runs in the last two innings. Bill Monbouquette (4-5) was the winner. He gave up 11 hits in 7 2-3 innings, including Skowron's first homer—the first he had allowed in 76 innings.

Dickinson Now Is Man to Beat In Memphis Open

MEMPHIS (AP) — Advice from the top may be finally paying off for Gardner Dickinson, whose whose record-tying 63 made him the man to beat going into today's second round of the $30,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Dickinson, a slightly built pro, took a tip from PGA champion Jay Hebert and used it in fashioning Thursday's round of 30-33 that gave him a one-stroke lead over Don Whitt.

Four others, including defending champion Tommy Bolt, were next at 66 as 24 in the field of 91 pros and amateurs broke par over the 6,423-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course.

Top money winners Gary Player and Arnold Palmer are not here because of a rhubarb.

"Jay told me during a practice round to stand closer to the ball," Dickinson said. "It looks as if it helped. If a few of those putts had gone in, I'd really have had a round."

It was the second straight day for Dickinson to tie the course competitive record. His 63 Wednesday was in a pro-am and doesn't count in the tournament.

Player and Palmer wanted to play in the Canada Cup International matches, now going on, but the PGA-sponsored Memphis Open wouldn't release them. So they're sitting out the week.

Bob Rosburg, chairman of the PGA Players' Committee and one of the biggest backers of Memphis's stand, had a 67 Thursday, along with six others, including hometow nfavorite Cary Middlecoff. Six others had 68s.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and tied after today's round.

Sickler's 35 Club Tops Glynn's in Rec League

Don Koeppen of Sickler's 35 Club pitched a steady seven-hitter to turn back Glynn's Shoes, 12 to 2, Thursday in the Recreation softball league.

In the other game, Lincoln Park Inn and Bloomington Inn battled to a 4-4, eight-inning tie halted by darkness.

Sickler's backed Koeppen's pitching with a 12-hit barrage against Bill Sinsabaugh and Rich Hoffman including home run shots by Herm Sickler and Willie Cragan. Sickler also poled two singles and Cragan had one. Hahn slammed a double and triple and Jack Dawkins hit a three bagger. Dcn Uhl hit a homer and single for Glynn's.

Lincoln Park scored a single run in the seventh to tie Bloomington at 4-4. An inning later darkness stopped the game.

George Smith of Bloomington and Al Milak of Lincoln Park went the distance, yielding 6 and 8 hits, respectively.

Max Wunderlick tripled and Frank Sammons and Al Studt had two hits each for Bloomington. Don Smith and Andy Juhl also had a brace of hits.

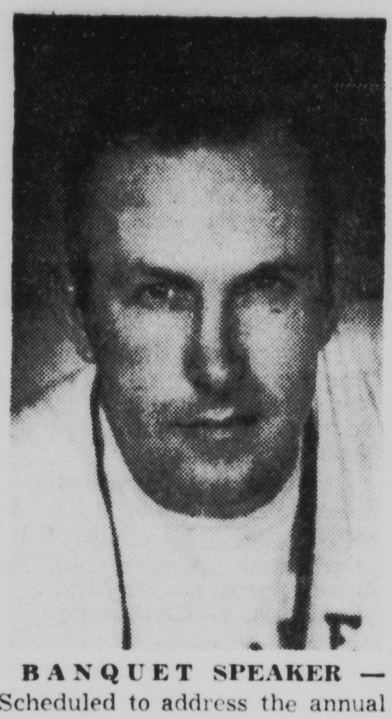
Dempsey-Tunney Urge Congress To Save Boxing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney urged Congress today to rescue professional boxing from the clutches of racketeers.

They filed brief written appeals before testifying at Senate committee hearings on an anti racketeering bill to place big time boxing under Justice Department regulation.

The two old warriors, whose bouts made boxing history, spoke almost as one in endorsing the bill. It would create the position of federal boxing commissioner in the Justice Department, with tough powers to grant, deny or cancel licenses of boxers, managers, promoters and matchmakers, and to ferret out any under-the-table deals with the underworld.



BANQUET SPEAKER — Scheduled to address the annual Saugerties High School athletic banquet Saturday night is Angelo Bertelli, former All-American football player and later a professional star. Bertelli was a quarterback on the great Notre Dame teams during the early 1940s. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. in the SHS cafeteria.

Reds Gain Half Game On Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati gained a half-game lead in the National League race while idle Thursday as St. Louis beat San Francisco 7-6 and knocked the Giants out of a first place tie. Pittsburgh rapped Milwaukee 8-2, in a game called after seven innings because of rain, and the Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 10-3.

Milwaukee, given a tongue-lashing by Manager Charlie Dressen after some horse play on a bus, now has lost four of its last five games.

Lew Burdette took the rap in this one, and was tossed out of the game after arguing with Umpire Bill Jackowski. The flare up came when Jackowski disapproved of a high-tight pitch to to face Burdette after Dick Groat had hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Burgess Hits Two

Groat and Smoky Burgess, who hit two homers, each drove in three runs as the Pirates tagged Burdette (4-4) for seven of their 10 hits. A sacrifice fly by Frank Thomas and a single by Joe Torre drove in the Braves' runs before southpaw Harvey Haddix (4-1), allowing eight hits and striking out seven, started a run of six shutout innings.

Milwaukee traded utility infielder Billy Martin to the Minnesota Twins of the AL Thursday night. In his blow up, which followed Sunday's doubleheader split against last place Philadelphia, Dressen told the Braves "some of you guys won't be with us" after the June 15 trading deadline.

The Giants, down 6-0, almost pulled it out in the ninth against the Cards. Felipe Alou and Willie McCovey hit solo homers off reliever Lindy McDaniel before Al Cicotte came on and got Orlando Cepeda on a grounder for the final out. Cepeda had homered in the sixth off winner Ernie Broglio (5-5). The Cards scored five in the fifth off loser Mike McCormick (5-4), then scored the clincher on Julian Javier's single in the sixth against reliever Ed Fisher.

George Altman and Don Zimmer hit home runs and each drove in three runs as the Cubs won four in a row for the first time. Frank Sullivan (2-6) was the loser while Glen Hobbie won his third.

Rondout Valley Edges Wallkill in UCAL, 5-4

Rondout Valley nipped Wallkill Central, 5 to 4, in a UCAL contest Thursday, scoring four runs in the fifth to tie the score at 4-4 and pushing the winning tally across in the bottom of the seventh.

Jim Brush, Rondout pitcher, stopped Wallkill cold after yielding four runs in the first two innings. He permitted seven hits and struck out five.

Rondout picked up 10 hits off Don Pink, including three singles by Lynn Johnson. Pink whiffed 10.

Pink fanned the side in the fifth inning but in between the strikeouts the Ganders tagged him for five singles.

Crespi and Cirone singled to launch the rally. Pink appeared to be out of trouble when he fanned Brush and K. Johnson in succession. But trouble cropped up quickly as Lynn Johnson, Green and Sturgeon singled before Pink retired the side by striking out Quick.

Crespi and Cirone hit two singles apiece for the winners. Gaffney had a pair for Wallkill.

The victory set Rondout's record at 5 and 4 for third place in the UCAL. They are scheduled to play Highland today at Highland.

Expect Fishing To Be Excellent In the Catskills

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — With good weather, the fishing this weekend should be excellent in the Adirondacks and very favorable in the Catskills and in Western New York, the State Conservation Department says.

The department Thursday gave this rundown on current fishing conditions:

Adirondacks — Poor in Lake George and Sacandaga Reservoir, fair in Saratoga Lake and Lake Champlain, excellent in West Canada Lake, Cedar Lakes region and all trout lakes in Hamilton and Warren counties. Stream fishing is excellent from North Creek to the Hudson River.

Catskills—Streams clear, about normal; fishing pressure light to moderate. Good catches recorded. Trout are hitting artificial flies.

Western New York—Good fishing in all lakes and ponds. Lake trout are hitting well.

Carry Back Heavy Favorite to Win Belmont Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — The Belmont Stakes will be run for the 93rd time Saturday and it's odds-on that Carry Back will be in front at the end of the testing 1½ miles and become the ninth horse to wrap up the coveted triple crown for 3-year-olds.

Post time for the longest leg of the triple crown series, which also includes the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, is 3:50 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. The race at Belmont Park, will be nationally televised (CBS) from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Whether the odds on Katherine Price's darling of the thoroughbreds are 4-5, 3-5 or less depends on the names of the opposition dropped into the entry box today.

Robert Lehman's Ambiopoiss is the question mark that could well cause a shift in the odds. The son of Ambiorix, whose offsprings often have shown an erratic tendency, won last Tuesday's Jersey Derby at Garden State by 10 lengths. Earlier in the season he also easily won the Gotham Stakes. But he was far back of Carry Back as the little Florida-owned brown son of Saggy ran to victory deep in the home stretch of the Kentucky Derby.

"Whether Ambiopoise is entered makes no difference to us," said Carry Back's trainer, Jack Price, after sending the favorite out for a five-eighths of a mile blowout with jockey Johnny Sellers in the saddle.

The field for the classic received an unexpected increase Thursday when trainer Harold Young announced that Jacob Sher's Sherluck will be in the post parade.

Slated to round out the field were, Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller, King Ranch's Bal Musette, Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away, Flutterby from the Alberta Ranches, and Mrs. R. L. Dotter's Guadalcanal.

Danny Thomas Prepared to Buy White Sox Club

CHICAGO (AP)—Controlling interest of the Chicago White Sox may be in the hands of entertainer Danny Thomas and his associates within a week.

Bernard Epton, Chicago attorney and one of the prime organizers of the Thomas syndicate, Thursday made an offer to purchase 54 per cent control of the Chicago American League club. Epton, 39, mentioned no price, but it was understood to be between $4,800,000 and $5,000,000 for the same block of stock that was sold to Bill Veeck and his associates for $2,700,000 in 1959.

Announcement of receipt of the Epton-Thomas offer was made jointly by ailing White Sox President Veeck, Hank Greenberg, vice president, and board member A. C. Allyn Jr. Veeck and his associates are considering the offer, but Veeck said an option to purchase has not yet been signed by the parties concerned. A decision is expected to be reached by Monday, Veeck said.

Epton said his group originally sought to buy both the 54 per cent holdings of the Veeck syndicate and the 46 per cent held by Chuck Comiskey. However, Epton said, Thursday's bid did not include an offer for Comiskey's stock.

MILESTONE— Willie Shoemaker holds a silver platter awarded to him by Hollywood Park after he rode his 4,000th winner. He's the fourth jockey to reach that total.

Minnesota Twins On Trading Binge

DETROIT (AP) — The skidding Minnesota Twins have gone on a trading binge and acquire infielder Billy Martin from Milwaukee and outfielder Bill Tuttle from Kansas City.

The Twins, who slipped from third to seventh place by losing 10 of their last 11 games, Thursday gave utility infielder Bill Consolo and an undisclosed amount of cash to Milwaukee for Martin, the much-traveled, scrappy veteran who achieved world series fame with the New York Yankees.

Minnesota also sent infielder Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Paul Giel to Kansas City in return for the veteran Tuttle in a straight player deal.

The third-place Olean Oilers gained on the league-leading Geneva Redlegs and second-place Wellsville Braves in the Class D New York-Penn Baseball League action Thursday night by rapping home runs.

Manager Hal Holland poked the first one for Olean against the Batavia Pirates as the Oilers won, 8-3, at Olean. The bases were empty.

Catcher Mike Imbriana smashed another in the fifth with one on, and Len Benedetto added the third one in the seventh with one aboard. It was Benedetto's seventh and Holland's fifth of the season.

In the only other game, the Auburn Yankees walloped Wellsville at Auburn, 8-1. First baseman Don Eoff of Auburn drove in three runs with a pair of singles.

The Jamestown at Elmira and Geneva at Erie games were postponed because of rain.

Weaker Hand Would Set

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Just look at the South hand you will have.

To start with, you have to choose your first response. In spite of your 10 high card points that include two aces you should content yourself with one no-trump. When your partner bids two diamonds you can now afford to rebid to two no-trump whereupon he takes you to game.

West opens the five of hearts; East plays the queen and you have your first problem in the play. Should you grab the queen or hold off?

You decide to win the trick because you can't stand a shift to spades.

You lead a diamond and should play the ace from dummy. You are in no danger if West has the king of diamonds since he can't lead anything to worry you and you want to guard against the possibility of East holding the singleton king.

East does hold the king and wins the second diamond trick. Then he plays the ten of hearts and you have your last problem. Should you cover or duck?

You should cover because East might have started with queen-ten-nine. Sure enough he had. The nine of hearts blocks the suit and you romp home with your contract.

Where does the unlucky expert come in? He sat East and if he had just been a trifle weaker in hearts he would have set you.

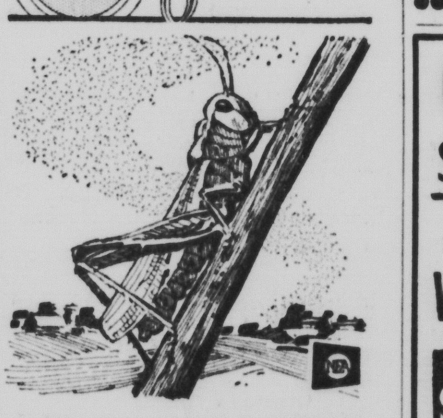
matter of Fact



The locust is a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde character. When he's Dr. Jekyll, the locust is harmless and solitary. But when locusts multiply too quickly, their whole personality changes. Overcrowding and drought create a restless and irritable "Mr. Hyde" locust. He breathes faster and needs more food. Ominously, his wings grow. Swarms of such locusts may weigh 20,000 tons — eating their weight in green food every day.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The fertile mind of Bob Newhart will be buttoned down to records and concerts no more.

The brilliant young humorist from Chicago is starting his first movie this week. And he and his interlocking corporations are preparing the debut of his own TV show next season.

"I'm the guy who got started poking fun at corporations," he observed, "and now I'm president of some."

He's making his movie bow in "Hell Is for Heroes," in which he will help Steve McQueen, Bobby Darin, Nick Adams, Fess Parker and others win the war. His character will be strictly Newhartian.

"I play a clerk who is delivering some typewriters to headquarters," Bob said. "I get lost and end up at the front, where I'm pressed into duty. I'll have some comedy scenes, but the studio said they wouldn't stop the plot for me to go into one of my routines. That's the way I want it."

The picture was delayed a week, much to his delight. Newhart, who likes to recall the bad old days, observed: "I was paid $2,500 to play golf for a week. That was $1,100 more than my total earnings in 1958."

His income will continue to mushroom as he embarks next fall on his own TV show. He describes it as a variety half-hour, as opposed to a situation comedy.

Mahoney's View

Trickery Seen If Demos Take Local Offices

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—State Sen. Walter J. Mahoney says Democrats would bring "morally questionable, political brigandry" to suburban communities if elected to replace Republicans in local offices.

Mahoney, Senate majority leader and Buffalo Republican, spoke Thursday night at the annual dinner of the Republican Town Committee of Oyster Bay in Nassau County.

"The Democrats will stoop to using every conceivable bit of trickery, falsehood, misinformation of half-truth in their sordid effort to seize control of the suburbs," Mahoney said.

Democrats have been making inroads in traditionally Republican communities in many parts of the state.

Trial Date Is Set

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Charges of trespass and disorderly conduct against 27 pickets for integration at the Coney Island amusement park will be heard June 8.

Judge David N. Gorman of the Hamilton County Court at Madeira set the trial date after attorneys for both sides requested continuance.

Stealing of Livestock Reported in HV Area

A rash of cow thefts have been reported by dairy farmers throughout the Hudson Valley in the past few weeks.

The most recent loss was reported at a farm north of Saugerties where a five-year-old Holstein valued at $400 was taken away.

The operation usually takes place late at night or in the early morning hours. A truck pulls up near a field with grazing cows left out overnight and the thief takes his pick of the herd.

The farmer usually doesn't miss one cow, believing it may have strayed. He fails to report it to the authorities because at other times a straying animal returns later in the day or even a day or two later.

By the time the authorities are notified the animal has been slaughtered, the meat sold and the remaining evidence destroyed.

Residents who reside near cow pastures are requested to note descriptions of trucks and license numbers of vehicles parked late at night. This information should be passed on to the nearest law enforcement agency.

FBI Apprehend Ulster Fugitive At Poughkeepsie

A former Rosendale man sought by Ulster County district attorney's office for unlawful flight to avoid confinement in connection with an assault case, was arrested Thursday, Harvey G. Foster, special agent-in-charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office, New York City announced today.

Andrew M. Cherny, 22, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John B. Garrity of Poughkeepsie and remanded to Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail. He will be turned over to Ulster County authorities on Saturday.

Cherny was previously convicted in Ulster County for assault and received a 2½ to 5 year suspended sentence placed on probation. He later violated probation and a local warrant was issued for his arrest. Based upon his unlawful flight to avoid confinement for the crime of assault, Ulster County District Attorney David W. Corwin requested the assistance of the FBI in locating Cherny.

Meeting Raises Hopes of Break In Laos Deadlock

GENEVA (AP)—The head of the pro-Western Laotian government agreed today to meet the other two princes heading his nation's two Communist-supported factions, raising some hope of a break in the deadlocked negotiations here and in Laos.

Prince Accepts Bid

A spokesman for the royal government said Prince Boun Oum, the premier of the Vientiane regime, had accepted Prince Souvanna Phouma's invitation to a conference with him and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong.

Souvanna Phouma calls himself a neutralist but is recognized by the Communist bloc as the premier of Laos. Souphanouvong heads the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

Boun Oum's spokesman here said no date or place for the conference had been fixed and that Geneva or Nice, on the French Riviera, had been suggested.

The East-West conference on Laos here in Geneva and negotiations in Laos between the Vientiane government and the Communist-backed factions are both deadlocked over what to negotiate on first.

In Geneva, the West is insisting that new instructions be sent the international truce commission in Laos to enable it to stop rebel attacks that have continued on Vientiane forces, particularly resistance pockets scattered through territory that is nominally controlled by the rebels.

Hopeful of JFK Aid

The Communist delegates at Geneva insist a cease-fire is in force and that the political future of the Southeast Asia kingdom should be discussed.

The general hope on the Western side at Geneva is that President Kennedy, at his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend, can get the Soviets to modify their stand and that progress then can be made. The chief U.S. delegate to the Geneva conference, U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, flew to Paris today to join the President for the Vienna trip.

Demands Jersey County Be Left Out as Jetport

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J., demands that the Port Authority of New York quit its efforts to set up a jet airport in Morris County, N. J.

The congressman said Thursday that a new Port Authority report on the virtues of the Morris County site is largely a restatement of the authority's 1959 stand "and again flouts public opinion."

The report Wednesday in effect rejected 16 other possible sites for a proposed $220 million fourth airport for the Metropolitan New York area.

The report made no flat recommendation for a site, but reiterated findings of 18 months ago that a fourth jet airport is greatly needed and that the Morris County site comes nearest to meeting criteria such as physical suitability and nearness to population centers.

Frelinghuysen is chairman of the Jersey Jetport Site Association, which opposes construction of such an airport in his home county.

Frelinghuysen told a news conference:

"The expenditure of $537,000 by the Port Authority to restate its original position is outrageous."

He contested authority findings that the site, near the so-called great swamp area, is relatively underdeveloped.

He said it is a growing residential area, that 18,000 residents of Morris County alone would be affected by noise, and that 195,000 persons live within 7.5 miles of the center of the proposed site.

If there is a need for a fourth airport, he said, the "pine barrens" area of Burlington County would be more appropriate.

Leaders to Relax At Vienna Fete Given by Schaerf

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— Even if the meetings of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev will be mostly serious affairs, the fun-loving Austrians will see that the two leaders relax at least once.

That will be at the dinner President Adolf Schaerf gives for them Saturday night in the vast and glittering great gallery of the Schoenbrunn Palace.

The Vienna State Opera Ballet will dance, the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra will play and a top caterer will make sure they are wined and dined properly.

A spokesman of the Austrian government said about 200 guests will be invited to the dinner. They include the American and Soviet delegations and their ladies and the Austrian government leaders and their wives.

The sprawling 1,400-room palace in the Hietzing suburb was begun in 1694 under Emperor Leopold I and was completed 55 years later in Empress Maria Theresa's reign.

Up to the end of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy in 1918 the palace served as an imperial residence. Since that time it has been used as a public showcase and for special government receptions.

Pennsy to Take New Look at Basin Compact

BUSHKILL, Pa. (AP) — The Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin meets here today and Saturday for a fresh appraisal of what is in store for the populous valley.

Rep. Francis Walter, D-Pa., will address tonight's dinner meeting. He is credited with steering the engineers' recommendations for the basin to congressional approval.

But Pennsylvania has yet to ratify the interstate-federal compact for the Delaware Basin. Delaware, New Jersey and New York have done so.

The association's second annual meeting winds up with a Saturday tour of an area between Shawnee-on-Delaware and Port Jervis, N. Y., which would be turned into a national recreation center at a cost of $178 million.

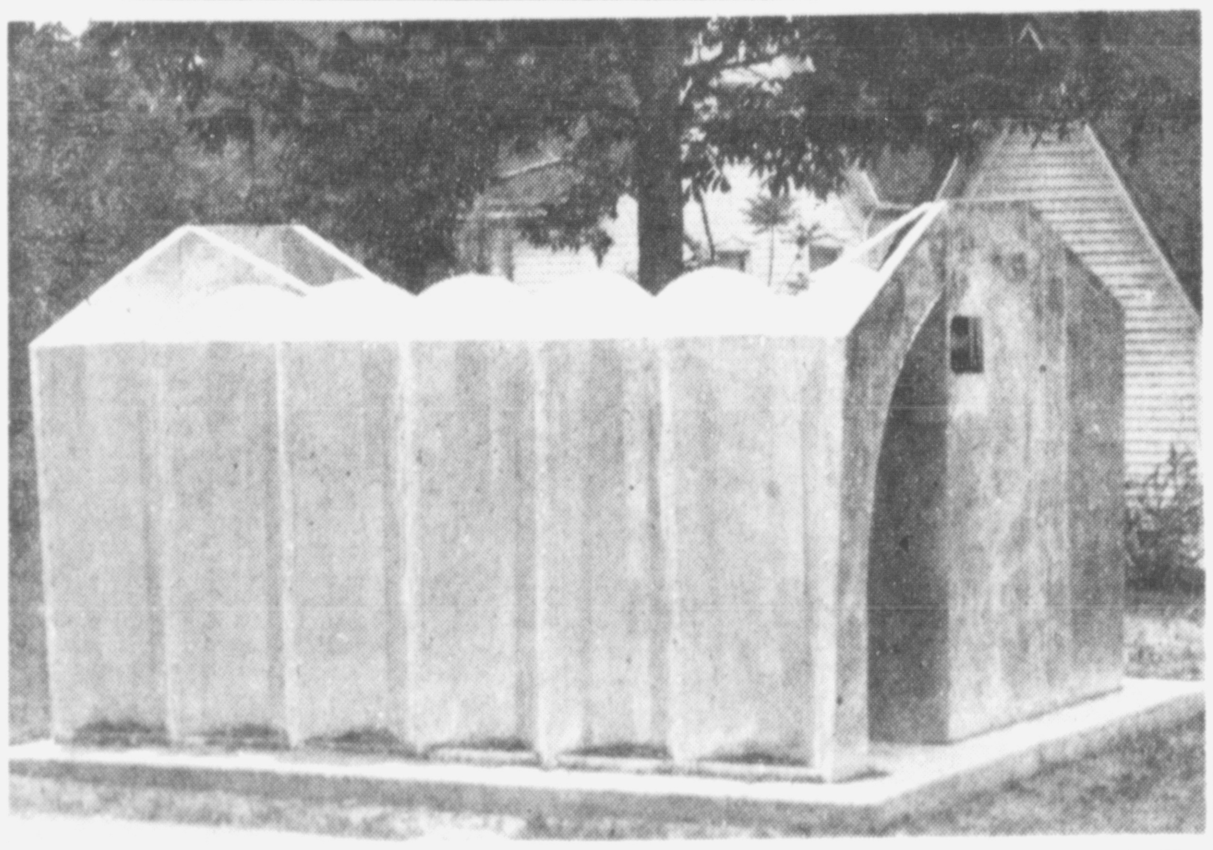
Authorize Start on Final School Plans



FALLOUT SHELTER AT KHS—A demonstration fallout shelter has been completed at the north end of the Vocational Building on Kingston High School property for viewing by the general public. An improved type family shelter for protection against radioactive fall-out, it is designed for a do-it-yourself installation in the home basement. It provides a protected area of 64 square feet and can be lengthened in increments of 14 square feet each. The shelter, to be installed against one basement wall provides a protection factor of approximately 250-500. After assembling the shelter, 12 yards of sand or gravel is placed in the space provided around the living area. Material for the demonstration shelter, with the exception of the concrete base, was provided wholly by federal funds. (Freeman photo)

Forsyth Job Is for $3,119,500

Budget Hearing Is Thursday, June 8

Architects were authorized Thursday night by the Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated) to prepare final plans for a junior high school in the Forsyth Park area at an estimated cost of $3,119,500.

The cost of the building itself is estimated at $2,318,000, which is approximately $19 per square foot.

The remainder is for items such as site development ($225,000), architect and engineer fees ($163,000), built-in equipment ($100,000), central kitchen ($61,000), legal and administrative fees, core borings, etc.

Decision on Fire Systems

The board also:

1. Decided to install smoke detection systems in Schools 3 and 4 instead of sprinklers after hearing a report from Hugh Kirkman, fire protection expert, regarding the inadequacy of the water situation in those areas.

2. Authorized architects, Perkins & Will, to proceed immediately with installation of underground piping for sprinklers at Schools 5, 6, 7 and 8.

3. Approved installation of a central kitchen in the proposed junior high school which would serve outlying schools in the consolidation.

4. Decided to proceed with negotiations for a tract of land in the Hasbrouck Park area for construction of an elementary school, after hearing a report from a firm of geological engineers which indicated that the underlying rock formations would not offer a serious hazard.

Public Hearing June 8

A public hearing on the proposed budget for the school year 1961-62 will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, June 8, in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Another meeting of the board will be held Thursday, June 22, for final adoption of the budget.

An organizational meeting of the board will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday, July 1, at which time the two new members of the board—Mrs. Edith Case Murphy and Bernie Singer—will take their seats, succeeding President Robert Herzog and Vice-President Robert O'Reilly, whose terms expire. New officers will also be elected.

To Have Three Levels

Whitney Murphy, representing Perkins & Will, "unveiled" an architect's drawing of the handsome new junior high school which will be located on a "gentle grade" with an excellent view of the Catskill mountains in the distance.

He explained that the building will have three levels, although in no one part will it be more than two stories.

He said that "very little rock cutting" will be required, that it will be a "simple structure"

Discuss Zoning to Fit City Planning

35 Split on Ordinance For Controlling Dogs

Argument at Thursday night's public hearing to determine the feasibility of enacting a dog ordinance appeared about even among those for and against a law governing canine life, but applause at one point indicated more vigorous opposing sentiment.

Another hearing dealing with amendment of the zoning law to comply with city planning and urban renewal projects was opposed by one resident who considered the proposal inadequate. He was told, however, that the amendment, as presented, was a beginning and sections were to be added.

Wary of Restriction

Some who opposed a local law aimed at lessening menace, danger and annoyance resulting of dog residency and reported irresponsible ownership, indicated they would favor effective legislation against more flagrant abuses, but were wary of action that would impose undue restriction on the majority of the city's 2,300 dog population.

Those favoring an ordinance pointed to the annoyances resulting of the wanton prowling often resulting in property damage, unsanitary conditions, barking and biting of uncontrolled animals.

Bitten 11 Times

A mailman, who said he had been bitten 11 times by dogs said he was opposed to an ordinance because he felt it would not be properly enforced.

The hearing dealing with a zoning ordinance amendment was conducted by Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, chairman of the Common Council's laws and rules committee. It was held first. The other hearing was conducted by Alderman John P. Heitzman, (D) 12th Ward, chairman of the special dog ordinance committee.

In opening the hearing on the ordinance proposal Heitzman told an attendance of some 35 that the committee was aware of the fact that the "topic has been controversial" and has been studying an ordinance proposal for some two months.

Public's Night to Speak

It was not the committee's intention at the hearing, he said, to disclose what we have turned up, because it felt its investigation was still incomplete. Several individuals thought to be qualified "to speak about dog problems," he said were interviewed, and it was felt that the committee "may or may not" have something to offer at this time, and added, "Tonight is your night to speak out." He noted that the city has no dog ordinance but has been guided by the state's Agriculture and Markets Law in dealing with canine problems.

Security Of Europe His Pledge

Praises DeGaulle For Leadership

PARIS (AP) — President Kennedy said today he was concluding his three-day policy conference with French President Charles de Gaulle with a feeling "of confidence and hope."

Speaking at a press luncheon, the U.S. chief executive said the most striking impression he would carry from France was of the vitality and dynamism of the French people.

He said he was very happy to express publicly his appreciation of De Gaulle's qualities of leadership.

Still Eyes Test Pact

Referring to specific policy issues of the cold war, Kennedy declared the United States still hopes to reach agreement with the Soviet Union in Geneva on a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests.

Kennedy also praised Britain and France for their "wise and sympathetic policies" toward the newly independent countries which were their former colonies. He said these British and French policies have strengthened the free world.

The time has now come, Kennedy said, for the free world to unite more closely than ever to fight misery in those portions of the world—"the southern half of the globe"—where "liberty is under pressure."

Notes Determination

Kennedy said he expects to discuss the Berlin question in Vienna Saturday and Sunday with Premier Khrushchev and declared he and De Gaulle were agreed that Western rights in Berlin must not be altered by force.

The President declared it must be made clear — presumably he meant made clear to Khrushchev—that "we are determined" to resist aggression to whatever force might be necessary.

In a speech earlier in the day the President said the United States is determined to strengthen its forces in Europe to guard the freedom of this part of the world.

"The United States of America intends to bear its full part," Kennedy told several hundred officers and civilians standing in the rain outside NATO military headquarters (SHAPE) just outside Paris.

Security Affects Both

Referring to U.S. participation in the two world wars and in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the President said the United States three times in this century had demonstrated that its own security "must inevitably be linked with the security of a free Europe."

"We are determined to maintain and strengthen the forces we now have stretched across Europe to defend this part of the world, whose security affects the security of our own country," Kennedy declared.

Kennedy visited the headquarters of U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's supreme commander, before his concluding talks with De Gaulle.

De Gaulle and Kennedy talked for an hour and five minutes then for the first time in their series of conferences were joined by top aides.

Rusk Joins Session

Joining the meeting were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who

Trujillo Accorded Honors, Son Named

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republica (AP)—Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo was paid the tribute accorded heroes today.

His playboy son, Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., became the commander in chief of the 25,000-man armed forces of the Dominican Republic, the backbone of his father's absolute rule for 31 years.

Assassins First Job

Rafael Jr, 32—made a brigadier general at the age of 9 by his proud father—was appointed Thursday night by President Joaquin Balaguer and other government chiefs who served as front men for the generalissimo.

Young Trujillo's first job in preserving the family rule is to hunt down the small band of assassins led by a retired army general who ambushed the dictator Tuesday night as he was being driven from Ciudad Trujillo to his country estate. The elder Trujillo, 69, fell fighting with revolver in hand, a communique said.

Says Asylum Given

The newspaper El Caribe said a Roman Catholic Priest, Father Gabriel Maduro, had given asylum to one of the group that assassinated Trujillo.

The newspaper, considered a spokesman for the government, said Huascar Tejeda Reina was given shelter in the priest's home. The priest denied this.

There was no official word whether any of the conspirators have been arrested.

The dictator was to take his last ride today from this capital city, whose ancient name of Santo Domingo he changed to memorialize himself.

The body lay in state in his luxurious home in the capital during the night, then was moved to the lobby of the National Palace stacked with flowers.

San Cristobal Burial

The burial will be in San Cristobal, 18 miles away where Trujillo was born and worked in a mill before embarking on his military path to power and vast riches.

Archbishop Octavio Bera, ranking prelate of the Roman Catholic Church with which Trujillo fought in recent years, was to officiate at the services.

The nation of almost three million was outwardly calm; the

Reds See Some Good if Kennedy Accepts Policy

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Guarded optimism emanated from the Soviet camp today that something useful might come out of the conference between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev this weekend—if Knnedy is prepared to accept the Soviet point of view on world problems as logical.

Local Communist bloc attaches who could be reached and the Soviet press in Moscow all voice the same message: That acceptance of Soviet policy offers the only chance for world peace and that the American viewpoint is not only wrong but a bit reprehensible.

Pravada Sums Up View

Talking to Soviet officials is pretty much like reading Pravda, and that is the way it is in Vienna. Their point of view was summed up by Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, which said: "The people of good will realize that many difficult problems have accumulated during the course of the postwar period. Obviously they cannot be solved immediately, at one meeting.

"Yet the peace-loving public hopes that during the course of the forthcoming meeting of the two leading statesmen, the open expression of each other's points of view will be possible as well as the finding of points of agreement and the marking of further steps toward a rapproachement.

"Unfortunately," Pravda continued, "from the other side of the ocean voices are heard which cannot be regarded either as sober or clever."

The Moscow Literary Gazette added that "the political blindness of certain U.S. circles is indeed amazing."

The bureau said in a long-range forecast Thursday that temperatures would be about 3 degrees below normal. Normal for the month is 64.2 degrees at Binghamton, 65.5 at Buffalo, 67 at Albany and 71 at New York City.

Rainfall in the state is expected to range from 1.89 inches to 4½ inches, the bureau said.

Family Hobby Is Winning Factor In Spelling Bee

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP) — If one word can explain the success of 12-year-old John Capehart, it's spelled f-a-m-i-l-y.

Rooting for John as he won the 1961 National Spelling Bee Thursday were his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice P. Capehart of Tulsa, Okla., and his brother, Mark, 14.

"This has been a family hobby with us," explained the father. He's 42, slim, dark and a neurosurgeon. "We often have little spelling sessions at home after dinner."

Father Participates

Capehart said he participated in these parlor spelldowns with John and Mark, who finished 12th in the 1958 national bee.

GOP Elects State Man Party Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller of New York, today was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Miller, generally regarded as a middle-of-the-road Republican, succeeds Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky who resigned to allow himself more time to campaign for re-election to the Senate next year.

43rd Chairman

Miller, 47, is the party's 43rd chairman, and the second Roman Catholic to serve in the post since the GOP was organized in 1856. The first Catholic chairman was Thomas H. Carter of Montana, in 1892-96.

Miller supported former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination last year, but says he is neutral on a 1964 candidate.

Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a spokesman for the party conservatives, all had given their approval to Miller's selection as party chairman.

Now in Sixth Term

A lawyer, Miller is now in his sixth term in the House. He won wide recognition last year by helping to bring about substantial GOP gains in Congress as chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee.

As chairman, Miller will direct the party battle to carry out what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower calls its "clear mandate" to attack President Kennedy's program.

Eisenhower laid before a cheering audience of 6,000 party faithful at a $100-a-plate dinner Thursday night a battle plan under which he said "for America's sake, we take sharp issue with the leadership now in power."

The former President, 70, wearing a fresh daffodil in his buttonhole, was in rare form. He gave the Republicans a political talking-to that he never could bring himself to do while he was in the White House.

Sounding at times like former President Harry S. Truman — in reverse — Eisenhower brought down the house with a wide swinging attack on the Kennedy administration's fiscal policies.

As he never did while he was in the White House, Eisenhower went wholly partisan and seemed

Amesse Not Very Helpful at Span Scene: Witness

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) —A witness has testified that David Amesse was "not very cooperative" at the scene where his pregnant girl friend went to her death in the Hudson River.

Amesse, 20, of Staatsburg, is charged with second-degree murder and first-degree manslaughter in the drowning of 18-year-old Rachel Perry. Amesse is accused of shoving her off the Mid-Hudson Bridge on the night of last Dec. 21.

Amesse says he and Rachel entered a suicide pact but that he "chickened out."

During the trial, which started Thursday, one witness was John S. Metzer, State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation officer, since retired. Metzer said he was summoned to the scene and when he arrived, Amesse, "not very cooperative," told him: "She walked away from me and disappeared. I heard something hit something, and then a splashing sound."

Among other witnesses were three bridge toll collectors—Irwin Brand, Leroy Williams and Chester Decker — who told of the couple walking onto the bridge the fatal night.

Williams testified that Amesse

DecisionReserved On SCAD Appeal In Area Case

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—An attorney representing an Ulster County resort has charged the State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD) with engaging in "unfair practices."

Peter H. Harp of New Paltz made the charge Thursday at a hearing before the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division, third department.

Harp was defending the right of his client—Trowbridge Farm in Kyserike—to use the words "serving Christian clientele since 1911" in their brochures.

Ordered Words Removed

SCAD, after a hearing, had ordered the words removed on the ground they were discriminatory.

"You are making a serious charge," presiding Justice Francis Bergan said. "What do you say happened that was unfair?"

"I might as well have talked to the wall, Harp said. "I was denied the right of oral argument. Everything the commission's attorneys did was approved."

Miss Ann T. Clarke of SCAD's legal staff, told the court the words used by the resort "while an affirmative expression, has a negative effect."

New State Agency to Help In Regional Development

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The State Office for Regional Development has been assigned the task of expanding the state's economy, encouraging orderly community and regional development and helping to plan better public facilities at reduced cost.

Gov. Rockefeller established the agency Thursday and named George A. Dudley its director. He will be paid $22,000 a year.

Dudley, 46, is an architect and veteran city and regional planner. He previously worked with Rockefeller in the federal government and in private business. Dudley lives in Bedford Village, Westchester County.

The office will coordinate the state's various planning activities, the governor said. Its endeavors will embrace housing, transportation, public works, parks and recreation areas.

Named to a planning coordinator board, all state executives, are: Keith McHugh, commerce commissioner, who will be chairman, James W. Gaynor; housing commissioner; J. Burch McMorran, public works superintendent; Harold C. Wilm, conservation commissioner; Martin P. Catherwood, kmdustrial commissioner; Cortlandt V.R. Schuyler, director of the Office of General Services, and Milton Alpert of the Office for Local Government.

Dudley was named secretary of the board.

In another appointment, Rockefeller named Harry T. Tietenberg of Willsboro to the Lake Champlain Bridge Commission for a term ending June 1, 1966. The post is without salary.

Tietenberg, who previously served on the commission under an appointment by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, succeeds Payson Hatch of Willsboro, whose term expired.

The governor's office announced the resignation of Sol N. Corbin as Rockefeller's first assistant counsel, a post Corbin had held since the Rockefeller administration took office in January 1959.

Corbin will return to private law practice in New York City.

$100,000 Seneca Blaze Blamed on Bolt As Thunderstorms Rake West New York

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A blustery thunderstorm swept across most of western New York last night, damaging homes, knocking down power lines and starting several fires.

One fire, believed started by lightning, destroyed a combination gasoline station-grocery store at MacDougall, Seneca County, causing damage estimated at $70,000 to $100,000.

Thunderstorms moved eastward across the state during the night. Several thousand homes in Western New York were without electricity for up to two hours as strong winds raked the area.

No serious injuries were reported.

An inch of rain fell at Buffalo, .85 inch at Syracuse and .84 at Rochester.

One of the hardest-hit areas was Fredonia, in Northern Chautauqua County. Nine trees were toppled in the village, disrupting power to about 1,000 families for more than an hour. One tree damaged a porch roof extensively.

A trailer at Mt. Morris, Livingston County, was tipped over but two occupants suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Lightning caused about $5,000 damage when it struck a church steeple in Buffalo. Barn fires in North Tonawanda, Amherst, Marilla, Gowanda and little valley were blamed by firemen on lightning.

Near Lockport, Mrs. John F. Lederer of Saunders, Settlement Rd., was taking her three young children upstairs to bed when lightning struck the bedroom. It knocked out two windows and did about $500 damage but no one was injured.

Tree limbs were knocked down in widely-scattered areas of Wyoming, Livingston, Erie, Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties.

Gasoline fumes exploded, firemen said, in the basement of a Lackawanna home after a storm sewer was flooded by the downpour and gasoline seeped into the cellar. A woman was treated for minor injuries.

State Police who estimated the damage at the MacDougall fire, said it broke out in the frame structure after heavy lightning raked the area.

A mile away, at Fayette, another fire was discovered in an unoccupied house that was undergoing renovation. Some of the 200 firemen and 10 pieces of apparatus at the MacDougall fire were sent to Fayette. The brick and wood house was described as a total loss by Sheriff Kenneth Wayne, who placed the damage at $10,000.

New GOP Chief Speaks Out

'62 Gains Vital For '64: Miller

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new chairman of the Republican National Committee has this advice for anyone who might be interested in getting the party's 1964 presidential nomination:

"If we don't make gains at the local, state and congressional levels in 1962 then the 1964 nomination won't be worth a damn."

Remark Tells Much

The remark tells a lot about William E. Miller, 47-year-old Upstate New York congressman who was chosen today to head the GOP national organization.

They are the words of a brisk, blunt-talking practical politician, and that's just what Miller is. He is also slim, dark and articulate, with a bundle of energy he is prepared to spend freely to strengthen the Republican party.

He is only the second Roman Catholic to be named chairman in the party's history.

Miller, an orthodox Republican.

Not Committed

(I'm a Republican who loves his party," he says) regards Richard M. Nixon as the leader of the party for the orthodox reason that Nixon carried the party's banner last fall. But he says he isn't committed to the former vice president, or anyone else, as the party's 1964 presidential nominee.

"If I were I wouldn't take this job," he says.

In fact, Miller would like to see all presidential politics softpedaled for a while so he can concentrate on the 1962 off-year elections.

"We can't afford the luxury of division," he says. "We've got to build up our muscle by uniting to capture Republican victories in all states from the top offices down."

Dewey Gave Him Start

Miller, now in his sixth term in the House, is the fourth member of the House of Representatives to hold the party chairmanship and he takes over from another congressional colleague, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky.

Although some Republicans favored a full-time, salaried chairman, Miller is against paid chairmen.

Miller was given his start in politics by former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who appointed him district attorney of Niagara County in 1948. The young lawyer, a graduate of Notre Dame University and Albany, (N. Y.) Law School, had been an assistant prosecutor at the Nazi war criminals trial in Nurenberg, Germany.

He and his wife, the former Stephanie Wagner, are both natives of Lockport, N. Y., where Miller was born March 22, 1914. They now live on the shores of Lake Ontario in Olcott. They have two teen-age daughters and a 2-year-old son.

Trujillo Accorded

news of the slaying had brought little show of shock. A few steel-helmeted infantrymen stood at street corners but otherwise there were no signs of unusual police or army activity.

The government—its outward composition unchanged because the generalissimo held no formal position in it—quickly pledged to carry on the domestic and foreign policies of the slain leader, especially "aid to the western democracies" and anti-Communist policies.

To Continue Policies

Extolling the dead dictator, it promised to adhere to his policy of nonintervention, "as well as invariable adhesion to the sentiments of friendship which the republic has always maintained for all nations of the free world."

All members of the government and leaders of all the armed forces signed the communique.

Rafael Jr. also was made a member of the cabinet as secretary of state without portfolio.

Retired Brig. Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, once a close collaborator with Trujillo, was called the leader of the band of killers. Widespread reports that he had an armed band of supporters in the mountains brought an official denial from the war department.

May Be In Mountains

Five other men were named as members of the assassin band. Informed sources said one or two of them have been captured or killed but some got away and were believed hiding in the mountains.

The savage mutilation of Trujillo's body after he was killed was emphasized in the official version of the killing, possibly to create the impression it was a grudge murder.

The U.S. government kept to a wait-and-see policy on the Dominican Republic before deciding action it could take to swing the Caribbean country toward democracy.

Foreign policy makers in Washington said developments would show whether the carryover right-wing Dominican regime is likely to become more moderate or face overthrow — and then Washington will know better how to apply leverage.

A correspondent for the San Juan Star in Ciudad Trujillo said there were unconfirmed reports that Gen. Diaz is in one of the western provinces near the Haitian border with between 750 and 1,000 men.

A Dominican exile leader in Mexico City, Juan Romero Ulloa, said the band that killed Trujillo numbered about 30 men armed with submachineguns and side arms.

Romero said that Gen. Diaz had escaped to the mountains and is heading a revolution with from 1,000 to 2,000 well armed men.

Man on Roof Rescued

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of New Yorkers witnessed a skyscraper drama as police worked to rescue a man from atop a huge electric sign on the roof of the 32-story Hotel Manhattan Thursday night.

The man, an unemployed hotel houseman, walked back and forth atop the 80-foot sign. Passers-by looking up could see him and policemen silhouetted against the glow of lights.

Police finally got close enough to slap handcuffs on him and bring him to safety.

Taken to a hospital for observation, he identified himself as Sam Matosin, 26, of Hoboken, N.J. He said he is the father of five and has been unable to find a job.

Heil, a textile salesman, disregarded 196 traffic summonses.

The previous scofflaw king had 187 tickets.

Dutchess Museum Sends WW I Planes To Ohio Reunion

Col. James H. C. Palen, operator of the Old Rhinebeck Airodrome and museum, is shipping six airplanes of World War I vintage to a reunion next week of World War I pilots at the Wright-Patterson plant in Dayton, Ohio.

Col. Palen operates one of two museums in the country where the planes actually fly. His Rhinebeck museum features several planes of pre-World War I vintage which he is constantly rebuilding.

The six planes being shipped to the reunion, all of which are in flying condition, include a SPAD XIII, Nieuport, Model XI Bleriot, a Sopwith-Snipe and an Avro-Traverse of 1918 vintage.

The only other museum that has planes that still fly is in California, it was learned. In other museums, the planes are either suspended from ceilings or parked on the floor.

Col. Palen, a World War I pilot and aviation pioneer, is one of the best known men in the field. He has spent a lifetime collecting, rebuilding and displaying all types of planes that go back to the earliest models.

35 Split on Ordinance for Dogs . . .

been the Economy Party candidate for mayor, first to speak when Heitzman asked first to hear from the opposition felt that all dog owners should not be penalized because of what he considered a small percentage of irresponsible owners and offending dogs.

Thinks 100 Nuisances

Last night's "slim turnout" to Rider indicated that "apparently not too many were interested" in a dog ordinance. Of 2,300 dogs licensed in the city, he said, "perhaps 100 could be termed nuisances." He felt that children should be protected insofar as possible from the danger of dogbite, but he held that in instances "where we have nuisances, they almost always reflect the training of the master."

Rider said he realized there might be a need for an ordinance to control the minority, but proposed that the legislators consider the 2,200 dogs "who have created no problem." If there is to be an ordinance, he said, he would "like to see one with teeth in it," but one which would not penalize the 95 per cent who keep their dogs under control.

Kenneth Egan, of 52 German Street, the mailman, who said he had been bitten by dogs 11 times, indicated he would favor an ordinance if one could be properly enforced, but he felt that the police and the SPCA could not follow through.

Some Confused

Argument for an ordinance began soon after Egan talked, but because several came late, and a few apparently became confused as to procedure, the pro and con became involved in mixed argument and rebuttal about midway in the hearing which lasted about an hour.

Thomas W. Miller, of 72 Pine Street, administrative assistant at the state armory, spoke longest in support of an ordinance. He disapproved of dogs running freely and becoming a public nuisance, and favored a "sensible dog ordinance."

Miller said he felt that "some aldermen have attempted to make a joke" of the dog ordinance proposal, and he asked that they give it fair treatment. Even if only a few hundred dogs are allowed to run freely, he held, they are a health menace and cause other trouble.

Points to Danger

Dogs, he said, have the privilege of sidewalks instead of making use of a controlled area. Some owners disregard the rights of others and allow them to run free, and some "create filth" near public buildings, theatres, stores and elsewhere, and many are a danger to children, elderly persons, and those who might use canes in walking. He cited recent cases of dog bites and noted that a mailman reported at the hearing that he had been bitten 11 times.

They are also a hazard to automobile travel, he held, and too often, dog owners are inconsiderate and careless about the trouble they cause others.

Would Charge Owners

Joseph Schneider, of Henry Street, indicated he would like to see an ordinance that would place the responsibility for damage, annoyance and injury traced to dogs, placed with their owners.

"If a person wishes to enjoy his own property," he said, dogs running freely often make this impossible. Those who put babies outside their homes, have to be watchful of hazardous situations that could come from free-running dogs, and they are often a general property nuisance.

L. W. Short, of Court Avenue, told of damage done to a new lawn by two dogs, which were later picked up and confined by the SPCA. This sort of damage, he felt, however, should be considered in drafting a dog ordinance. He felt that dogs should not be "cooped up all day," but he believed they could be trained to stay on their own properties.

What About Pigeons?

Joseph O'Connell, of Washington Avenue, noted that "During the war dogs were heroes. Now they want to tie them up. Maybe they ought to put a curtain over the city and stop the pigeons."

Patrick Gallagher, of Lawrence Street, said he would like to see an ordinance with teeth in it. He also spoke as the sole objector at the first hearing dealing with the proposed Zoning ordinance amendment. He indicated after the latter that he was concerned with a provision in the ordinance that would cover unfavorable existing conditions which bring property value deterioration because of conditions imposed by others.

Officer Frank Stip, of the local police, favored an ordinance that would end the random running of dogs which result in the dirtying of sidewalks, and other nuisances such as the running of dogs out of alleys and snapping at people. Those who are real dog lovers, he said, should take care of their animals.

In answering a question about the city's connection with the SPCA, Alderman Heitzman, reported that the city is contracted to pick up stray dogs and other animals. The SPCA is also obliged to pick up wounded or dead animals. He said the SPCA was on duty about 24 hours a day, and they "do a good job." They have no control over licensed dogs.

W. N. Meyn, of Navara Street, complained of dogs running loose and barking in his area, and favored an ordinance.

Asks About Civil Action

Alderman Joseph F. Carroll Jr., (R) 11th Ward, wanted to know against whom civil action could be brought in the event of damage caused by an unlicensed dog. Heitzman said it would most likely be against the owner, and if there were no owner, it would be a question of having the dog picked up and impounded or destroyed.

Mike Basch, of 113 Hone Street, told of an instance in which the county compensated for such damage, and Heitzman read from a section of the State Agriculture and Market Law dealing with indemnification. It said in part that payment not to exceed $150 can be paid by a county for damage to horses or cattle and not above $10 for fowl.

Oppose Ordinance

Among those opposing an ordinance were Frank Spence, of 15 Staples Street, and Joseph Brennan, of Noone's Lane. The latter's contention that there appeared to be "irresponsible remarks" among proponents of the ordinance, stirred slightly heated reply.

One in the audience remarked that it was regrettable that the "irresponsible people" (those who let dogs run) were not at the hearing.

A speaker, who did not wish to be identified, noted that there are 23,000,000 dogs in the nation, and he felt that the bad ones could largely be considered isolated cases. He asked: "What about the many people killed by automobiles, and how about our juvenile delinquents."

Points to Owners

Another, unidentified, said if there is an ordinance it should pertain more to dog owners than "to man's best friend," who should be given consideration as such.

Heitzman read a letter from Harry Thayer, local radio newsman, who has advocated a dog ordinance, but who was unable to attend because of business in New York. Otherwise, he said, he would have attended, but would have been silent. Probably many, he wrote, "will never believe that I have any motive other than a vindictive one." Actually, he said, he was as interested as anyone in the safety and welfare of dogs.

W. L. Rider, near the end of the hearing, noted that there appeared to be "two general complaints." They were, he said, that dogs attack people and that they foul up property. As to dogs attacking, he said, some persons apparently frighten easily. Recalling that the mailman reported 11 dog bites, he said he hoped none was serious. He felt that the type problems mentioned would not be easly solved by an ordinance.

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, who with Heitzman and Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, serves on the dog ordinance committee, closed the hearing by thanking those attending. He said he hoped the aldermen would arrive at a satisfactory solution. Mayor Edwin F. Radel, he noted, had supplied the committee with 20 types of ordinances forwarded from the New York State Conference of Mayors.

The proposed zoning ordinance changes to facilitate city planning and urban renewal which were first given hearing involved such factors as "conformance of the proposed site development plan with such portions of the master plan of the city as may be in existence from time to time."

It also involves additional data which may be required, including typographical and developement data, and has to do with maximum safety traffic access and egress. In general, it emphasizes conformity with planning and urban renewal.

'Bomb' Holds Up Freedom Riders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a false bomb threat, seven more "Freedom Riders" sat in a white waiting room in Montgomery, Ala., today, then left 37 minutes late on a Trailways bus for Jackson, Miss.

Another group of seven was scheduled to depart for Jackson later.

Uniformed city police and sheriff's deputies kept a tight guard on the downtown bus station to prevent disorder. Some FBI men were seen in the terminal.

The four Negro and three white riders made no attempt to eat at the white lunch counter used by earlier groups of racially mixed segregation challengers.

An anonymous caller telephoned the terminal that a bomb had been put there shortly before the bus was scheduled to pull out. Police and firemen searching the building found nothing.

Numerous such threats have been made in Montgomery since racial violence broke out 13 days ago.

A spokesman for the Congress Of Racial Equality (CORE), who accompanied the first group to the bus station today, said two Negro women used the white restroom before leaving the terminal. There was no incident.

The CORE spokesman, Tom Gaither, identified those aboard the first bus as Charles Butler, 18, of Nashville, Tenn.; Joy Reagon, 19, of Nashville; Ruby Smith, 19, of Atlanta, and Lamar Alford, 18, all Negroes; and Joseph McDonald, 20, of New York; Price Chatham, 29, of East Rockaway, N.Y., and Ken Shilman, 18, of New York, all white.

The Justice Department awaited an answer to its demand for court action to protect riders from mobs.

Kennedy arrives on Saturday morning by plane from Paris, and the two leaders will meet for lunch at the American ambassador's residence. Their first talk will follow, until late afternoon.

The talks Sunday will be held in the Soviet Embassy, continuing until two hours before the President takes off in the late afternoon for London.

Although Austrian sources said this week that Khrushchev had assured U. S. The Soviet formula for Germany calls for immediate peace treaties with West and East Germany, withdrawal of the Western allies from West Berlin to leave it to a Communist-surrounded, undefended "free city, and reunification of Germany on terms giving Communist East Germany equal status with the larger and richer West Germany.

The Western formula calls for reunification of Germany by free elections in both parts of the country, elections in which the West and apparently the Soviets are sure the German Communists would be overwhelmed.

Social Security Account Number Card Is Important

When you change your address, you wouldn't think of carrying the same old house key along after you have made the change in residence, would you? Yet, according to George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security District Office, there are some married women who still carry the same old social security cards they had before they were wed. Some fail to make the changes months, or even years, after they have changed their names from Miss to Mrs.

The key to our social security record is your social security account number card. No one should have more than one social security number, yet it is possible to have more than one card under different names. Manager Johnson pointed out that in the interest of having all earnings properly credited to the proper account number, the Social Security Administration needs to know about changes in names whether it be because of marriage, divorce or other reasons. Women who marry and fail to report this change may experience delay when it is time to figure the social security benefits due them.

It is really a simple matter for a newly married woman to insure that her social security records are current and correct under the proper name and number. Manager Johnson advised that if you can, it is best if you bring your old social security card to the nearest social security office. The Kingston, N. Y. Office is located at 61 Albany Avenue and services all of Ulster and Sullivan Counties. Telephone Federal 8-7307. That office will issue you a new social security card with the same account number you had but your new name.

Over Goebbels' View

Feels Eichmann Should Have Halted Killings

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—The Israeli prosecution implied today that Adolf Eichmann should have stopped killing Jews because Joseph Goebbels in a public pronouncement said orders from superior officers did not justify "the murder of women and children" by Allied fliers who bombed German cities.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner introduced the Nazi propaganda minister's statement as evidence in Eichmann's trial, and defense counsel Robert Servatius objected that it had no bearing on his client's case. But presiding Judge Moshe Landau curtly overruled him.

Goebbels' declaration, published in the official Nazi newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, said captured fliers had forfeited all their rights "by their murder of the civilian population."

"The fliers can no more reply that they are soldiers and acted according to orders," said Goebbels. "Those orders are contrary to all human concept of warfare."

The attorney general said this official opinion of the Nazi regime "should work in both directions and must also be followed in the minds of every German. The accused himself said under interrogation, 'What would I do? These were orders (to exterminate Europe's Jews).'" And yet here we read the words of his own government."

The prosecution also submitted a series of documents linking the Arab mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, to the Nazi persecution of the Jews.

The mufti was described as active in blocking of emigration of Jews to Palestine. The prosecution claimed he was the "man behind the scenes to prevent" British - American negotiations with Bulgaria and other Nazi-controlled countries in Southeast Europe for the emigration of 5,000 Jewish children.

The prosecution concluded the eighth week of the trial with documentary evidence, including Heinrich Himmler's speech to officers at Posen in 1943 in which he said: "The Jewish people will be exterminated. That is our goal."

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Cpl. Vincent Yonta, killed in Korea eight years ago today, June 2, 1953.

We never thought your death was near;
But only those that have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.

TwoFromBroome Freed in Bribe For Auto License

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A man and a woman who pleaded guilty to a reduced charge in an alleged bribery attempt to get a driver's license restored have been freed with suspended sentences.

County Judge Martin Schenck suspended sentence Thursday after Adrian J. Rose, 48, a Binghamton contractor, and Miss Iva M. Apgar, 45, of Endicott, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of performing outrageous acts against the public.

A grand jury had indicted them on a charge of bribing a public official, a felony.

The two were arrested here March 17 after a clerk of the Motor Vehicle Department reported he was contacted in the alleged bribery attempt.

Police said Rose's license had been revoked and the two wanted someone in the department to remove Rose's driving record from the files so that he could apply for another license.

Publisher, Prison Reformer Dies; Lived at Auburn

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—Charles D. Osborne, newspaperman, politician and prison reformer, died at his home Thursday after an illness of three months. He was 72.

Osborne was publisher of the Auburn Citizen-Advertiser.

He began his newspaper career in 1913 as an editorial writer and editor of the Auburn Citizen, then owned by his father, the late Thomas M. Osborne.

Osborne a member of the Democratic State Committee from 1934 to 1948, was twice elected mayor of his native Auburn and served two terms as president of the New York State Mayors Conference.

Headed Probation Commission

He was chairman of the New York State Probation Commission from 1955 to 1959.

A bloody prison riot at Auburn State Prison occurred during Osborne's first term as mayor, 1927 to 1931. After the riot, in 1929, Osborne advocated better conditions for inmates and employment of able administrators.

In the newspaper field, Osborne was president of the New York State Associated Dailies in 1924. He had been active in the New York State Publishers Association.

Osborne became vice president and general manager of the Auburn Citizen in 1915. He succeeded his father as president of the newspaper in 1925.

The Citizen purchased the Auburn Advertiser-Journal, Republican paper, in 1919 and Osborne operated both papers.

In his first mayoral campaign, Osborne was supported by the Citizen and opposed by the Advertiser-Journal.

Osborne did not seek re-election as mayor but ran again in 1935 and was elected.

Merges Papers, Buys Radio

The two newspapers were merged in 1931 under Osborne's direction. The publishing company acquired Radio Station WMBO in 1936.

Osborne enlisted in the Third New York Infantry in 1916 and served on the Mexican border. He was a lieutenant with the 78th Division in France during World War I. He had been a captain in the New York National Guard and a colonel in the New York Guard.

HELPING YOUR COUNTRY

We Americans who have been waiting for President Kennedy to tell us what we can do for our country now have a broad answer. Some will like it and some will not, but beyond doubt there's plenty in it to chew on.

One compact passage, set forth in what amounts to his second State of the Union message, translates into this practical list of do's and don't for a citizenry caught up in the struggle for freedom:

If you want your country first in space, first to the moon, first with rockets that may spell security in this missile age, pay your taxes without complaint. Don't cheat. And don't fuss if tax loopholes such as free and easy expense accounts should be closed off, as the President requests of Congress.

If you want to see the tide of communism resisted or turned back in wavering lands around the world, let your lawmakers know you favor sharing United States resources with those struggling countries.

Accept the evident fact that in space, on the defense line, on the economic front everywhere, the contest with communism will be long. Understand this—and be patient through all trials.

If you want home front society strengthened as a foundation for this country's efforts in the world struggle, take higher postal rates and higher payroll taxes as part of the price. Better services, schools, roads, hospitals cost more money.

You are asked, then, to pay up willingly. But you are urged also not to demand excessively. Don't seek unnecessary spending for your special benefit (like support for outmoded, useless defense bases).

If you're a businessman, don't hike prices at this time when high cost hampers so much vital effort. If you're a worker, don't push for big wage boosts, and don't strike in missile work or basic industries where delay penalizes us heavily in the great struggle.

If you're a farmer, keep your plantings of such surplus crops as wheat and corn within careful limits so we can reduce costly surpluses.

Young Americans, you are asked to take up military duty ungrudgingly if called, or to volunteer for the Peace Corps if qualified. Make yourself physically fit, as all too many are not today. Work for excellence that seems to elude us in our schools, for fuller grasp of science, mathematics, foreign languages, even English.

Adult Americans, support these efforts of the young by toiling locally for better schools, higher teachers' salaries. Get into government at all levels, even at a sacrifice to yourself. Join local Civil Defense efforts to enlarge our protection against attack.

Prove that democracy is better than communism by making it work, by making it not only economically productive but individually fruitful for all citizens in the full exercise of their human rights.

So now you've been told. If you don't like the President's list, get up one of your own. Just be sure you have the country in mind — not yourself. And do something about it.

SPINNING ON RED

Richard M. Nixon established the point, in his famous kitchen exchange with Nikita Khrushchev, that while the Russians might be ahead of us in rocketry we were ahead in color television. Technology marches on: it now appears that we're also ahead of the Russians in developing translucent red automobile tires.

That's not all. The tires come with built-in electric lights to glow in dazzling circles as you whiz through the night.

The advantages of this may not be immediately apparent except to teen-agers and those who retain a teen-age outlook on life. Kill-joys may even entertain the secret hope that the market for such tires will prove too weak for their profitable exploitation. To coin a new old saying: All is not good that glitters.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE AMERICAN SYSTEM

George C. Lodge, Assistant Secretary of Labor for International Affairs, wrote a pamphlet entitled, "The Truth About the American Economic System." Like so many government documents, it is buried away. Nevertheless, I believe this to be about the best presentation I have seen of the American way of life—scholarly, objective, declarative.

Lodge seizes at the heart of the Communist opposition which is that monopoly capitalism is evil and that the United States is ruled by monopoly capitalism. He goes directly at Karl Marx, saying:

"Contrary to his predictions, our economic system has in fact proven to be a spectacularly effective means for the creation and just distribution of wealth. Arising from free business competition, among people enjoying political democracy, the American way has been and is more revolutionary than the state capitalism practiced today by the followers of Marxism-Leninism."

This is understandable language to the younger people not only in the new nations but among the older peoples who wonder what is happening to this crazy world. Lodge gives a sound, constructive answer. He discusses American capitalism with wisdom and pride. He says:

"The exploitative capitalism that Mr. Khrushchev boasts he will bury has long since died in the United States — if in fact it ever actually existed. We have produced instead the most effective and egalitarian social and economic system the world has yet known, and it is still evolving, providing an ever-widening distribution of wealth."

The pamphlet goes far to prove that George Lodge is correct and as I read this document, I wonder what the United States has done to give it circulation throughout the world. The weak and backward peoples usually explain their own inabilities by pointing to the wealth and natural resources of this country. In a word, we are a product of good luck. George Lodge has another explanation:

"Great quantities of valuable and widely diversified natural resources are within our national boundaries. We have never been subject to the terrific strains of overpopulation. Generally we have always had enough to eat. But many other nations, too, have had an abundance of resources and yet failed to realize the potential of this wealth in terms of raising the living standard of their people. Our great strength may well be the fact that we never had to suffer the feudal system; that through political democracy achieved early in our national history and through universal suffrage we have been able to control the growth of our economy in the interests of all of our people."

In this pamphlet, succinctly written, is one of the clearest explanations of the American corporation I have seen anywhere.

". . . the development of the professionally managed American corporation which replaced individual or family owners and tycoons and moguls, interested only in building personal fortunes. More than half of the output of American factories and mines is today produced by about 500 corporations. Were these the possession of 500 families or individuals we would probably be suffering from exploitative capitalism. But they are not. The economic power of the corporations is widely distributed and becoming steadily more the possession of the many rather than the few. Actually our corporations have about 12,500,000 direct stockholders. Even more important, a large and growing amount of their stock is held by institutions, pension trusts, insurance companies, mutual funds, etc. Probably 50 million Americans receive a share of the profits of the 500 corporations through investment in these institutions."

From this standpoint, the American corporation is a public rather than a private enterprise. The managers are not owners. They are professionals, functioning by systems and rules which build wealth and provide profits. Management now usually comes out of the work force. As Lodge says:

"The American worker has never thought of himself as a member of the oppressed proletariat. Through his union he has become an equal partner in the labor-management relationship and bargains collectively normally without the intervention of government to secure a just share of the fruits of his labor. His union also protects the American worker's security in his job and his promotion rights. It enables him to determine jointly with management the conditions under which he works. . . ."

The American system is unique because it is conceived in freedom. As long as it remains a free system, it will survive. And that — freedom — is the problem of our era.

Shun These Practices If Abdomen Acts Up

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In preceding columns we've discussed some of the common causes for bellyache and what you can do to obtain relief through simple measures for self-treatment.

Now, before suggesting what you can do to help your doctor help you, we'd like to warn you of the dangers that may accompany or follow self-treatment that is ill advised, over-enthusiastic or unduly prolonged.

Do not resort to local use of ice or an icebag with the idea of "freezing the infection" (appendicitis). The temperature within the abdominal compartment is not influenced by external applications, whether of heat or of cold. And freezing the skin may invite complications if an operation has to be performed through the frozen area.

Do not take or give any medication other than aspirin or a related product. A powerful pain killer, such as an opiate, may mask symptoms with a resultant delay in seeking and obtaining proper treatment; a dose of a strong purgative may produce complications such as a peritonitis due to bursting of the appendix.

Do not continue taking a cortical steroid if you have been taking regular doses for some unrelated condition. Cortical steroids possess an anti-inflammatory reaction that may mask localizing pain and favor perforation of an ulcer with resultant peritonitis.

Do not assume the responsibility of home treatment if the attack of abdominal pain is the first of its kind. If it is severe and/or persistent, if it is accompanied by fever or any other manifestation suggestive of serious illness and/or if it fails to respond promptly to measures previously detailed.

To help your doctor help you, be prepared to give accurate and concise details pertinent to the attack.

These include an account of events immediately preceding attack, a description of previous attacks and their responses to treatment, findings and procedures at previous abdominal operations, especially as to removal of the appendix, changes in appetite, eating habits, bowel movements, urination and the appearance of stools and urine, dates of last and next expected menstrual periods, etc. And, don't forget to provide specimens of urine and stool, collected during and/or immediately after the attack.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— When President Jack (The Giant Killer) Kennedy sits down in Vienna June 2 for his friendly little game of stud poker with Nikita (Big Boy) Khrushchev, the face-up cards on the table will show marked contrast.

THE RUSSIAN'S hand shows definite strength. Over the past five months he has been doing the dealing and there is even some indication that the deck has been stacked.

1. In his January 6 speech in Moscow, Khrushchev laid down the Communist program for international conduct.

He is for complete disarmament, on his terms.

He is for peaceful coexistence, also on his terms.

What these things mean is that he doesn't want a general war. He also doesn't want limited wars which might grow into general wars. But he is all in favor of "wars of liberation," which means any form of revolution the Communists seek to promote, like those in Cuba and Laos.

2. In presentations at the United Nations at the Geneva conference on nuclear test bans and in the other Geneva conference of 14 nations on Laos, Khrushchev's ambassadors have insisted on three-way—Communist, free world and neutral—control of everything, with a built-in Russian veto to stop anything they don't like.

3. For the past three years Khrushchev has been threatening to make a separate peace treaty with East Germany and make Berlin, as its capital, a "free city"—meaning that the U. S., British and French forces would have to get out.

Those are three pretty tough show cards to beat.

1. THE PRINCIPAL Kennedy show card is in his May 25 second State of the Union message to Congress. The President issued a challenge to the Communists in the battle for men's minds. To counter Khrushchev's threat to back revolutionary "wars of liberation," Kennedy set forth his "Doctrine of Freedom." It would develop U. S. armed forces to fight these "sub-limited wars" and "assist the peoples of the less-developed nations to reach their goals . . . before they are engulfed in crisis" by communism. By contrast, the other Kennedy show cards are not so good:

2. Early in his administration, President Kennedy decided to liquidate the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency-trained-and-directed Cuban invasion attempt by anti-Castro rebels. Later that decision was reversed. The resulting operation was a failure that has made the U. S. look bad all over the world.

3. In Laos the United States aid effort — though not yet a complete defeat — has been subverted by Communist infiltration and the U. S. diplomatic effort has been thwarted again at the second Geneva conference of 14 nations.

After both the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk said they would not negotiate under existing conditions they have done so, to their loss.

BUT IN ALL GAMES OF STUD POKER, it is the hole cards that often count the most and determine who wins the hand.

The American cards that are face down might as well be face up, for they are well known to the whole world.

1. The superior strength of the American economy with its vaster resources, greater wealth and huge military potential is enough to make anyone who seeks to challenge it hesitate.

2. This American hole card is backed by another ace in the resources of free world allies and their great strength.

THE KHRUSHCHEV HOLE CARDS, BY CONTRAST, are really face down. For nobody on the outside really knows what goes on inside the Kremlin and its secrets are well kept. But two possible Russian hole cards are worthy of consideration.

1. Confident over the successes of Communism in Cuba and Southeast Asia, cocky over their triumphs in the sapce race, the Russians may feel they are now in a superior position to push harder than ever for their demands.

The question is:

How far will the Soviet union go in using its power at this time? In other words, how much will Khrushchev bet on his own hand?

2. Equally as important is the other hole card in the Russian hand, which is a king—Khrushchev himself. It is pure speculation to try to interpret his present mood — whether he is aggressive or conciliatory, hostile as he was to President Eisenhower or friendly as he says he wants to be with Kennedy.

The answer to that will come only when the poker game begins at Geneva.

Ike's Attack on Democrats Called Sound, Penetrating

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 1—It's always a significant event when spokesmen of the party out of power give their size-up of what the party in power is doing.

Former President Eisenhower's remarks at the testimonial dinner here honoring Republican members of Congress tell at least what the chief executive who left office a little more than four months ago thinks of the succeeding Administration. Mr. Eisenhower used the implicit rather than the explicit style of expression, but it was not difficult to discern his meaning.

Many people, as a matter of fact, who supported the Republican ticket have been wondering why the Republicans in Congress have not been more vocal and more pointed in their criticisms. The speech of former President Eisenhower was dignified but nonetheless penetrating. Here is a passage, for instance, where the inference is clear, though the words are restrained:

"I was proud when, in recent crises, members of our party did not attempt to criticize, condemn or belittle those in authority. This we did even though some seemed disposed falsely to blame us. We did not scurry about in search of a 'scapegoat.' We decry anyone's efforts to do so. Here I pay my personal tribute to the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, all the members of which body I have known long and well. It is my conviction that America possesses no group of men more dedicated, more patriotic and more capable in meeting grave responsibility."

Unwise to Weaken Trust

The reference undoubtedly was to press reports recently that President Kennedy has been passing the buck to the Joint Chiefs for the fiasco of the "invasion" of Cuba, though it is well known that they were not given responsibility for the conduct of the operation. The implication is plain that Mr. Eisenhower thinks it was unwise for the present Administration to start blaming the military chiefs and thus tend to weaken public confidence in them.

It was in domestic affairs generally, however, that the former President expressed his most vehment criticism. He said:

"What, exactly, do we stand for here at home? We Republicans see Mr. American in his high station as a free, self-reliant, proud individual. We are convinced that he can plan his own life and spend his own money better than some possibly benevolent bureaucrat can in his behalf. Any action that weakens any citizen's selfrespect is wrong. That is the reason we oppose the ever-increasing concentration of power in Washington.

Government Can Rob, Too

"All agree it is criminal for one man to steal from another. But over-powerful government can rob the individual just as surely—only the scale is grander, the stakes are greater, and the loss far more tragic. For what is stolen by paternalistic government is that precious compound of initiative, independence and self-respect that distinguishes a man from the mob, a person from a number, a freeman from the slave . . .

"We Republicans take our stand for the individual! . . .

"We will not barter local and state responsibility for centralization, nor will we trade a little government intervention for a little handout.

"We consider it sheer arrogance to believe that people in government know better for the people than they know for themselves.

Opposed to Coercion

"We are, therefore, against programs that would substitute coercion for co-operation. The new farm proposals, creating an agricultural czar, are a case in point.

"We are against programs that erode away citizen, local and state self-reliance. Federal payment of teachers' salaries—as distinguished from needed construction—is a case in point.

"We are against the insulting concept of government by Big Brother. Excessive public housing, rampart public power, Federalized youth programs are cases in point.

Responsible Progress

"But as we fight the unwise, we Republicans proudly stand for positive programs in every area of public concern. We have long stood for advances in such programs as education, agriculture, minimum wage, medical care and area redevelopment. But here is the great difference—our Republican watchword is 'responsible progress' . . .

"I look in vain, and with deep concern, for fiscal responsibility today in the public affairs. As I note the mounting expenditures, I often think how easy it is to buy things when you're spending the other fellow's money. That this must stop is one of the things that a strong, unified Republican party should be teaching and preaching — and, so doing, can stop."

Mr. Eisenhower cautioned against friction within the party when members begin to "choose up sides" for 1964's Presidential election. He urged party harmony and a "combined voice" by its leaders and would-be candidates.

On the whole, Mr. Eisenhower gave his party some good advice, but he might have selected and emphasized above all else one issue—the inflation that, unless checked, will make the dollar worth less and less as the prices of almost everything rise due to excessive spending by the Federal government. That's what may affect the next election more than any other issue.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

It has been about 10 years since a hot-eyed reporter-columnist of the same name as mine raised a wild outcry against criminal practices of unions in the war-effort racket by collusion of the Roosevelt Administration and the American Federation of Labor and the CIO. From Cape Cod to San Diego, from Kansas City to New York, hither and yon, this frantic nuisance yowled and squawked. He squawked about the overtime racket, the fee and permit racket, the compulsory insurance racket and the extortion of billions of dollars. Unskilled strangers were fired off their jobs as soon as their exorbitant initiation fees were paid off by installments and replaced by other faceless gullibles on the same terms. Jobs were sold and deferment from the military draft was an authorized union concession.

This is not to say "I told you so," although I did tell you so a thousand times.

The occasion for this reminder is the disclosure that at Cape Canaveral the "missile gap" was aggravated and exploited by typical greedy, licensed union racketeers of the Democratic Party's constituency. The graft and sabotage were so flagrant that Senator McClellan, a negative man, finally was moved to say that the government had been bilked. Bilked, he said—a loud word, coming from him. There was at the moment a dramatic contrast between the vermin of "labor" and the sublime character of the young officer who had just made our first flight from Canaveral into space and back.

All the rackets of the 'forties were complicated with patriotism and the material of treason. Draft boards were warning men to get out of "non-esstetial" jobs and into the "wah effawt." And racketeers bestrode the roads to the plants selling permits without which they were barred from war jobs and sent to the Army. Union officials wrote their own deferments. It was a vile arrangement but only a minor phase of a colossal wrong. Yet, the good people, the people who did the fighting, could not arouse their moral fury. Hitler was monstrous, and the dictatorship of Brown Shirts over human beings an evil to be fought to death in Europe. But the wild mobs of the UAW under the Reuthers at home were democracy in action.

In 1944, Roosevelt touched off his campaign against Tom Dewey with an oration that fittingly insulted American ethics and intelligence, and two young combat naval officers were beaten up by drunken henchmen of the Teamsters Union for expressing disgust. Public revulsion was only momentary.

Ever since, for all the palaver about Taft-Hartley and other diversions, the Democratic party, with Republican acquiescence, has refused to correct the defects in government rather than any lack of law that permits canaverals and all such enormities.

There were 15,000 strikes in the "Wah Effawt," costing lives in battle and taxes in needless expense beyond any computer's power to guess. This was so although Kennedy's party had given the rackets a closed shop monopoly in exchange for a promise not to strike.

The election returns did not expunge the Kennedy brothers' protective attitude toward the corrupt nature of some unions throughout the McClellan hearings and in the concurrent futile efforts of a few decent Americans, notably Sen. Barry Goldwater, to bring the jackals to heel.

But meanwhile, popular conduct, first observed in Goldwater's own Arizona, is beginning to show an independent mind repudiating the established forms of unionism.

Some new body of labor is beginning to stir in the womb of political evolution.

In the Arizona state convention of the AFL-CIO, formal admission came from the rostrum that membership in all unions throughout the state had dropped one per cent in a year.

In Michigan but for compulsion and the power of Kennedy's national and state machines, the decline easily could have been greater.

Tragedy Mars 'New Start'

Mother, 2 Children Lose Lives in Crash

PRATT, Kan. (AP)—Dr. Zane Gard's bright new start in life, after nine years of scrimping through school, turned to tragedy in an instant Thursday night. A big truck smashed into a station wagon carrying his wife and their five children.

Mrs. Gard was killed, along with two of the children and her father, Herbert Weseman of Mountain View, Calif. The other three children were hurt but in satisfactory condition. Three men in the big tractor-trailer truck were treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

Dr. Gard received his degree Wednesday night from the Kansas City College of Osteopathy. He and his family and his wife's parents set out about noon Thursday for Phoenix, Ariz., where he was to begin an internship at the Phoenix General Hospital.

Dr. Gard drove the station wagon 268 miles from Kansas City to Pratt, pulling a four-wheeled trailer loaded with household goods. He developed a headache. Weseman took the wheel of the station wagon. Dr. Gard shifted to a car carrying Mrs. Weseman and another Mountain View couple, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mast.

About five miles west of Pratt on U.S. 54, the trailer started whipping crazily behind the station wagon. Investigators said gusty winds may have caused it to jerk the station wagon across the highway into the path of the truck.

Dr. Gard rushed to the wreckage and picked his way from one to another of his loved ones. Becky, 4, died in his arms. Mrs. Gard, Larry, 11, and Weseman were dead in a few moments. Mrs. Gard was 28, her father 57.

Zane and Yvonne Gard were married 12 years ago when they were 16 and moved from California to Kansas City about 1955. Zane drove cabs and worked at other jobs while he studied at the University of Kansas City and the College of Osteopathy.

Also installed were Nolie W. Irwin, first vice commander; Harry E. Dall, adjutant; Joseph X. Damis, finance officer, Francis T. Sopris, chaplain, and Kenneth C. Legg, sergeant-at-arms. Richard D. Davis of Flatbush Road was the installing officer.

Macholdt announced that the post would conduct a membership drive, and invited all veterans of the township, who would like to join, to contact him for further information.

The new commander is a widely-known sportsman, a member of the Grange and past commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League. He also is a past president of Ulster Hose Company No. 5, and founder of Ulster County Magistrates Association.

Tillson Firemen Quench Mattress; Smoke Fells One

Prompt action by Tillson Fire Department under direction of Chief Kenneth Gordon averted a serious fire at the Harold O'Bryne home on River Road, Tillson early this morning.

Anthony DeSanto, who is building a house next to the O'Bryne home, was sleeping in an upstairs room of the O'Bryne home and was awakened by heavy smoke about 3:30 a. m. He gave the alarm. DeSanto was overcome by smoke before he could leave the house and was brought to Kingston Hospital by Moylan's Ambulance, Rosendale, where he was treated and later discharged.

Mrs. O'Bryne and her six children left the house without incident.

When firemen arrived they found heavy smoke from a fire smouldering in a mattress on a bed in a sun porch. Flames had just communicated to the floor but were quickly brought under control. Streams from a 1½ inch hose were used. Damage to the room was slight, Chief Gordon reported.

Mutual Aid Fire Control Center was notified but no additional equipment was dispatched to the scene.

Po'keepsie Man Found Hanging From Ceiling

A 57-year-old Poughkeepsie man employed by the New York Telephone Company was found by his nephew Thursday morning hanging in the cellar of his home on Violet Avenue.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's office identified the man as William O. Pells who was on vacation at the time.

A tentative verdict of suicide by strangulation was issued by the Dutchess County medical examiner pending an inquest.

Pells was found by his nephew, Gordon Daley of Pleasant Valley, who had come to the home to do some work. Pell's wife had been in a Poughkeepsie hospital for several days, it was reported.

Brooklyn Youths Held for Thefts At Resort Hotel

Three 19-year-old Brooklyn youths were picked up by town of Fallsburgh police, Sullivan County, Thursday afternoon on charges of burglary third degree involving theft of two transistor radios from a South Fallsburgh hotel.

They also admitted entering the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville, and hotels in Loch Sheldrake and Liberty, but reportedly took nothing.

Committed to the Sullivan County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail apiece were Richard J. Yarczower, Aaron Finkelstein and Howard J. Koppel.

Town of Fallsburgh police told The Freeman that the three men admitted taking two transistor radios from two different guest rooms at the Windsor Hotel, South Fallsburgh. The radios were later found in a trash basket in a wash room in the hotel.

About 4 p. m. police received a call from the proprietor of the Windsor Hotel reporting three suspicious looking youths on the grounds. Shortly thereafter the theft of the two radios was reported. Town police moved in. Assisting were Ferndale State Police. The case was adjourned by the magistrate to June 8.

Boy Fractures Leg in Ball Game, Other Hurt by Car

A local boy suffered a leg fracture in a base slide in a baseball game off West Chestnut Street Thursday and another suffered injuries in a traffic mishap on Hudson Street.

James A. Gardner, 13, of 58 Linderman Avenue, injured in the ball game, was reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital. A police report at 8:10 p. m., noted the mishap, and said the boy was taken to the hospital in a Fatum ambulance.

Wesley George Grant, 6, of 97 Hudson Street, who was injured in contact with an automobile, suffered ankle, back and head injuries, a police report at 4:10 p. m., said. He was also taken by Fatum ambulance to the Benedictine where his condition was reported today as "good."

The car, owned by Betty G. McCaffery, of Box 6, Rifton, was driven by Robert Kenneth McCaffery, 28, of the same address. Officers John Crespino and Richard Dempsey, with Sgt. Julius Glassman and Detective Gurnsey Burger, investigated.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices continued mixed early this afternoon as Wall Street kept a wary eye on the coming Kennedy - Khrushchev conference. Trading was slow.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 249.50 with industrials up .30, rails off .20 and utilities off .10.

Changes were fractional among most key stocks but coppers were soft in continued response to the cut in copper scrap prices. Some of the copper shares fell more than a point.

Motors, drugs and mail order-retail stocks were steady to a bit higher. Chemicals, steels and oils were mixed.

As coppers beat a retreat, Anaconda was down 1⅝, International Nickel 1⅜. Kennecott, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge took fractional losses.

Motors responded only slightly to news of bigger production.

Lockheed was off about a point. Other aircrafts were moderately lower.

Just With Jackie

PARIS (AP)—President Kennedy deadpanned his own introduction today at a press club luncheon.

After formal presentation, the U.S. President arose, faced the audience and said:

"I do not feel that it is inappropriate for me to introduce myself. I am the man who accompanied Jacqueline Kennedy into Paris."

arrived this morning from Washington; Soviet Affairs expert Charles Bohlen and Foy Kohler of the State Department; James M. Gavin, the U.S. ambassador to France; French Premier Michel Debre; Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and other high-ranking French advisers.

Previously the two presidents had conferred with only interpreters present.

The U. S. President flies to Vienna Saturday for a two-day conference with the Soviet leader. He intends to emphasize to Khrushchev that the Western Allies want to improve East-West relations and to negotiate a disarmament agreement but are fully determined not to yield to Communist threats or pressures on West Berlin or any other disputed point.

Kennedy's final policy session with De Gaulle was a two-hour morning meeting at the Elysee Palace. Their main subject for this session was the North Atlantic Alliance, about which the French and U. S. Presidents are known to hold some sharply different views.

Meanwhile, a top team of U. S. diplomatic advisers gathered in Paris to accompany Kennedy to Vienna. Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew from Washington. Llewellyn Thompson, the ambassador to Moscow, arrived late Thursday. Roving Ambassador Averell Harriman, the U. S. delegate to the Geneva conference on Laos, was due this afternoon.

Both Are Pleased

U. S. and French officials said Kennedy and De Gaulle were very pleased with the results of their talks. Diplomats reported that the 70-year-old French president obviously was favorably impressed with his 44-year-old ally. Already their spokesmen have announced agreement on Berlin policy.

It was understood the two leaders decided Kennedy would make clear to Khrushchev that the Western powers will protect West Berlin and defend fully their rights of access to the city across Communist East Germany.

The spokesmen reported Kennedy and De Gaulle discussed political and economic problems of Latin America and Africa at their sessions Thursday.

The U. S. President was believed to have expressed the hope that France would work for a larger European role in assisting the Latin-American countries to raise their living standards.

It was also believed he assured De Gaulle that the United States, contrary to some French fears, has no intention of expanding its own influence in Africa at the expense of French interests there.

Kennedy has also spoken more than his predecessors, Presidents Eisenhower and Truman, about a necessity for the Atlantic allies to accept global responsibilities—a concept that in principle at least would seem to appeal to De Gaulle.

Social Life, Too

The social side of the Kennedy visit reached its climax Thursday night with a resplendent banquet in the historic Hall of Mirrors at the Palace of Versailles, followed by a gala ballet performance for some 600 guests in the palace's Louis XV theater.

At the dinner, Mrs. Kennedy paid a surprise tribute of her own to France, wearing a white silk gown and matching coat created for her by Paris designer Hubert de Givenchy. Advance word on her wardrobe had been that she would wear only American fashions during her visit; and the presence of the new Paris creation in her luggage had been a closely guarded secret.

Hitchhiker Awaits Hearing at Catskill

Clarence Tompkins, 29, who said he resides at a hotel in Saugerties, is being held by Leeds troopers for a hearing Monday 6 p. m. before Justice of the Peace Arthur Webster on a disorderly conduct charge. Bail was set at $25.

Troopers A. J. Petersen and A. P. Johnson arrested Tompkins while he was hitchhiking on Route 9W Wednesday at 9 p. m. State police said he refused to identify himself.

What happened was that John, as cool as a prarie night, zipped through 24 rounds of words like "ochlocracy" and "propitiatory" before spelling down Mary Lukes, 12, Oxnard, Calif., for the championship.

After Mary fumbled on "distichous" by making it "dietychous" John spelled it correctly, then wrapped up the title by reeling off "smaragdine" without even waiting to hear it defined. It means of or pertaining to emerald. "Distichous" means arranged in two vertical rows.

He's Going to Bank

John said he'll bank most of the $1,000 first prize.

This and other awards will be presented tonight at a banquet winding up the contest sponsored by Scripps-Howard Newspapers in 18 cities and 54 other newspapers and radio and television stations.

He also won a trophy cup, a ruby-studded medal, a trip to New York and a plaque for his school.

Mary Lukes won $500 as runner-up and Karen Grimm, 13, of Reisterstown, Md., got $250 for third. There also were five $100 prizes, 10 worth $75 each, and $50 for each of the other contestants.

Stolen Bicycle Recovered

John Lee Harris, 20, an employe of the Avon Lodge, South Fallsburgh, quit his job Thursday night but took the proprietor's bicycle when he left the premises, according to the town of Fallsburgh police. He was picked up about 2:30 a. m. today riding the bicycle through the streets of South Fallsburgh. He entered a plea of guilty to a charge of petit larceny upon arraignment and was sentenced to 15 days in the Sullivan County jail.

to be enjoying it as the Republican audience rewarded him with 52 applause interruptions. This was more than he ever got with a State of the Union address in eight years.

The former President, appearing heavier, tanned and fit, said Kennedy carries "the hopeful and sympathetic goodwill of all loyal Americans, regardless of party" into his foreign policy moves, especially his forthcoming meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

"History will judge the wisdom of his efforts," Eisenhower said. "But we cannot allow, today, the nation's basic unity of purpose to be in doubt."

Although he avoided any mention of the Cuban invasion fiasco, the former President went out of his way to praise the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The military leaders have been under fire for the role they played as advisors in the invasion.

Without putting it in as many words, Eisenhower implied criticism of the handling of the Cuban crisis by citing some of his own more successful experiences. Observing that Republicans stand ready to consult and advise, he added: "We have had some experience in careful and effective planning. In Iran, off Formosa, in Viet Nam, in Lebanon, in Guatemala and elsewhere we have known — and met — similar crises."

company because three employes were "fired" for what he claims was union activity.

He remarked that a spokesman for the 28-year-old company told him nobody was going to tell him how to run his business.

Griesi said two of those dismissed had worked for the concern 14 years, Clifford Cole and Joseph Hutton. The third was a woman, Miss J. Crawford. They were told that there was no work for them, the union man said, but "we understand two new employes were hired."

In saying that the union intends to file charges of unfair labor practices, Griesi stressed that "we intend to ask for their reinstatement with pay for time lost."

Cole and Miss Crawford were dismissed last week Thursday, Griesi said, and Hutton on Friday.

The company pays $1.10 an hour, Griesi said, which he considered substandard for the area, and criticized what he termed dusty conditions in the plant which reclaims grain bags.

He said the union intends to ask for an adjustment on pay, working conditions, and for other benefits including hospitalization.

Griesi said the petition for a union election would be filed today with the Buffalo office of the National Labor Relations Board.

Air Freight Issues OK If Risk Is Allowed

Q) "What do you think of the prospects for the air freight business over the next few years? Would I be taking on too much risk by investing in the industry? R.D.

A) I believe that the air freight industry as a whole could turn in a fine performance over the next few years. If this is to happen, though, several factors will first have to come into play.

A significantly lower rate structure will be necessary for larger, more profitable operations. One current projection shows that, with rate cuts, domestic air freight volume could rise a dramatic five-fold by 1965, and international volume could grown at an even faster pace.

Another requirement for success will be improved efficiently. To some extent this has already begun with the placing of orders by several cargo lines for Canadair Ltd.'s CL-44 turboprop, a faster, longer range plane with substantially more cargo room and lower operating costs than the carriers currently in use.

Two stocks which have a specialized interest in air freight are Flying Tiger and Emery Air Freight, the latter involved only in the handling of air freight. Although both of these issues are speculative, I think they have a good potential and can be bought moderately in accounts where some risk can be assumed. Of the two, my own preference is for Emery Air Freight, which has shown a more consistent earnings pattern.

Q) "I am 74 years old and still actively engaged in my own business. I would like to invest, not speculate, and would consider a good growth stock. I am anxious to safeguard my money against inflation." M.D.

A) Good growth utility stocks would, I believe, be your best answer. These will provide an adequate inflation hedge without subjecting your capital to undue risk. Montana Power (NYSE), Northern Indiana Public Service (MSE), Long Island Lighting (NYSE), and Orange & Rockland (NYSE) are all quite suitable for your particular needs.

Authorize Start on School Plans

for a good functioning school." There are some piles of quarried rock which were deposited at the site in the past. Where necessary such rocks will be removed.

Walls of the board offices in the high school were covered with drawings and plans for the proposed 1,200-pupil junior high school which would house grades 7 through 9.

George Schneider, chairman of the building committee, moved that the architects be authorized to proceed with preparation of final plans. The motion was seconded by Benson A. Kom.

May Bid in September

Schneider said that final plans for the junior high school should be ready to go for bid in September.

The proposed junior high school will be one-story in part, the remainder of two-story design, fitting the contours of the slope on which it will be placed. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 650.

Kirkman said the National Board of Fire Underwriters conducted tests last year at Schools 3 and 4 which indicated that the water pressure there is inadequate for sprinklers. He also consulted with Edmund Cloonan who heads the city water department.

Kirkman told the board that a new trunk main would have to be installed, at a prohibitive cost of perhaps $30,000 to $40,000. The schools are scheduled for replacement in the foreseeable future.

Recommends Detectors

He recommended smoke detection systems in the two schools, which could be installed without changing the budgeted amount. At its last meeting the board voted to sprinklerize the two schools. Smoke detection is the only practical solution under the circumstances, Kirkman stated.

Howard Fox suggested that the board communicate with the water department in connection with the water situation in that section of the city. Andrew T. Gilday said he felt the board should "get ourselves on record" what would be done in case of a fire in one of those schools.

It was pointed out that water would have to be pumped in. An adequate water situation in that area will come with urban renewal, it was explained.

Kirkman asked for permission to proceed immediately, before school is out, running underground piping at Schools 5, 6, 7 and 8. He explained that in some cases the pipe will be run through the school yard. The board felt that work should be started and that safeguards could be established to prevent pupils from having accidents. The work will also be insured for liability, thus protecting the contractor and the board.

Advises Central Kitchen

John Mason, a special consultant on cafeterias, presented a report in which he recommended installation of a central kitchen in the proposed junior high school, indicating that it will be less costly than having a kitchen in each school and will provide a pleasing and adequate lunch program for the children.

Under the plan Kingston High School would continue to serve Schools 2 through 8 in the city.

John Johnson, school cafeteria manager, pointed out that the biggest saving under the central commissary plan would be in payroll.

Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, a member of the board, said the plan appeared to offer opportunity for a substantial saving and that she has heard good reports on the quality of food, that children in elementary schools are enjoying the roast beef, turkey, etc., now available to them through the high school commissary.

Cost Discussed

Mason presented a cost analysis which indicated that the capital expenditure for the central kitchen in the new junior high would be $61,714.

Cost of equipment for the "satellite" kitchen would be $33,000, he said, with an approximate value of equipment estimated at $133,000. From this amount, however, can be subtracted the value of new and old equipment which would be reused ($47,000) and the salvage and refund values of old and new equipment ($24,286).

Murphy said that if the board doesn't go on the central kitchen plan the cost of installing additional kitchens in each school would come to approximately $94,000, plus equipment which would raise the figure to about $159,000. Subtracting from this the cost of installing the central kitchen in the junior high would still leave about $100,000 which would be saved, he said.

Three Disappointed

Schneider moved that the board include a central kitchen in plans for the junior high. It was seconded by Mrs. Connelly and adopted unanimously, although Fox, Gilday and Krom suggested that they were disappointed not to have received the report earlier in order to give it more study.

A report was also presented containing details of a survey by a geological firm of the Hasbrouck Park site for an elementary school.

There was no report of any "slippages" or faulting in the underlying rock mass. Core borings indicate some holes, or cavities, in the limestone but not large enough to cause slippages.

It is felt that the board would be safe in proceeding with negotiations for acquisition of the site. The board directed that copies of the geological report be sent to members of the planning commission and Common Council.

Mrs. Connelly reported briefly on her recent attendance at the National School Boards Association Conference in Philadelphia, Pa., saying that there was much stimulating discussion. Theme of the conference was "How to Finance Public Education."

Takes Pride in Handbook

It was also indicated at the conference that there is a national emphasis on handbooks of rules and regulations for school systems, she told the board. She felt a certain pride, she said, in the fact that the Kingston School District adopted such a handbook several years ago. Mrs. Connelly was the guiding spirit in its formulation, this reporter recalls.

Mrs. Connelly said the conference split on the question of federal aid to education, with the majority opposed to it, feeling that it would create a monster which would encroach more and more on local control.

The board approved salary increments for Mrs. Dorothy Thiel, Harry W. Mahood and Veronica Corcoran for additional graduate studies.

Lutherans Back Non-Violent Freedom Riders

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The United Lutheran Synod of New York and New England backs efforts of Freedom Riders to end racial segregation in public transportation "through non-violent techniques."

Delegates to the synod's convention adopted a resolution yesterday that offered "warm and sympathetic support."

The resolution did not mention Freedom Riders specifically. However, groups of white and Negro Freedom Riders traveling through the South on buses and trains have practiced non-violent opposition to segregation regulations in force in Southern states.

The 700 delegates to the convention voted a 13 per cent increase in the synod's budget, bringing the total to $2.3 million. Of the total, the United Lutheran Church of America will receive $1.3 million. The balance will be used within the synod.

A resolution asking the Lutheran Church in America to consider forming additional synods in New York State was defeated, 181-168.

The three-day convention ended yesterday.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

HEAL THYSELF, UNCLE

It is accepted doctrine in Washington today that our public school education has failed to prepare us for the kind of world we live in. Therefore, Uncle must take charge.

At long last, it is now believed that schools should teach kids to think hard rather than to dance,—in particular, the children who have the capacity to think hard.

E. F. Hutton

It has occurred to us, since Sputnik, that college freshmen should at least be equipped to read, write, spell and understand words of more than one or two syllables, when such words happen along.

I agree. But during the past 30 years, the U. S. Office of Education has been a chief promoter of the Dewey, Kilpatrick, Counts, Rugg philosophy of soft, sloppy "life adjustment" teaching. If you need proof, read "Life Adjustment for Every Youth," put out by said Office of Education.

I do not defend all traditional education, for example, that teachers should spend years trying to pour algebra into a skull that leaks like a kitchen colander. And Dewey would no doubt disclaim some of his "followers."

But I view with apprehension the idea of now turning education over to Uncle. Uncle can make mistakes—e.g., Cuba.

No. I would turn the job over to the tens of thousands of sturdy, patriotic, individual teachers who have for years fought a silent rear-guard action against the "progressive" educational hierarchy.

OLD TIMERS' CIVIL WAR NOTES

This columnist in a previous article has described, in part, the exercises connected with the 1880 Memorial Day observance in Kingston: The street parade down Union Avenue (Broadway) to Wiltwyck Cemetery; the great crowd of people who turned out to witness the procession and also the inspiring services which preceded the decorating of graves in the several city burying grounds by members of Pratt Post, Grand Army of the Republic. Today's column will be devoted to telling something about a few of the honored dead upon whose graves tenderly were laid the wreaths which had been brought along in the flower carriage of the precession.

Wiltwyck Cemetery: Leander Smith, B Co. 59th Regiment; died at Annapolis July 23, 1864, of wounds received before Petersburg. He was formerly a local cigar manufacturer and was admired for his integrity...Sgt. William A. Ingraham, B Co., 20th Regiment, a native of Kingston, was color sergeant of his regiment at 2nd Bull Run where, while carrying the flag, received wounds from which he died, Oct. 4, 1862, aged 20 years and 8 mo. After being wounded the eagle at the top of his color staff was snot off but he managed to conceal it upon his person so that the enemy could not get it. He carried the eagle to the hospital with him and would not deliver it to anyone save an officer of the Old Twentieth.

Reposing in Sharpe's Burial Ground: Capt. Rodney Baldwin Newkirk was born in Kingston Jan. 6, 1838. Following Lincoln's first call for volunteers, he served three months in the 71st N. Y. Militia Regiment, participating in the first Battle of Bull Run. Aug. 12, 1862, he was commissioned First Lieutenant of B. Co., 120th Infantry and was promoted to captain for bravery. April 13, 1863, he wounded before Petersburg, Va., and was mustered out with the 120th June 13, 1865, and died Nov. 25, 1868. Captain Newkirk was of a genial disposition, an excellent officer and was liked by all who knew him.

Reposing in Montrepose Cemetery: Ellis H. Bishop, a three-months man in Ulster County's 20th Infantry, later enlisted in Col. Sharpe's newly formed 120th Regiment as a member of I Company. Severly wounded in the head during the bloody engagements in front of Petersburg, 1865, he was left on the field for dead but recovered and was taken prisoner. He was later exchanged, and died from the effects of his wound at Rondout in 1869 . . . Also interred in Montrepose was Isaac A. Terwilliger, 87th N. Y. Volunteers. He enlisted in 1861, was wounded in 1862 and died in Rondout, November, 1862 while home on sick leave, aged 22 years. . . .Richard Castle, a sergeant in G Company, 43rd N. Y. Volunteers was killed at Fort Sterns, Virginia.

Lieut. Wm. James Cockburn, whose grave was in Houghtaling's Burial Ground, enlisted first as a sergeant in C Co., Twentieth Infantry and afterwards joined the 120th. He was wounded at Gettysburg July 2, 1863, and suffered amputation of a leg from the effects of which he died July 2, 1863, aged 28 years. He was a man of fine education and of remarkable intelligence; liked by everyone, his death regretted by all. John Blackwell, B Co., 20th Infantry, died Aug. 31, 1864, at City Point, Va., of typhoid fever, aged 20 years. . . Lieut. Peter S. VanVoorhees of C Company, 20th Regiment, died at Kingston, Jan. 18, 1879.

Among the soldiers reposing in St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery was Edward Beckett, 20th Infantry. At Second Bull Run where the Ulster County boys were caught in a murderous cross-fire from the enemy, he maintained possession of the colors after the death of five bearers and held the flag until his regiment was relieved, and was slightly wounded. Receiving a severe wound at Gettysburg when the flagstaff was cut in two by enemy bullets, he died at Rondout May 1, 1867. . . . Another soldier in St. Mary's whose grave was decorated by the veterans was Sgt. Archibald McMullen, F Company, 20th Infantry who served throughout the war and died from the effects of a wound received at Gettysburg, at Rondout, May 1, 1867.

The Wiltwyck Chapel Burial Ground held the remains of Capt. Francis W. Reynolds, who organized I Company (known as the 'Havelocks') of Colonel George Sharpe's 120th Infantry, was mustered into service August 22, 1862 and was wounded at Chancellorsville, May 3, 1862 and received his discharge from the service the following October 14 and afterwards died at Kingston. Captain Reynolds was a man of fine promise who stood high in the estimation of the public . . . Also interred here was Lieut. John J. Lockwood, who entered the service as a second lieutenant in the 120th, was promoted to first leutenant and was killed in the Wilderness campaign May 5, 1864, while in command of K Company.

Members of the several GAR Posts in the rural sections of Ulster were leaders in the arranging and carrying out of Memorial Day ceremonies in the 1880's. Ketcham Post promoted observance of the day down around Marlborough and Milton. At Ellenville, home of Ward Post 191, the Academy Grounds was filled with people for the exercises, while at Saugerties, J. R. Tappen Post decorated graves and details their did likewise at Plattekill, Glasco, Katsbaan and Blue Mountain. Services were held in Napanoch by Bankstone Post 186, and veterans assisted by local women placed flowers on the graves. A detachment from LeFever Post, Marlborough went to New Paltz and decorated the grave of Johannes Lefever for whom their post was named. In New Paltz and vicinity the procession was formed under direction of Lieut. Charles J. Ackert, assisted by his aids Capt. George W. VanVoorhees and Sergeant Charles W. Bleeker. The attendance of citizens on this 1883 occasion was large. John N. Vanderlyn made the principal address at Soldiers Monument in Rural Cemetery.

"Cover them over with beautiful flowers,
Deck them with garlands, these brothers of ours,
Lying so silent, by night and by day,
Sleeping the years of their manhood away —
Cover them over with beautiful flowers."

Ben Merch Elected President Woodstock Taxpayer Group

Benjamin R. Merch, manager at H. Houst and Son for the past four years, has been elected president of the newly-formed Woodstock chapter of the Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association.

Merch was the unanimous choice of the associate members at a meeting held recently at town hall. The chapter now has a membership of 24.

Other officers named were: Albert Jacquez, vice president; Mrs. Frederick Platt, recording secretary; and Arthur P. Shepard, treasurer. All officers elected will serve until the permanent elections on Saturday, August 12.

Merch has been a resident of Woodstock for about five years, coming here from Albany. He was formerly active in P-TA and Woodstock Festival. He and Mrs. Merch and their two daughters reside on Country Club Lane.

Lawrence Casey, president of the parent association, enthusiastically welcomed the new officers and members and convened his meeting in order for the chapter to begin their first official meeting. Casey and the directors of the Lake Hill group fully discussed with the associates the purpose and aims of the association, its constitution and by-laws, the inception of a delegate's committee on inter-chapter functions and the association's responsibilities to the community as a whole.

Names Chairman

In his first official act, president Merch appointed Miss Anette Dietz as chairman of the membership committee. In doing so he stressed the need for every member to create interest, to fully explain the association and invite all taxpayers to join in this effort.

"It is true," said Merch, "that this association is surpassed by no other organization in providing for, protecting and promoting the rights and representation of every taxpayer-member or non-member." In conjunction with this, he said plans were in progress to release a general information bulletin and fact sheet on the association, its achievements and plans for the future.

At the conclusion, Casey spoke briefly to express his admiration of the "fire and interest" shown by all associates. He promised 100 per cent cooperative effort to increase the taxpayers strength and influence for promoting the welfare of all taxpayers against excesses of government.

Speaking of the need for individual interest in tax affairs, Casey said: "The trend is toward big government, massive controls and suppression of individual rights. If we ignore our local government because of apathy or indifference, then it is we, the people, who shall be controlled as sure as if we lived in Russia. Our representative rights are not God given, our forefathers fought for them. We are not asked to fight. But we must remember our responsibilities to ourselves, our families, and yes, to our community."

A formal charter presentation for the Woodstock Chapter will be made at the next meeting of the association.

Mrs. Hazel Freitag, chairman of fund raising for the Lake Hill group, announced that a cake sale was scheduled for July 29. Other means are contemplated to raise funds for operation expenses in the coming year. Full details will be released later.

WOODSTOCK

PB-QA

Following is another question and answer in conjunction with planning and zoning in the town of Woodstock:

Q—What will a Growth Plan do to our roads?

A—One of the principal virtues of a Growth Plan is that it starts with studying local conditions of traffic as they are and as statistics show they will become in 5, 10 and 20 years. Then the professional planner asks whether these conditions are and will be what the people actually expect or would like to see. Traffic is broken down into local and through traffic and into heavy industrial, light commercial, passenger travel, shopping movements and others.

The planner will avoid letting all traffic bear on the same roads and will try to provide the most convenient type of road connections for each. He will not want to see heavy traffic squeezed through a shopping, civic or residential area, to create hazard and annoyance for the citizens, delays for through traffic and loss of business for the stores. One of the first things a planner does is to go see the future plans in the state and county highway departments. He will project by-passes and new roads that suit the conditions for the years ahead and his plan will become a welcome and respected guidance for the state, county and town authorities. The overall result will avoid indiscriminate widening of existing roads to carry more and more unrelated traffic and consequent disfiguration of our built-up areas, greater traffic hazards, and unnecessary condemnation of private property. And the refined planner will not only think in terms of trucks and automobiles but also of the pedestrian; he is likely to project pedestrian paths, horse riding trails, and havens where the pedestrian can walk, shop, and go about his daily chores in peace. Such conditions will never be attained by letting the state highway department continuously widen existing roads on the basis of ever increasing traffic counts and leaving town development to simply represent the sum total of all individual building projects. The only way to safe and agreeable roads is through careful planning, which means a Growth Plan.

2 Former Oneida Women Are Found Dead on Coast

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Two former Oneida, N. Y. women, an aged pensioner and her 46-year-old daughter, were found dead in their apartment Thursday. They apparently died of malnutrition.

Authorities, noting the women's $5,000 checking account and plenty of food in the apartment, were mystified at the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Farley, 84, and daughter, Katherine.

Deputy Coroner Don Bouchette said each woman weighed about 75 pounds. He said the daughter had been dead for six to eight days. The mother for four or five days.

The deaths were discovered when Richard Griffith, son of the apartment house owner, became curious because he hadn't seen the women for several days. He opened the apartment with a passkey.

A neighbor said the women had lived secluded lives since they came here from Oneida a year ago after the death of Mrs. Farley's husband, Robert, a retired railroad man.

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose—to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Final Settlement Reached in Costly Building Strike

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Contractors in Upstate Eastern New York today recalled workers to some projects, following settlement of a costly, month-long construction strike that had idled more than 10,000 workers.

Work on all other projects will resume Monday, the contractors said.

The final settlement was reached Thursday between contractors and the Troy local of the Plumbers Union, the last of about a dozen building - trades unions whose contracts expired May 1.

The Troy plumbers' two-year contract calls for an increase of 17 cents an hour the first year and 15 cents the second year, including fringe benefits, it was reported.

Only the Troy and Albany locals of the Plumbers Union and the Operating Engineers Union struck May 1 against members of the Eastern New York Contractors Association.

But other unions honored picket lines and the contractors subsequently shut down all but highway construction, halting work on building projects valued at $40 million.

Hundreds of men in building-material supply industries also were idled or lost time.

Construction was at a standstill in an area extending northward from Greene and Columbia counties.

Operating engineers agreed last week to 15-cent-an-hour increases in each of two years. Their wages had ranged from $3.24 to $4.28½ cents an hour.

The Albany plumbers settled last week for pay raises and benefits totaling 30 cents an hour over two years.

Plumbers had received $3.85 an hour.

The other unions and the contractors negotiated new contracts during the course of the strike.

Court Backs Firm Against State Insurance Dept.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) —Although a state law bars out-of-state life-insurance companies from selling fire and casualty insurance in New York State an out-of-state life-insurance company had court approval today to acquire a fire and casualty company licensed in New York.

The Court of Appeals, the state's highest, held Thursday that the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. could acquire controlling interest in a fire and casualty business without losing its license to operate in New York State.

The court split 4-3 in supporting Connecticut General against the New York State Insurance Department.

The department had told the life-insurance firm in 1955 that its license would be revoked if it bought control of the National Fire Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn., which also was licensed in New York.

The court held that the state law barring combined insurance operations did not apply to the plans of Connecticut General.

Connecticut General, represented in court by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, contended it was being discriminated against. It said two other Connecticut Insurance companies, Travelers and Aetna, were operating fire and casualty subsidiaries in New York State.

The insurance department argued that Connecticut General's attempt to buy controlling interest in a fire-insurance company meant that the life-insurance firm wanted to engage directly in the fire-insurance business in the state.

But the court said Connecticut General had sought the acquisition to improve its competitive position and to enable its agents to offer casualty and fire insurance as well as life insurance.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 2 —This was the motel industry. Perhaps it continues to be America's fastest growing industry from a money - invested standpoint; but the number of new individual motels declined in 1960. Motels are becoming "big business" and from an investment standpoint may now be classified with hotels. Motels, now, are hotels laid on their sides! Let me venture to say that real estate has become our fastest growing industry.

Real Estate in General

The first English translation of Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction—upon which the theory of the Economic Cycle and the business of most Investment Counseling are based —was made in 1729. In those days, this Cycle practically applied only to gold and real estate. The price of gold has since become controlled by the Federal Government; but the cycle theory still applies to real estate. I personally believe that we may have passed the peak of the present real estate cycle.

Of course, the general condition of business always has a profound effect on the real estate situation, housing in particular. Since I fear that no great economic boom is now probable, the immediate future of real estate must depend upon other factors. One of these is the availability and cost of money. Another is the cost of new building. Neither of these factors is now helpful to real estate.

Consider Human Factors

Another thing to remember is that the regularity and balance of cycles in real estate activity are especially pronounced. Upward and downward swings tend to match, in both intensity and duration. But according to Sir Isaac Newton's Law, it is the product of the intensity and duration which must ultimately balance. As the intensity of the real estate boom has been rather magnified, then the duration of the following slump may be greater than expected. This is contrary to most reasoning, but this is Newton's Law.

Overextension and retrenchment are phychological human forces which cannot be measured. Another human factor is the large number of people reaching the age of 20, which means more marriages. This will call for more rented houses and small apartments. The big home-buying age is 30-35. The percentage of Americans reaching these ages has begun to decline. There is, however, a growing trend toward home ownership, especially homes in the suburbs. This figure is now 60 per cent. Hence, rental price rises have fallen below the cost-of-living advance. Foreclosures have been increasing in certain new subdivisions. Office buildings continue in demand, with vacancies of not over 5 per cent.

Watch Farm Land

Since the Kennedy Administration's policies should result in higher income for the farmer, I expect a further rise in farm land prices —especially land near cities, both large and small. The old advice: "Buy by the acre and sell by the foot" is still good. Also remember that each city is growing fastest in some one direction,—it may be "east" or "west" or "south."

Before speculating in vacant land, there are certain facts you should get: Determine the current land values and prices in the area, tax rates and appraisal methods, new roads and highways approved for construction (as well as those in the proposal stage), all pertinent construction plans by government and private enterprise, the growth rate in the area as compared with other sections of the country. You must guess: The length of time before land appreciation will take place, the possibility of being isolated by highways not yet proposed, the danger of sharp tax-rate boosts, the future cost of utilities, likelihood of industrial expansion, and future prospects for existing industries.

In Summary: Real estate investment at this time can still be sound—particularly in relation to many other profit ventures—but the absence of any evidence of a great new boom makes it more important than ever for you to select your vacant-land investment with great care. Final thought: Remember how fast interest and taxes pile up!

Trappers Say Bear Is Prowling Killer

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (AP)—A bear has killed about 100 domestic animals and terrorized rural residents in recent weeks, trappers say.

Several persons had reported seeing a "big cat" prowling the northern suburbs of the city and there had been speculation the nocturnal raider might be a mountain lion.

But trappers of the State Conservation Department said Thursday the animal was an Adirondack black bear yearling, based on paw prints found near a barnyard.

The trappers said the bear probably has headed back into the Adirondack foothills.

TV Highlights Will Center on Kennedy's Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television emphasis during the next week centers on President Kennedy's European trip and meetings with France's De Gaulle and Russia's Khrushchev.

All networks are bumping regularly scheduled programs for news specials — some on such short notice that it is best to consult the daily TV listings in the newspaper for the latest word. NBC, for example, will have one of its continuing "JFK" reports daily over the weekend and through Monday.

Still in the current events area is another item of special interest: CBS' telecast of the Belmont Stakes on Saturday (4:30-5 p.m., EDT). This is the last of the "triple crown" races.

Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, will be Sunday's "Meet the Press" guest (NBC, 6:30 - 7 p.m.) in his first network TV appearance since his retirement from CBS.

Vivian Vance of "I Love Lucy" will be Red Skelton's guest star Tuesday night (CBS, 9:30-10), and there will be a special ice show starring Peter Lawford and Peggy Lee on NBC (10-11).

On Thursday there will be a repeat of "CBS Reports" documentary on "A Case of Real Murder" (10-11), and, for those in search of a chuckle, there is ABC's "Silents, Please" digest of heroines in peril (10:30-11).

NEW YORK (AP)—The mother of a pre-teen daughter of my acquaintance has a little problem: getting Suzy to wash her face.

Suzy, it seems, watches the toilet soap commercials on TV and insists on following the demonstrations of beauty care faithfully. She first wraps her "hairdo" in a hand towel, and then proceeds carefully to dab each rounded cheek and the middle of her forehead with a small circle of suds.

She scorns the face cloth as old-fashioned — after all, all the TV face-dabbers use their hands. And Suzy is not convinced by her mother's explanation that the TV girls caress rather than scrub on screen because they don't want to mess up their carefully applied lip and eye make-up.

CBS' bi-weekly Steel Hour has been renewed for another season. That's welcome news because it is one of the few dramatic shows to survive the ratings battle with westerns and private eyes.

But the joy isn't undiluted because the scripts are too often stodgy, stilted and garnished with cliches.

This week's offering, for example, was billed as a "rollicking comedy," and there were all the ingredients for a breezy, amusing period piece. But nothing rollicked — in fact, there wasn't a single laugh in the entire 60 minutes.

The play, adapted from a Stephen Vincent Benet short story, was called "Famous." It was about an aging playboy song writer who doesn't want his children to follow his footsteps into the theatre. Eddy Albert played the father with a leaden touch. Even Dolores Gray, as a 1927 musical comedy queen, couldn't brighten her corner.

Ed Sullivan will present three scenes from "All the Way Home" the Broadway show which won playwright Tad Mosel a Pulitzer Prize, on Sunday night. Sullivan is credited with saving the play when it was about to fold, with an enthusiastic plug on his program. Sports Programs of both CBS and ABC in mid-June will be devoted to French auto races: CBS' "Sports Spectacular" on June 15 will report on the 1961 Grand Prix de Monaco, the Riviera's big car racing event, and ABC's June 17 "Wide World of Sports" will show the famous 24-hour-long Le Mans circuit.

Recommended tonight: "Twilight Zone," CBS, 10-10:30 (Eastern Daylight Time) — Burgess Meredith stars in "The Obsolete Man."

Same May Hold for Vienna Talks

KennedyDeGaulleSum-Up: Just Restating of Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, to no one's surprise, so far in his Paris visit has given no new insights into his thinking on foreign policy.

He wasn't expected to. Nor is he likely to in his remaining talks with President De Gaulle or later, in Vienna, in his meeting with Premier Khrushchev.

Pomp and Circumstance

His meeting with De Gaulle has been given far more attention for what they did and where they went than for anything they said—which, apparently, hasn't been much.

They went through all the ceremonial fol-de-rol which has become customary when one head of state visits another: Exposure to crowds, airport bands, wreath-laying, graveside bands, banquets, speeches.

In a short visit like Kennedy's, with a man he had never conferred with before, all the time spent on pomp and circumstance might have been much more profitably used in conversation between the two men.

What Kennedy has told De Gaulle (so far as is known)—and why there's nothing new in it—can be summed up like this:

Was Policy Before

1. He pledged America to stand with its NATO allies, particularly France and West Germany, in defense of West Berlin against any Communist attempt to take it over or shut it off from the West.

But this was American policy before Kennedy became President. He's simply reaffirming it.

2. He said the future of the backward countries in the southern half of the world is the responsibility of the Western allies.

This is no revelation. For years the United States realized the responsibility and has been trying to help the backward areas. Further, it has been needling its allies to do more of the same.

3. He pledged the United States to the defense of Western Europe. But that's exactly why the United States joined NATO in the first place a dozen years ago. So Kennedy is simply restating long-established American policy.

And later this week when Kennedy meets Khrushchev, since he is not going to make any commitments behind the backs of American allies, there may be some understandings but hardly any settlements.

No New Ground Broken

Once again the events surrounding the Kennedy-Khrushchev conference—rather than what they say or accomplish—is apt to get the attention and provide the color.

In short, up to this point in his presidency, except for wanting to give backward areas aid on a long-term basis so they can plan better, Kennedy has hardly broken new ground or departed from the policies of his predecessors.

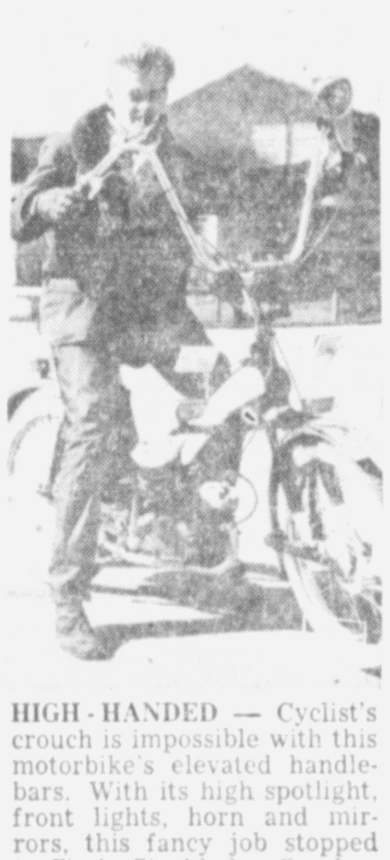
Many Problems in JFK Plan

Army Skeptical of Step-Up For Guard, Reserve Units



HIGH-HANDED — Cyclist's crouch is impossible with this motorbike's elevated handlebars. With its high spotlight, front lights, horn and mirrors, this fancy job stopped traffic in Stockholm, Sweden.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, trying to meet President Kennedy's requirements for a combat-ready reserve, plans to intensify training of National Guard and reserve divisions ticketed for quick callup in event of emergency.

But Army officers voiced serious doubts today that these measures, involving an increase in weekly drills and summer training, would be enough to get the citizen-soldiers in shape for rugged field service.

Eyes 10 Divisions

From talks with Army officials, it was evident many problems remain to be solved before realization of Kennedy's plan to mount a force of 10 Guard and reserve divisions set to move to trouble spots within a few weeks after being ordered to duty.

There was an undercurrent of skepticism that the plan ever would work out the way Kennedy outlined it to Congress.

In his special message last week, the President said the Army "is developing plans to make possible a much more rapid deployment of a major portion of its highly-trained reserve forces."

When these plans are completed, Kennedy said, two combat-equipped divisions could be ready in an emergency for operations with but three weeks notice, a total of 10 divisions with less than eight weeks notice.

Political Woe as Well

Not the smallest of the problems is re-equipping the Guard divisions, now using mostly gear of World War II vintage.

And there is a political problem too. Army officials indicated some governors will have to be persuaded to give up strength in Guard units under their control to permit building up of divisions earmarked for the quick reaction reserve force.

Of the 27 infantry and armored divisions in the National Guard, seven infantry divisions are designated as high priority units constituting a ready reserve.

Jaycee Auction Is Shifted to Lake Pavilion

The site of the Junior Chamber auction to be held June 3 has been changed from Forsyth Park to Pardee's Spring Lake Pavilion. This was necessitated because of numerous complaints to the Chamber office and the mayor's office, protesting the Jaycees using city property for an auction.

The auction will start Saturday at 10 a. m., the Jaycees report.

The Jaycees also pointed to the fine response by Kingston merchants in their contribution of articles for the auction.

Mt. Marion Man Held for Injury To Show Horses

William Goetz, 26 of Mt. Marion Park, arrested by state police on a charge pertaining to injuring certain domestic animals, appeared before Saugerties Town Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers Thursday afternoon where examination was set for Saturday 9:30 a. m.

Goetz was taken before Judge Myers following questioning about the death of one of two prized show horses valued by the owner, Fred Shader of High Woods at $5,600. Both horses grazing on land in the vicinity of property owned by Goetz' father, and near Yula's Shangra La, well-known area boardinghouse, were injured by .22 caliber rifle fire, troopers said.

One of the horses, a seven-year-old mare, named Pepper, valued at $600, died of gunshot wounds inflicted Wednesday night in the back and left side, according to Trooper Richard Ryan, who investigated with Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon of Kingston BCI.

The other, a 17-year-old gelding, Amos, valued at $5,000 was treated by Richard Holmes, area veterinarian for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Troopers said the shooting occurred between 8:30 and 9 a. m. Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Shader reside in a bungalow on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yula, proprietors of the Shangra La.

Navy Color Girl Likes Routine, Keeps on Kissing

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The 89th Navy Color Girl, nurse Betty Fears, is counting her kisses.

The kiss is a traditional part of the presentation of colors ceremony at which Miss Fears will present the national, brigade and Navy colors to Midshipman John J. Sheahan's 21st Company.

"I guesss we'll have to kiss about 15 times at rehearsal," she said as she smiled at Sheahan, whom she has dated steadily for 2½ years.

Sheahan, 24, a former Marine sergeant from Rego Park, N. Y., said he had spent some of Thursday studying parade procedures but was quick to explain they involved more than the kissing sequence.

Miss Fears blushed slightly but said she won't mind kissing Sheahan in front of the entire 3,900-man brigade of midshipmen and thousands of June week visitors to the Naval Academy.

The 5-foot-7 brunette with flashing green eyes was chosen by Sheahan after his company was named the best among 24 at the academy in a year-long competition.

Miss Fears, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fears of Balboa, Canal Zone, was homecoming queen, a cheerleader and a high-scoring forward on the girl's basketball team at Cristobal High School in the Canal Zone, where she graduated in 1956.

William Coley, Fishing in Area Sought by Wife

William Coley of Middletown, Conn., said to be fishing in the area, is being sought by his wife, who reported to Kingston state police that there was a death in his family on Thursday.

Coley is vacationing with a friend, William Bueno in a housekeeping cabin near a creek or river in the area. Coley's wife told troopers she thought it was in the Saugerties vicinity.

Coley is driving a 1959 black rambler with Connecticut registration 134-029.

State police have alerted all news media to seek the aid of motorists and other fishermen who might see Coley's car parked along a stream. If found, Coley is requested to call Kingston state police for further information.

Welfare Head Is Kiwanis Speaker About Facilities

The Department of Welfare and Public Assistance is the largest agency in Ulster County according to Commissioner of Public Welfare Joseph Fitzsimmons in a brief talk before the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

Former Mayor Frederick H. Stang, chairman of the Kiwanis program committee, presented Commissioner Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons told his audience that over 60 people are employed by the department which he heads, and that the budget exceeds two million dollars per year. He explained that the department takes care of home relief, the aged, child welfare, medical care for those in need, and other necessary objectives.

The 280 acre farm in New Paltz, maintained by the Welfare Department, was also the subject of remarks by the commissioner. He pointed out that the "rehabilitation value of this farm could not be measured in dollars and cents" — that the farm accommodates 65 people and has a 26-bed infirmary. Food grown on the farm supplies the needs of the welfare department to a large extent.

The Kingston infirmary on Flatbush Avenue has facilities for 96 people, commissioner said. People from 28 to 100 years of age are provided for at the infirmary, he said, and praised the therapy programs and the "dedicated department heads" for making the local welfare program successful.

Commissioner Fitzsimmons extended an invitation to all members of the Kiwanis Club to visit the various facilities of the Welfare Department.

Jackson Poised For Riders, 42 Still on Fast

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's capital city girded today for a fresh onslaught by segregation-testing "freedom riders."

Meanwhile, other integrationist freedom riders—jailed when they tried to crack "Jim Crow" barriers here—continued a protest hunger strike.

At least seven riders were expected to leave Montgomery, Ala. today for New Orleans via Jackson. Their departure time was not announced.

Acting Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson urged residents of the state to let the law take its course. Gov. Ross Barnett was out of the state on an industry-seeking trip to the East.

Already 52 have been arrested by Jackson police. Nine have been released on appeal bonds and one paid a fine.

The 42 remaining freedom riders—seven whites and 35 Negroes—are all believed to be participating in the hunger strike. Leaders vowed the fast would continue until federal authorities intervene to end segregation in bus and rail facilities throughout the south.

The fast began at breakfast Thursday when the white prisoners, including three Cornell University students, refused to eat. The Negroes, held in another jail, joined the hunger strike at noon.

Khrunichev, Reds' Space Chief, Dies

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced the sudden death of the political chief of its space program, Deputy Premier Mikhail Khrunichev. He was 59.

The announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass did not give the cause of death.

Tass said Khrunichev died suddenly. Apparently death occurred during the night. He was listed among the Soviet leaders who attended a reception for a visiting Somali government delegation in the Kremlin Thursday night.

Khrunichev was appointed to the space chief post April 8 and made a deputy premier. He was little known in the West.

Khrunichev worked as a messenger and a blacksmith's assistant until he joined the Red army in 1920. His army career boomed and by 1937 he was director of all Soviet war plants.

He continued administrative work in aviation and military supplies during World War II with the rank of lieutenant general.

By 1952 he was a member of the Communist party central committee.

He was a deputy premier during 1955-56, left that post to take on an important planning job—deputy chairman of the state economic commission—and became aviation minister in 1957.

He held seven orders of Lenin, two Stalin prizes and had the title Hero of Socialist Labor.

Red Hook Area Favorable Spot

Meteorologist Reported Here on Hail Project

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
(Freeman Staff Writer)

This is the eighth in a series of articles on weather modification experiments in the Hudson Valley and elsewhere in the nation.

Reports after cloud seeding for hail suppression in the Hudson Valley made no important claim but they revealed some interesting facts as to the nature and extent of storms in our area.

One published in the 1957 record of proceedings at meetings of the New York State Horticultural Society was made by Tom Henderson, meteorologist for the Weather Modification Company, at that time. Dr. Schaefer recently revealed that Henderson now heads his own organization, Atmospherics Incorporated, Fresno Calif. He will be working this coming summer with the Colorado State University Group on a radar study project dealing with the giant hailstorms of northeastern Colorado.

Henderson, in his report here, said his men worked with one airplane and some silver iodide generators placed to protect an area of 1,200 square miles. The plane operated from a hill some five miles east of Red Hook. A radar unit also operated there, and the spot, he said, was favorable "because you could see the entire target area with the eye on clear day. The view was unobstructed in all directions except at one minor point to the northeast. This spot was picked before I reached the Hudson Valley, and in my opinion, it is the best spot for this particular area."

A brief summary of the overall program, he said, "indicates that between July 9 and Sept. 21, we experienced 29 storms, 16 of which were identified as hail bearing. We identified these either by talking to people beyond the target area" or through the plane pilot.

Those on the ground, he noted, reported hail when they saw it, and sometimes the plane was hit by hail when it flew through clouds. Some storms, he said, might have been hail bearing without knowledge of those working on the project. He reported "282 precipitation cells associated with the storms, or about 10 per storm. The silver iodide ground generators were operated a total of 1,632 hours, or about 56 hours per storm. The aircraft made 15 flights during the mentioned period and logged 28.4 hours."

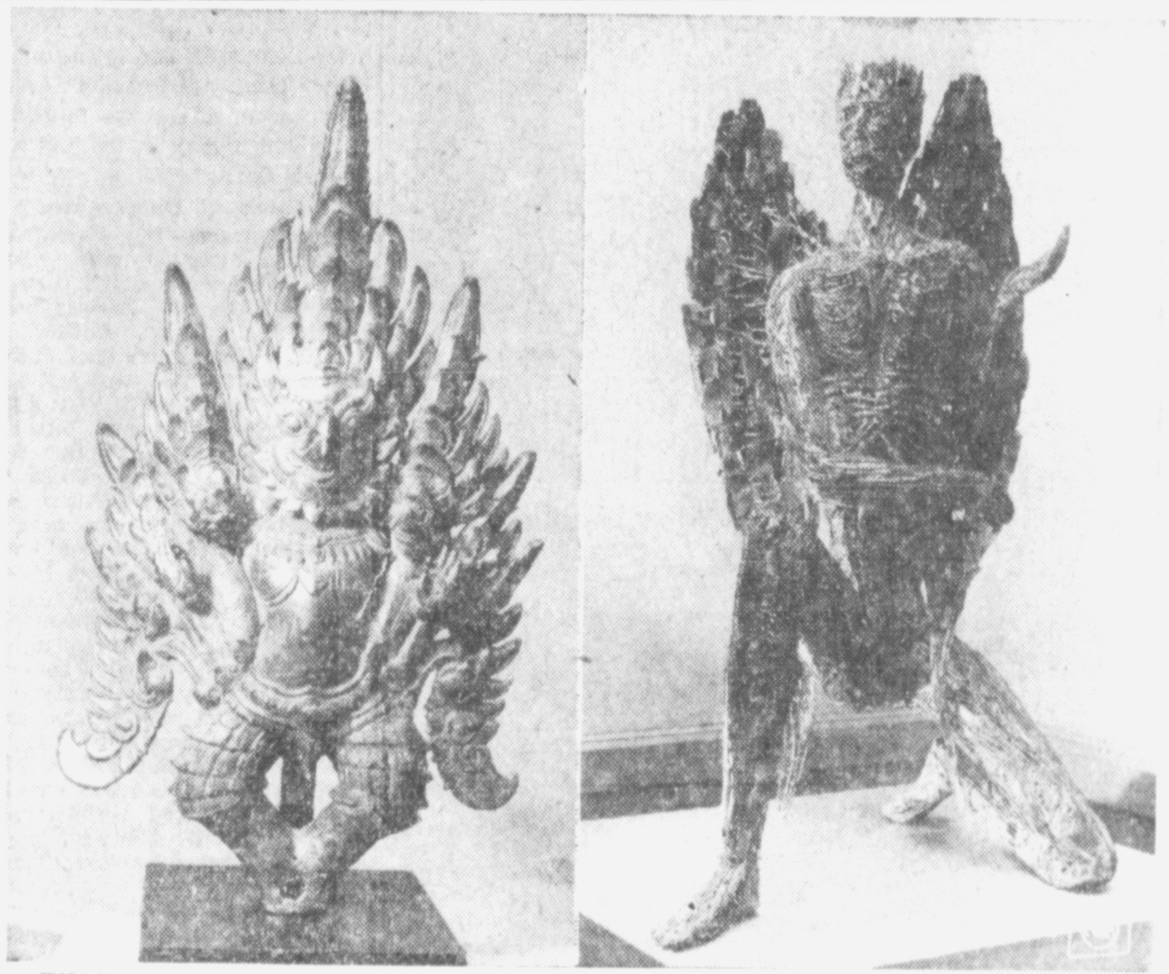
Hail fell "inside the target area four times during the 29 storms. One of these occasions produced only a trace of hail, and no damage. The other three producd damage in different degrees in some of the orchards inside the target area. We think we know why the hail got inside the area, and we think we know the steps necessary to correct the difficulty. However, I don't believe anyone can assure you of a 100 per cent hail protection program. There is nothing wrong with the theories behind this work, but since humans are involved in the operation of such a program, there are bound to be occasional human errors. The only thing we can do is to be absolutely conscientious about the operation of the program, and attempt to keep thse human errors to an absolute minimum."

Of the storms observed, No. 1, he said was named "Dave Ring." It started near Kerhonkson July 14, "intensified over the Shawangunks, and swept through an area between Kingston and Poughkeepsie. Damaging hail was experienced in the Salt Point and New Paltz areas, and in a few isolated spots between these points. Cloud tops that day reached 35,000 feet, which is fairly normal for hail storms in this area."

The storm, he said, was seeded by air and ground, and he felt that hail resulted of two main causes, one being the inoperation of the radar. On the previous night, he noted, there were two lightning strikes "right by the control center." It put phones and radar out of service.

Among August storms, he said, one was named Marlboro-Fishkill. It also moved from the Shawangunk area. Another was the Claverack Area Storm. It formed northwest of Hudson. It was in twin phase and produced hail which caused apple damage.

The worst on Sept. 2, he said was named The 100-Mile Storm, because it had 100 miles of precipitation cells from a point just south of Albany to the New Jersey State line. The cells moved from west to east. He said 44 generators were used in the western area and there was no hail inside the target area. It was felt, he said that the generators were in the right place and in the right number. It was difficult to determine how much good was done, he said, but if hail records had been kept, it would have been easier."



THAILAND OR TOLEDO?—Sometimes art doesn't appear to differ a great deal, whether it's from Bangkok or Bowling Green or from different centuries. At left is a 13th-century "Garuda"—a supernatural being, half bird, half man—from Thailand. On the right is "Ex Voto," a modern welded sculpture by John Zeilman of Bowling Green, Ohio. Both works are on display at the Toledo (Ohio) Museum of Art.

Area Roadblocks Seek Unlicensed, 6,000 in State

State police roadblocks in the area and throughout the state are seeking approximately 6,000 would-be penalty dodgers who are without chauffeur licenses due to the Department of Motor Vehicles' new punch card license system. Many regular chauffeur licenses expired at midnight Wednesday.

The penalty-dodgers are drivers whose bad records had led to their license suspension or revocation. But they had refused to turn in the actual license itself, and have since been dodging efforts of police to pick up the documents.

Time ran out on them Thursday, however, when their three-year chauffeur license expired. They found they were unable to renew.

Prior to the punch card system's initiation, it would have been possible for them to go into an issuing office at expiration time, and by falsely certifying that his record was clean, could have renewed. Under the department's old manual filing system, it would have taken as much as several months for the department to catch up with them.

But under the new system, which uses electronic equipment, applications are mailed out only to drivers who are entitled to renew. Such applications may not be obtained in any other way. All complaints that the punch card applications were not received by mail are carefully checked against revocations and suspensions, before substitute applications are mailed.

In order to reinstate their licenses, the 6,000 drivers must wait the prescribed term of suspension or revocation. Then those under suspension will automatically receive their new applications by mail, and those under revocation must apply for a new license.

"Six thousand licenses against a state total of 750,000 expiring this year doesn't seem like a great deal, at first glance," Motor Vehicle Commissioner William S. Hults said.

"But on the other hand, we know that in up to 85 per cent of all accidents some violation of the law is involved. We know that these drivers are the ones who are consistently violating the law, and by enforcing previously invoked orders, we feel we are materially advancing the cause of highway safety where it will do the most good."

Wednesday marked the conclusion of the first phase of the Department's "Operation Punch Card," the program that will leave all licenses—operators and chauffeurs—on punch cards by the end of 1963.

Although it involved three-quarters of a million drivers, it went off with only minor difficulties, Commissioner Hults said.

Name Classroom At Heidelberg for Ex-Cornell Head

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—A group of Cornell University officials and alumni rededicated a classroom building at Heidelberg University Thursday presented a $50,000 student scholarship fund.

The building, Schurman Hall, originally dedicated in 1936, is named in honor of Jacob Gould Schurman, Cornell's third president and a student at Heidelberg from 1878 to 1879.

From 'Sons of Cornell'

Arthur H. Dean, chairman of the Cornell board of trustees and American ambassador heading atomic test ban negotiations at Geneva, unvieled a plaque in memory of Schurman. It was presented by "the sons of Cornell."

The scholarship, also named after Schurman, is to send one Heidelberg student a year to Cornell for the next 10 years.

Heidelberg has a similar scholarship fund for Cornell students.

Schurman was a professor and president of the American university at Ithaca, N.Y., from 1886 to 1920, when he resigned to enter the U.S. diplomatic corps.

While ambassador to Germany, from 1925 to 1930, he backed an American fund drive to build a $500,000 classroom building at Heidelberg.

Cornell President Deane W. Malott, in a speech at the ceremony, said the event re-emphasized the humanitarian and philosophical traditions binding two great peoples in a common destiny.

Other speakers included Dr. Gottfried Koethe, rector of Heidelberg, who said the 250 Americans studying at the university "have proved to be the best ambassadors of their homeland," and U.S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling.

Dr. R.H. Jackson of Cleveland, Ohio, a Heidelberg graduate, represented American alumni of the university.

Plaque From '61 Class

Thomas B. Gilchrist of New York City, a Cornell alumnus, arranged funds for the Schurman Scholarship. The Cornell Class of 1961 raised money for the plaque.

The rededication, also attended by American and German political, military and educational dignitaries, was in conjunction with [illegible] anniversary of the founding of Heidelberg.

Ambassador Dean represented Schurman's son, Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr. of Bedford Village, N.Y., at the event. Judge Schurman was unable to attend because of illness.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

After watching the history of railroads on TV the other night I wondered what other manner of transportation will be invented so that the worker can go back and forth to work more easily. Every city is now suffering from that "rush hour" transportation problem, and instead of getting better it is getting worse. I remember the first time I saw "rush hour" on express subways in New York City. I wondered how grown up folks put up with it, a football battle every working day of their lives. Many have moved to small towns and cities like Kingston to get away from it and now we all have the problem. Everything is on wheels, and at the same time.

Going back to when the railroad fever struck Kingston, back in the 1860's Judge Clearwater's Ulster County book, on page 222 gave a good coverage of it. He wrote, that the railway fever broke out on two sides of the town, and local capitalists were induced to start the projects, which meant progress in those days. He said, "both proved costly for the people of Kingston and the various towns through which the roads ran. But in the end all have been benefited beyond estimate." That was written in 1907.

There was the Rondout and Oswego, its original title, later known as the Ulster and Delaware railroad. The purpose was to build to Lake Ontario. This was later changed, on the re-organization of the company, to the New York, Kingston and Syracuse, and finally to the above title, in June 1875. The road then came into the ownership of Thomas Cornell, and ran from Kingston Point to Oneonta, 108 miles, and from Phoenicia to Hunter and Kaaterskill, some 22 miles.

In those days, the equipment was considered the most modern, with the track of steel and a standard gauge. It proved the great developing factor of the Catskills as a summer resort and of course of great importance to Kingston, bringing industry, trade and population increase. People with extra money came up this way from the city, for the whole summer and spent their money here. With it there was also the extensive railway shops in Rondout, which were operated in a most modern manner by electricity, and gave hundreds of men steady employment. Samuel D. Coykendall was president of this railway system and it carried some 500,000 passengers in one year.

The railroads and the depot were an important part of Kingston in the 1920's and 1930's. It was a comfortable way of traveling, and in my day the trains were on time. In 1939, during the World's Fair in New York City, you could go round trip to New York City and back for $2 in one day and had plenty of time to see the fair.

It is sad to see the tracks taken up, because I feel in case of any emergency, transportation by train, of people or supplies can be very important. In World War II trains were constantly run in all directions across the nation, without interference from auto traffic. If the track is clear and the trains running, I feel, it is entirely up to management to make it popular again. Trains are roomy, one can walk up and down the aisle and visit with friends. There were smoking cars, dining cars and the big city stations always exciting. The small depots were always neat, with flowers and lawns.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest MacDonald, Philmont, Columbia County, were among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Also here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Miller Fagley and daughter of Glen Spey, Orange County. Fagley has a large collection of Civil War items pertaining to the cavalry branch of the Union Army. His most recent acquisition along this line is a cavalry saddle and blanket. A part of his collection has to do with the famous Harris Light Regiment, much of whose personnel was recruited in Orange and Ulster Counties.

George Mayhew Sr., Ohayo Mountain Road, is building a new house for Chester Lyons Jr. Site of the building adjoins the Lyons home along the side road leading up to the Ben Swanson development, or one time David Perry farm.

John Messina, World War 2 veteran, is commuting daily between his place along the east Branch of the Butternutkill and his work at the Ford plant in Mahway, N. J.

Henry Wells, Woodstock resident for many years and former Shokan boy called on local friends Sunday.

The Rev. Richard Coons and wife of Penney Farms, Fla., may not come up to their place in the village center this summer on account of the continued illness of the Rev. Mr. Coons who is a patient in the clinic of the noted colony for retired people.

Mrs. Davis Harrington of New York and Stone Ridge called on Shokan friends recently. Mrs. Harrington before marriage was Janet Bloom. She is the granddaughter of Dr. Burton B. Bloom, resident physician in the old village of Shokan for many years who with his family moved to Wallkill in late waterworks days.

Mrs. Leon Farney of Gardiner RFD was a caller at the local museum of antiques last week.

A number of Ashokan Reservoir employes attended the turkey dinner which was given recently in honor of several retiring members of the force. Foreman Paul Joyce was master of ceremonies at the banquet. The men retiring after many years of service are Harry Jones and Elson Oakley, Shokan; Leo Clare, Kingston, and Harry Krum of Olive Bridge. Robert Nussbaum had recently resigned as a city employe following his appointment as postmaster at West Hurley. Each of the honored guests were presented with a wallet containing ten dollars.

A WELL-BROUGHT-UP BOY

Q: I have been teaching my young son to call our friends Mrs. Brown, Mr. Doe, etc. I was taught to call my parents' friends by title and wouldn't think of calling them by first name. In this community, however, children are permitted to call everyone by first name regardless of their age. I have been called snobbish because of my insistence that my child use a title when addressing older people. I don't want to set myself, or my child, apart from the others and yet I do want to teach him what is right. Am I being too strict in this present day of informality and should I conform to the ways of the community even though I do not approve?

A: You are not being too strict and I hope you will continue to bring up your son properly. Perhaps if you stick to your guns, other mothers will follow your excellent example.

A Baby's Christening Dress

Q: Is it necessary that a baby's christening clothes always be white? My baby daughter is going to be christened in two weeks and I would like to dress her in very pale pink instead of the usual white. However, I have been told that only white is correct for a christening. Will you please tell me if this is true?

A: Although not a church requirement, white is customary for a baby's christening dress and you will risk criticism if you dress your baby in pink.

Wife Waited in Car

Q: One of the men with whom my husband works stopped at our house last Sunday afternoon to see my husband about a business matter. His wife, who was a stranger to me, waited out in the car. Do you think I was rude not to go out and ask her to come in?

A: If the man stayed for more than a very few minutes, you should have asked him. "Wouldn't you like me to go out and invite your wife to join us?"

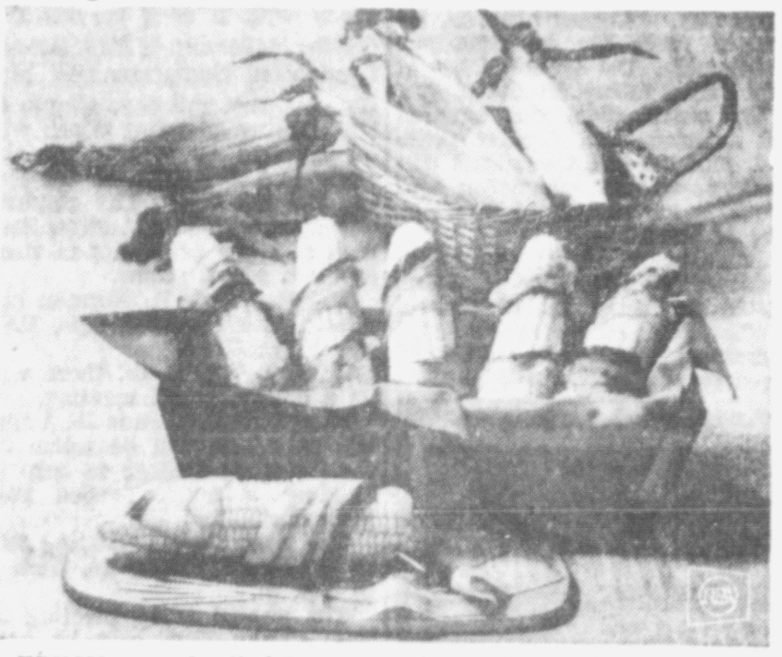
FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Wrap Bacon on Broiled Corn



FRESH corn, broiled in a wrapping of bacon, is a summer treat. The idea is a novel change from the usual serving.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fresh corn is early on the market, coming now from the South and the West. It is sweet and in excellent condition. So between today and the end of September, corn lovers can always be happy.

Here are two happy suggestions for fresh corn combined with other ingredients. You'll enjoy them after you've been having boiled corn on the cob with butter for a while and feel like a little change on the delicious theme.

Broiled Corn and Bacon
(Allow 1 to 2 ears per person)

Husk corn and remove silks. Drop in boiling water to cover, using 1 teaspoon salt to each quart water. Cover and boil 4 minutes or until almost tender. Remove partially cooked ears from water. Skewer ends of bacon to corn with toothpicks. Set oven control to broil and preheat.

Arrange ears on a broiler rack and place in broiler 4 inches from the source of heat. Broil 7 minutes or until bacon is crisp, turning to cook bacon on all sides. Remove bacon from ears and serve with the corn.

Fresh Corn and Crab Meat Salad (6 servings)

1½ cups cooked fresh corn, cut off the cob, about 4 ears
4½-ounce can crabmeat or 1 cup cooked fresh or frozen crab meat
1 cup diced green pepper
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Head lettuce
Stuffed green olives
Fresh tomato wedges

Combine corn, crabmeat, green pepper and seasonings. Add mayonnaise and lemon juice. Toss lightly. Serve on lettuce. Garnish with olives and tomato wedges.

Four Girls Complete Hebrew Studies at Talmud Torah Here

A Bas Torah ceremony was held in Congregation Agudas Achim on Sunday, May 28. More than 300 friends and guests attended.

This annual service is sponsored by the Talmud Torah of Kingston to honor those girls who have completed the required Hebrew and religious studies of the Hebrew School.

This year's class consisted of Francine Weiner, Marcene Basch, Blossom Rappaport and Susan Goldman. Each student read a portion of a Haftorah, a translation from Hebrew, and gave a commentary on the Torah.

Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport of Congregation Agudas Achim opened the program and introduced the Bas Torah Class of 1961.

Presentation of certificates was made by Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel. Gifts, which were also presented, consisted of the Holy Scriptures and two religious texts, "Jewish Home Beautiful."

During the program, Morris Nussbaum, chairman of the Talmud Torah Board, presented gifts to former board members, Herman J. Eaton and Joseph Krosner. Both have served five years on the board.

A gift was also presented to Congregation Agudas Achim by the graduates.

Home Extension Service News

With the bridal season approaching, you may be considering a shower or wedding gift of dinnerware for the lucky couple. Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, offers the following facts which may be helpful and interesting:

Kinds of Dinnerware

Earthenware—There are three types of earthenware: semi-vitreous, stoneware, and pottery. At the bottom of the clayware ladder is pottery. Pottery is made from common clay and is baked at a temperature just high enough to harden the clay a little but not high enough to make it really durable. Although pottery is thick, heavy, and sturdy-looking, it tends to chip and break easily. It is porous and, when chipped or cracked, will absorb liquids and food stains. You can recognize pottery easily because it is not translucent, is simple and unfinished-looking, and is usually gaily decorated. Because pottery is not very durable, it should not be purchased as a lifetime investment.

Stoneware is fired at a high temperature. It is more durable than pottery and resists heat. Because of this, it is most popularly used for ovenware. Stoneware is naturally grayish-looking and looks rustic and sturdy.

Semi-vitreous is the most often used everyday ware. It is fired at medium temperatures and is made from moderately good clays, making the finished dishes fairly strong, and fine textured. Because semi-vitreous ware is somewhat porous, it will absorb food and dirt into chips and cracks. A semi-vitreous dish will not ring when tapped.

Chinaware — Fine china is made of choice refined clays, fired at such a high temperature that the clay particles melt and fuse, to form a completely non-porous product. China may look fragile, but it's very durable.

Porcelain is fired at an even more intense heat than china. It looks more like glass and is more transparent than china. Bone china is made of clay to which ashes of ox bones have been added. Because of this, bone china is very white and translucent. Chinaware is translucent when held up to the light, gives a bell-like ringing tone, and has a white or cream colored body.

Buying Dinnerware

When you choose dinnerware for your home, your first consideration will be the style. If your home is modern in style, you will choose a design that is clean, uncluttered looking. However, if your home is decorated in some traditional period, your choice in dinnerware should reflect a similar style. Other points to consider include: are the shapes of the dishes practical, are they easy to handle, especially cup handles.

Are there any defects in the dishes? Check a dish for warping or crazing. These factors will affect the wearing quality of the dinnerware. Pin holes or white patches in the glaze of the dish will not harm the wear, but will detract from its beauty.

Color on the dishes should be even, unless meant to be otherwise. The tiny little marks on the bottoms of the dishes are marks made by "stilts" on which a dish sits when fired. These marks are not defects. Decoration that is put on before glazing will last longer than that put on after.

The cost of a dinnerware piece indicates its quality, to a certain extent. Fine china, for example, will cost more than pottery. The amount and kind of decoration will influence the cost. A design requiring more work will cost more. Gold or platinum edging will made a dinnerware piece more expensive. The price of dinnerware sometimes depends on the name of the manufacturer. You pay more for a name. Imported dinnerware will cost extra because of the duty.

Jacqueline Kennedy Pays Tribute to Hosts By Wearing French Creation for Banquet

By FRANCES LEWINE

PARIS (AP) —Jacqueline Kennedy forsook her all-American wardrobe Thursday night in a surprise personal tribute to her French hosts and their fashion industry.

To the final gala of her three-day visit to Paris—a banquet in the historic Hall of Mirrors of the Palace of Versailles — President Kennedy's wife wore a gown of heavy white silk and matching coat made for her by Paris designer Hubert de Givenchy.

It was the only French creation worn by Mrs. Kennedy during her visit. Already the toast of Paris, today she was even more popular because of her gesture.

Mrs. Kennedy's fashion surprise was a well-kept secret. A press preview of her wardrobe for the trip showed only American gowns and reporters were told she would wear a pink and white straw lace number by New York's Oleg Cassini to Versailles.

Instead she wore the Cassini number Wednesday night to the Elysee Palace, then Thursday night unveiled the ensemble Givenchy made for her some weeks ago and secretly sent to America.

The sleeveless gown had a bell-shaped skirt, high neckline and bodice embroidered in jewelled rose, mauve and green floral design.

Alexandre, Mrs. Kennedy's hairdresser since her arrival in Paris, pulled the bangs from her forehead, stuck deep dibs of waves to her cheeks, and crowned her head with a Louis XIV chignon on which four diamond clips created a tiara effect. Her cascade earrings and her large ring were of emeralds and diamonds.

YWCA Director Will Be Guest Speaker For B&P Dinner

Mrs. Frank H. Booth, executive director of the Kingston YWCA will be the guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's Club on Wednesday, June 7. Mrs. Booth will give a report on the National Convention of the YWCA held in Denver, Colo., in May. As head of the local organization, she accompanied the official Kingston delegates, Miss Mary Staples and Mrs. John Hill.

Conventions are held once in three years and establish policies for the National Organization. Mrs. Booth's report should be of great interest to all members. It will not only inform us of the direction of the National YWCA but define the position of the local Y in the world-wide organization.

Also to be discussed at the business meeting will be the summer schedule of outings for the club.

Members are reminded to sign for dinner not later than the Tuesday evening preceding the meetings. The business meeting and program will start at approximately 7 o'clock.

FIGHT FOR RIGHT TO LOVE—Terrence Whitfield, 28-year-old Australian explorer, right, and Ann Witaltuk, Eskimo nurse and airline hostess, are carrying their fight for the right to love each other to the Canadian House of Commons. Whitfield says he was fired from his $8,000-a-year job by Canadian Marconi Co., under a clause in the employment contract which forbids fraternization with Eskimos and Indians "except in special circumstances." Whitfield says this is a "special circumstance," that he intends to wed Anne—if she'll have him.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

MABEL DE PUY, Correspondent

Treasurer Named By Village Board

NEW PALTZ — Mrs. Hildur Hogan was sworn in as village treasurer to fill out the unexpired term of Marinus Petersen, who resigned, at the regular meeting of the Village Board Monday evening.

The board passed a motion to make application to the State Youth Commission for funds for the Youth Program.

The board also decided to obtain bids for the rental of a police car. Trustee William George was given permission to obtain one.

William Schmalkuche Jr. requested permission to open a street between North Oakwood Terrace and Grove Street. He said that seven feet would be deeded to the village to widen John Street.

The bids for porous concrete underdrain pipe were opened and the contract was awarded to Windsor Building Supplies Co., the lowest bidder.

Merrill Peck representing the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, was on hand to explain their program of inspecting electrical installations and making reports of their findings to someone in charge of the department, which in the case of New Paltz Village would be the building inspector.

It was reported that at a recent special meeting the board had granted permission to Mr. Schulte, building contractor, to extend the water line to several lots on Millrock Road.

Chris Larios of the firm of Brinnier and Larios, reported on the progress of the sewer construction. He also reported that a survey of the water system including testing of the water is under way and that a full report will be available in the near future.

It was announced that there had been an increase of $10,577 in the real property of the village making a total of $2,434,522.50. The tax rate is $33.415 per thousand.

Town Recreation Program Planned

Mrs. Fannie Lawson, field representative for the New York State Youth Commission, met recently with the members of the village and town boards to discuss this year's recreation program for New Paltz.

Peter Savago and S. Parks Glenn, representing the town board, and William George and Harold Phillips, representing the village board, were appointed to an active recreation committee following the meeting.

It was suggested by Mrs. Lawson that a program director be hired outside the boards to coordinate between the activities director and the boards. Leon Keator acted in this capacity last year and was hired to fulfill this position again this year.

Peter Savago was selected as chairman of the New Paltz Recreation Commission.

Last year's budget showed a balance of $1,506.88, $1,000 of which was alloted to the Mike Moriello Park for last year. The banance was alloted for equipment, most of it to be used for the New Paltz Junior Baseball League to give the league a boost for the coming year.

The budget for the coming year is $1,000, alloted to the Moriello Park to be paid when the present program is accepted by the State Youth Commission; salaries, $1,410; equipment, $990; transportation, $200; winter activities, $200; insurance, $200; making a balance of $4,000.

Recently the commission met with William Russell, coach at the central school, to go over his program as activities director. The program operates from July 3 to Aug. 11, each day from 9 a. m. until 12 noon. George Bond will assist Russell.

Margaret Glancy will assist with the program again this year, and Marlene Winnie, a physical education student at Cortland College, will also be on the staff.

Russell will conduct a course in leadership training for his assistants prior to the opening of the program. He hopes to improve on the quanity and quality of the program this year.

Ike, Mamie in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) —Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here today by train from Washington to spend the weekend.

The former president had little to say to newsmen except that he thought "It's a good thing for national heads (of state) to know each other." This was in reference to the weekend meeting of President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Heiress Balks, Won't Give $3.8 Million to Dad's Old Alma Mater

NEW YORK (AP) — Heiress Diana Cullon Davis has refused to surrender a $3,800,000 trust fund to her father's alma mater, Princeton University.

Miss Davis, 22, is at odds with her investment banker father, Shelby Cullon Davis, over the huge fund he set up for her, and which he has slated to go to Princeton.

Davis set up a meeting with Princeton officials to have his daughter sign over the trust fund. Diana didn't show up.

But Thursday she denied knowing about the meeting and said she was resisting "pressure" to sign over the fund. She added:

"I called him and told him that after my marriage I would consider seriously what to do about the trust fund. He was so bitter that he hung up on me. Now I don't know what I'll decide to do. He's doing all this for his own glory, anyway."

On June 24 Diana is scheduled to marry John Means Spencer, a history teacher at the Darrow School in New Lebanon, N. Y.

Diana also intimated that her parents are against the marriage.

Davis accuses his daughter of "unreasonable selfishness" and says she has "an assured $30,000-a-year income for life and a $100,000 cash gift."

The big trust fund grew from a $4,000 fund started at Diana's birth. With additional gifts and investment management by the father, it grew to its present stature.

Diana's brother, Shelby Jr., 24, also a Princeton graduate and now with a New York bank, has a trust fund for the same amount.

Davis said his daughter's $3.8 million fund was intended by him as a memorial for his father, George Henry Davis, Princeton '86.

NEW YORK (AP)—The men who buy from the nation's producers and processors say identical pricing is increasing and that this restricts competition in some industries.

But only about one-fifth of them see an increase in illegal price fixing of the sort that got 29 electrical equipment manufacturers into antitrust trouble.

This seeming paradox is found in reports of 1,000 industrial purchasing agents queried by the national magazine of their trade, Purchasing.

They also report price cutting below list quotations is on the increase with industrial buyers finding several ways of getting a better deal.

And the majority approves the government's stepped-up enforcement of antitrust laws and holds the effect will help business in general.

The agents' reasoning isn't paradoxical. The majority holds that in most cases identical bids—such as government agencies are complaining about—are normal and strictly legal. That is, they're arrived at by usual business practices and without the collusion that brings the Justice Department onto the scene.

Producers and manufacturers may be competing actively, even if the price is the same. The sales pitch is: "My product is better and I'm the better supplier."

Here is how the purchasing agents reported on the questions that have been making front-page news and stirring much talk and some action in industrial circles:

Seventy-three per cent find illegal price fixing among industrial suppliers isn't increasing; 21 per cent say it is; 6 per cent have no opinion.

Identical price quotations without collusion in evidence are increasing, say 56 per cent, while 44 per cent disagree. This practice restricts competition in certain industries, 55 per cent believe. But 34 per cent say not, and 11 per cent aren't saying.

Some degree of identical pricing protects smaller suppliers from being driven to the wall by price wars in the opinion of 49 per cent. This is disputed by 43 per cent, and 8 per cent abstain.

The government's stepped-up antitrust enforcement is approved by 73 per cent, disapproved by 21 per cent, with 6 per cent silent.

And 65 per cent say this will benefit business in general, 23 per cent say it will be harmful, and 12 per cent aren't sure.

Cement Workers 2-Year Pact May Set Pattern Here

A recently negotiated two-year contract settlement between United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union with Ideal Cement Company may set the pattern for settlements throughout the industry including five plants in the area.

Ideal has 15 plants all over the nation.

Aubin Straub of the union's district office in Catskill said Ideal agreed to pay salary increases of six cents an hour this year and eight cents next year. The agreement reached last week at the union's office in Chicago followed closely the settlement with Dundee Co., Michigan, a new subsidiary of Canada's St. Lawrence Cement Company, Straub said.

Union workers in the three Catskill plants, North American, Lehigh and Alpha are working on a day-to-day basis. Contracts covering the three plants expired midnight April 30.

No immediate negotiation meetings are scheduled, Straub said.

Sickler's Homer Climaxes Rally For Seventh Win

One big explosion in the sixth inning catapulted the Kingston High school varsity to a 6-3 victory over Our Lady of Lourdes, Thursday at Poughkeepsie.

Coach Al Gruner's Maroons were trailing 2-1 when they came to the bat in the sixth and erupted for a five-run rally climaxed by Rich Sickler's home run to right field.

The victory was the seventh in 12 games for the locals, who will round out the season with games against Poughkeepsie today and Middletown Wednesday.

Bream and Dunn collaborated on a seven-hitter for Kingston, while the Maroons collected only six hits off Epstein and Morrelli, but jammed four of them into the big inning.

Natale Starts It

Paul Natale triggered the rally with a single, but was forced at second by Dick Broberg. Mike Ferraro singled and Jerry Hawkins doubled to send Kingston ahead, 3-2. The rally stayed alive when third baseman Hickey booted Secreto's grounder. Sickler then hit a long drive into the right field corner for a home run.

Natale was the only Kingston player with two hits, both singles. Anderson and Duke each hit two singles for Our Lady.

Marlboro In Walk Over OCS

Onteora Central tossers experienced a mild nightmare in dropping a 5-2 decision to Marlboro Central in the UCAL League Thursday.

A solo home run shot by Di Giovanni tied the score at 2-2 in pitcher's duel between Hyatt of Marlboro and Gordon of OCS.

Then came the top of the sixth. An error got Gordon in a jam and Hegyi drove in what proved to be the winning run for Marlboro. A walk loaded the sacks and Gordon was lifted in favor of Len Muhlich, who promptly forced in two runs with walks.

Hyatt then nailed down the Marlboro win by fanning the side in the Onteora bottom of the seventh.

Di Giovanni had a single in addition to his home run. Bartsch stroked three singles. Woodward and Ferlita hit doubles and Hyatt had a triple for Marlboro.

Four Drivers Bid for Second 25-Lap Win at Onteora Track

Having given way to the midgets for one day, the big cars return to Onteora Speedway Park Sunday, with four feature winners of the 1961 season in the field.

Latest to join the select circle was Jim Markle of Atwood, who nosed out Don Avery in last Sunday's 25-lap main event.

Avery, the current point leader with 58 prior to last week's card, has been a winner once and runnerup three times, indicating he is well on his way to repeating as the best point collector at Onteora.

Racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan are also looking forward to entries from Big 77 Johnny Flach of South Waterlo and Rebel Harris of Poughkeepsie. Stretch Van Steenburgh of Saugerties who was forced out of race last week is expected to return with his new motor job.

Pete Keator of Kerhonkson, a consistent performer at the track by the Catskills, is also due in the field. Although not a feature winner, Keator has managed to win a couple of heats and is one of the popular performers at Dick Lane's track.

The card will feature the usual three 10-lap heats, a consolation and the 25-lap feature.

Prior to last Sunday's races, Avery held an 8-point lead over Ray Anderson of Newburgh in the points race. D. D. Harris of Poughkeepsie, better known as "Rebel," John Flach and Don Cronk were tied with 38 points.

The leaders at the end of three weeks, all of whom will be on hand at 2:30 p. m. Sunday are:

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

The $75 million bond issue for land acquisition approved by the voters last fall, is already producing results for the sportsmen. On April 17, Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm announced the appointment of Charles W. Mattison of Saratoga County, as a full time consultant for the program. Mattison, a Sullivan County native, has had extensive experience with the C.C.C., U. S. Forest Service and the conservation departments of several states until his retirement last summer. His new employment serves to emphasize the importance that Albany attaches to the necessity of purchasing land for recreation purposes while it is still available, or as the hucksters labeled it last fall in their pitch to the electorate, "Now or Never."

On Wednesday, a news release from Albany, indicated that the program is in full swing and that many notable purchases have already been consummated. The alacrity which has been demonstrated, once again points up that Wilm is a top notch administrator who somehow has learned to sidestep and avoid government red tape that has so completely ensnared his predecessors in the top post in the Conservation Department.

On crowded Long Island, where N. Jansen Fowler, Chris Morris and other local residents with their families have spent their vacations, tenting at state campsites along the beaches of the Atlantic Ocean on Long Island Sound, the Department has acquired 1,426 acres in the Lloyd's Neck area. This is slated for development as a new state park. With available land on the Island at a premium because of the rash of housing developments, the purchase of this large tract from the Marshall Field Estate, was a rare opportunity that probably would not have existed in a few more years.

GOOD NEWS TO LOCALS:

For the Bud Potters, Wilson Tinneys, Doc Bovees, Jack Reynolds, Jack Bartons, and the legions of other Ulster Countyites who head north toward the Adirondacks on their camping safaries, the acquisition of Nick's Lake for development as a public campsite, will come as good news. Located about two miles south of Old Forge, the 3,747 acres includes all of Nick's Lake estimated to be about 220 acres in water area, 24,400 feet of lake frontage and nearly 24,000 feet of frontage on the Middle Branch of Moose River.

There is ample space along the lake front for development of up to 500 tent sites and, commented Wilm in the release, if additional facilities are needed to meet the public demand, sites can eventually be developed along the Moose River. Nick's Lake will be less than 200 miles from Kingston, with most of the traveling being via the Thruway.

Closer to home, the purchase of a mile and a half of public fishing rights on the East Branch of theDelaware between Downsville and Hancock, was recently announced. This stream with its regulated flow from the cool depths of the Pepacton Reservoir, has consistently produced the best late summer trout fishing in the Catskills.

Under the $75 million bond issue, $15 million will be used to purchase land for hunting, fishing, boat-launching sites, wilderness consolidation and to provide access to existing Forest Preserve land that is now surrounded by private holdings. The remainder of the funds are to be used for new state and local parks. If future purchases are of the same caliber as those announced this week, the future for those who love the out-of-doors in our state, looks very rosy.

Snead Puts U.S. in Lead In Canada Cup Matches

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico (AP)—Sam Snead put the United States into the lead of the ninth annual Canada Cup matches but the man the experts were chattering about today as the golfers teed off for the second round was little Ben Arda of the Philippines.

Unknown outside his island country until the current tourney, Arda is the talk of the clubhouse on the 7,115-yard Dorado Beach course because of his picture swing.

In the first round he shot a 69, duplicating his final practice tour over the tropical par 36-36—72 layout. That was good enough to give him a tie for second with Al Balding of Canada and Peter Thomson of Australia, behind Snead's spectacular 5-under-par 67.

But Arda's total was made the hard way. Only a few hours before teeing off, he received a cable from his home that his wife was suffering from a heart condition.

His 69 and the 76 of Celestino Tugot lifted the Philippines into fourth place in the team standings with 145, five strokes more than the Snead-Jimmy Demaret combination needed to give the United States a start on defending the cup it won a year ago at Dublin.

Snead cut two strokes off par on the way out, but still was one stroke down to Demaret. Then the heat and the lack of tough tourney play hit the ex-Texan and he scrambled for two successive double bogeys on the home nine and wound up with a 73.

Behind the United States in the team standings it was the favored Australian duo of Thomson, four time British Open champion, and Kel Nagle, current British Open champ, with 145, Wales third at 144 and then the Philippines, followed by a three-way deadlock of Egypt, Argentina and Colombia at 146.

Detroit Holds Two Game Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers were held to a 4-4 tie by Kansas City in a game called after 7½ innings because of rain Thursday and retained a two-game lead over idle Cleveland in the American League race. Boston beat New York 7-5 and Washington defeated the Los Angeles Angels 3-2 in the ninth inning on a passed ball by catcher Earl Averill with two out and a two-run pinch double by Gene Woodling.

The Senators were blanked on five hits for eight innings by Eli Grba. But when he gave up his fifth walk, to Chuck Hinton leading off the ninth, Manager Bill Rigney called in reliever Ryne Duren.

Duren walked Jim King, then struck out Willie Tasby. But the Senators pulled a double steal and Dale Long hit a sacrifice fly. Then came the third strike-passed ball that put Billy Klaus on base and the break up shot by Woodling, who hasn't played in two weeks because of a leg injury.

Gabler In Relief

John Gabler, another ex-Yankee, won his second in relief of Joe McClain.

The Tigers blew a 3-0 lead before salvaging the tie with the A's on two walks and a single by Al Kaline in the seventh. Kansas City had taken the lead with four runs in the fifth, two on Wayne Causey's home run, against Phil Regan. Norm Cash homered for Detroit, off Ray Herbert.

Veteran Vic Wertz puffed out his first triple in six seasons and drove in three runs for the Red Sox, bringing in the deciding run in the fifth inning. Bob (3-3) was the loser. Bill Skowron drove in three runs with a pair of homers for the Yankees, who collected half of their 14 hits and four runs in the last two innings. Bill Monbouquette (4-5) was the winner. He gave up 11 hits in 7 2-3 innings, including Skowron's first homer—the first he had allowed in 76 innings.

Dickinson Now Is Man to Beat In Memphis Open

MEMPHIS (AP) — Advice from the top may be finally paying off for Gardner Dickinson, whose whose record-tying 63 made him the man to beat going into today's second round of the $30,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Dickinson, a slightly built pro, took a tip from PGA champion Jay Hebert and used it in fashioning Thursday's round of 30-33 that gave him a one-stroke lead over Don Whitt.

Four others, including defending champion Tommy Bolt, were next at 66 as 24 in the field of 91 pros and amateurs broke par over the 6,423-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course.

Top money winners Gary Player and Arnold Palmer are not here because of a rhubarb.

"Jay told me during a practice round to stand closer to the ball," Dickinson said. "It looks as if it helped. If a few of those putts had gone in, I'd really have had a round."

It was the second straight day for Dickinson to tie the course competitive record. His 63 Wednesday was in a pro-am and doesn't count in the tournament.

Player and Palmer wanted to play in the Canada Cup International matches, now going on, but the PGA-sponsored Memphis Open wouldn't release them. So they're sitting out the week.

Bob Rosburg, chairman of the PGA Players' Committee and one of the biggest backers of Memphis's stand, had a 67 Thursday, along with six others, including hometown favorite Cary Middlecoff. Six others had 68s.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and tied after today's round.

Koeppen Hurls Win

Sickler's 35 Club Tops Glynn's in Rec League

Don Koeppen of Sickler's 35 Club pitched a steady seven-hitter to turn back Glynn's Shoes, 12 to 2, Thursday in the Recreation softball league.

In the other game, Lincoln Park Inn and Bloomington Inn battled to a 4-4, eight-inning tie halted by darkness.

Sickler's backed Koeppen's pitching with a 12-hit barrage against Bill Sinsabaugh and Rich Hoffman including home run shots by Herm Sickler and Willie Cragan. Sickler also poled two singles and Cragan had one. Hahn slammed a double and triple and Jack Dawkins hit a three bagger. Don Uhl hit a homer and single for Glynn's.

Lincoln Park scored a single run in the seventh to tie Bloomington at 4-4. An inning later darkness stopped the game.

George Smith of Bloomington and Al Milak of Lincoln Park went the distance, yielding 6 and 8 hits, respectively.

Max Wunderlick tripled and Frank Sammons and Al Studt had two hits each for Bloomington. Don Smith and Andy Juhl also had a brace of hits.

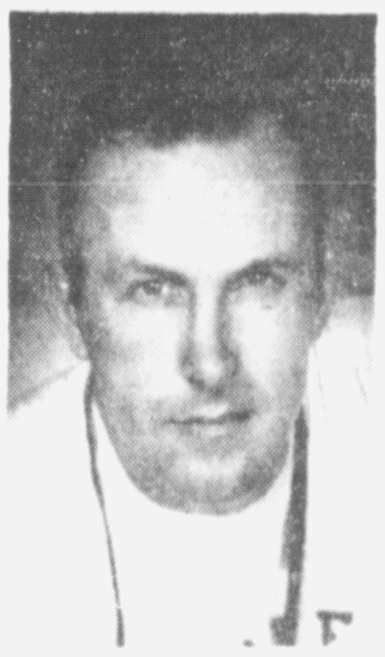
Dempsey-Tunney Urge Congress To Save Boxing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney urged Congress today to rescue professional boxing from the clutches of racketeers.

They filed brief written appeals before testifying at Senate committee hearings on an anti racketeering bill to place big time boxing under Justice Department regulation.

The two old warriors, whose bouts made boxing history, spoke almost as one in endorsing the bill. It would create the position of federal boxing commissioner in the Justice Department, with tough powers to grant, deny or cancel licenses of boxers, managers, promoters and matchmakers, and to ferret out any under-the-table deals with the underworld.



BANQUET SPEAKER — Scheduled to address the annual Saugerties High School athletic banquet Saturday night is Angelo Bertelli, former All-American football player and later a professional star. Bertelli was a quarterback on the great Notre Dame teams during the early 1940s. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. in the SHS cafeteria.

Reds Gain Half Game On Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati gained a half-game lead in the National League race while idle Thursday as St. Louis beat San Francisco 7-6 and knocked the Giants out of a first place tie. Pittsburgh rapped Milwaukee 8-2, in a game called after seven innings because of rain, and the Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 10-3.

Milwaukee, given a tongue-lashing by Manager Charlie Dressen after some horse play on a bus, now has lost four of its last five games.

Lew Burdette took the rap in this one and was tossed out of the game after arguing with Umpire Bill Jackowski. The flare up came when Jackowski disapproved of a high-tight pitch to to face Burdette after Dick Groat had hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Burgess Hits Two

Groat and Smoky Burgess, who hit two homers, each drove in three runs as the Pirates tagged Burdette (4-4) for seven of their 10 hits. A sacrifice fly by Frank Thomas and a single by Joe Torre drove in the Braves' runs before southpaw Harvey Haddix (4-1), allowing eight hits and striking out seven, started a run of six shutout innings.

Milwaukee traded utility infielder Billy Martin to the Minnesota Twins of the AL Thursday night. In his blow up, which followed Sunday's doubleheader split against last place Philadelphia, Dressen told the Braves "some of you guys won't be with us" after the June 15 trading deadline.

The Giants, down 6-0, almost pulled it out in the ninth against the Cards. Felipe Alou and Willie McCovey hit solo homers off reliever Lindy McDaniel before Al Cicotte came on and got Orlando Cepeda on a grounder for the final out. Cepeda had homered in the sixth off winner Ernie Broglio (5-5). The Cards scored five in the fifth off loser Mike McCormick (5-4), then scored the clincher on Julian Javier's single in the sixth against reliever Ed Fisher.

George Altman and Don Zimmer hit home runs and each drove in three runs as the Cubs won four in a row for the first time. Frank Sullivan (2-6) was the loser while Glen Hobbie won his third.

Rondout Valley Edges Wallkill in UCAL, 5-4

Rondout Valley nipped Wallkill Central, 5 to 4, in a UCAL contest Thursday, scoring four runs in the fifth to tie the score at 4-4 and pushing the winning tally across in the bottom of the seventh.

Jim Brush, Rondout pitcher, stopped Wallkill cold after yielding four runs in the first two innings. He permitted seven hits and struck out five.

Rondout picked up 10 hits off Don Pink, including three singles by Lynn Johnson. Pink whiffed 10.

Pink fanned the side in the fifth inning but in between the strikeouts the Ganders tagged him for five singles.

Crespi and Cirone singled to launch the rally. Pink appeared to be out of trouble when he fanned Brush and K. Johnson in succession. But trouble cropped up quickly as Lynn Johnson, Green and Sturgeon singled before Pink retired the side by striking out Quick.

Crespi and Cirone hit two singles apiece for the winners. Gaffney had a pair for Wallkill.

The victory set Rondout's record at 5 and 4 for third place in the UCAL. They are scheduled to play Highland today at Highland.

Expect Fishing To Be Excellent In the Catskills

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — With good weather, the fishing this weekend should be excellent in the Adirondacks and very favorable in the Catskills and in Western New York, the State Conservation Department says.

The department Thursday gave this rundown on current fishing conditions:

Adirondacks — Poor in Lake George and Sacandaga Reservoir, fair in Saratoga Lake and Lake Champlain, excellent in West Canada Lake, Cedar Lakes region and all trout lakes in Hamilton and Warren counties. Stream fishing is excellent from North Creek to the Hudson River.

Catskills—Streams clear, about normal; fishing pressure light to moderate. Good catches recorded. Trout are hitting artificial flies.

Western New York—Good fishing in all lakes and ponds. Lake trout are hitting well.

Carry Back Heavy Favorite to Win Belmont Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — The Belmont Stakes will be run for the 93rd time Saturday and it's odds-on that Carry Back will be in front at the end of the testing 1½ miles and become the ninth horse to wrap up the coveted triple crown for 3-year-olds.

Post time for the longest leg of the triple crown series, which also includes the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, is 3:50 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. The race at Belmont Park will be nationally televised (CBS) from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Whether the odds on Katherine Price's darling of the thoroughbreds are [illegible] or less depends on the nature of the opposition dropped into the entry box today.

[illegible] Ambiopoise is [illegible] that could well [illegible] odds. The son of Ambiorix whose offsprings often have shown an erratic tendency, won last Tuesday's Jersey Derby at Garden State by 10 lengths. Earlier in the season he [illegible] won the Gotham Stakes. But he was far back of Carry Back as the little Florida-owned brown son of Saggy ran to victory deep in the home stretch of the Kentucky Derby.

"Whether Ambiopoise is entered makes no difference to us," said Carry Back's trainer, Jack Price, after sending the favorite out for a five-eighths of a mile blowout with jockey Johnny Sellers in the saddle.

The field for the classic received an unexpected increase Thursday when trainer Harold Young announced that Jacob Sher's Sherluck will be in the post parade.

Slated to round out the field [illegible] Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller, King Ranch's Bal Musette, Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away, Flutterby from the Alberta Ranches, and Mrs. R. L. Dotter's Guadalcanal.

Danny Thomas Prepared to Buy White Sox Club

CHICAGO (AP)—Controlling interest of the Chicago White Sox may be in the hands of entertainer Danny Thomas and his associates within a week.

Bernard Epton, Chicago attorney and one of the prime organizers of the Thomas syndicate, Thursday made an offer to purchase 54 per cent control of the Chicago American League club. Epton, 39, mentioned no price, but it was understood to be between $4,800,000 and $5,000,000 for the same block of stock that was sold to Bill Veeck and his associates for $2,700,000 in 1959.

Announcement of receipt of the Epton-Thomas offer was made jointly by ailing White Sox President Veeck, Hank Greenberg, vice president, and board member A. C. Allyn Jr. Veeck and his associates are considering the offer, but Veeck said an option to purchase has not yet been signed by the parties concerned. A decision is expected to be reached by Monday, Veeck said.

Epton said his group originally sought to buy both the 54 per cent holdings of the Veeck syndicate and the 46 per cent held by Chuck Comiskey. However, Epton said, Thursday's bid did not include an offer for Comiskey's stock.

Minnesota Twins On Trading Binge

DETROIT (AP) — The skidding Minnesota Twins have gone on a trading binge and acquire infielder Billy Martin from Milwaukee and outfielder Bill Tuttle from Kansas City.

The Twins, who slipped from third to seventh place by losing 10 of their last 11 games, Thursday gave utility infielder Bill Consolo and an undisclosed amount of cash to Milwaukee for Martin, the much-traveled, scrappy veteran who achieved world series fame with the New York Yankees.

Minnesota also sent infielder Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Paul Giel to Kansas City in return for the veteran Tuttle in a straight player deal.

The third-place Olean Oilers gained on the league-leading Geneva Redlegs and second-place Wellsville Braves in the Class D New York-Penn Baseball League action Thursday night by rapping home runs.

Manager Hal Holland poked the first one for Olean against the Batavia Pirates as the Oilers won, 8-3, at Olean. The bases were empty.

Catcher Mike Imbriana smashed another in the fifth with one on, and Len Benedetto added the third one in the seventh with one aboard. It was Benedetto's seventh and Holland's fifth of the season.

In the only other game, the Auburn Yankees walloped Wellsville at Auburn, 8-1. First baseman Don Eoff of Auburn drove in three runs with a pair of singles.

The Jamestown at Elmira and Geneva at Erie games were postponed because of rain.

Weaker Hand Would Set

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Just look at the South hand you will have.

To start with, you have to choose your first response. In spite of your 10 high card points that include two aces you should content yourself with one no-trump. When your partner bids two diamonds you can now afford to rebid to two no-trump whereupon he takes you to game.

West opens the five of hearts; East plays the queen and you have your first problem in the play. Should you grab the queen or hold off?

You decide to win the trick because you can't stand a shift to spades.

You lead a diamond and should play the ace from dummy. You are in no danger if West has the king of diamonds since he can't lead anything to worry you and you want to guard against the possibility of East holding the singleton king.

East does hold the king and wins the second diamond trick. Then he plays the ten of hearts and you have your last problem. Should you cover or duck?

You should cover because East might have started with queen-ten-nine. Sure enough he had. The nine of hearts blocks the suit and you romp home with your contract.

Where does the unlucky expert come in? He sat East and if he had just been a trifle weaker in hearts he would have set you.

Memorial Day Parade

STONE RIDGE—The Memorial Day Parade held in Stone Ridge by the Marbletown Post 1512 was largely attended. The line of march was led by Post Commander Edward Lowe and the color guard.

Others in the line of march were fire companies from Lomontville, Kripplebush, High Falls, Stone Ridge; local Brownie troops, Girl Scouts, Cubs and Boy Scout Troops with the leaders participating with each group.

Music was provided by the concert band of the Rondout Valley Central School under the direction of L. Herrington. Also from RVCS was the Pep Club. Floats were sponsored by the Stone Ridge Community Project and the American Legion on which "Miss Poppy" and her attendants rode. Open top vehicles carried the Gold Star Mothers.

Other entrants were the High Falls Civic Association, antique cars and the "Forty-niner and his mule". After disbandment a brief memorial service was held at the legion hall.

matter of Fact

The locust is a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde character. When he's Dr. Jekyll, the locust is harmless and solitary. But when locusts multiply too quickly, their whole personality changes. Overcrowding and drought create a restless and irritable "Mr. Hyde" locust. He breathes faster and needs more food. Ominously, his wings grow. Swarms of such locusts may weigh 20,000 tons — eating their weight in green food every day.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The fertile mind of Bob Newhart will be buttoned down to records and concerts no more.

The brilliant young humorist from Chicago is starting his first movie this week. And he and his interlocking corporations are preparing the debut of his own TV show next season.

"I'm the guy who got started poking fun at corporations," he observed, "and now I'm president of some."

He's making his movie bow in "Hell Is for Heroes," in which he will help Steve McQueen, Bobby Darin, Nick Adams, Fess Parker and others win the war. His character will be strictly Newhartian.

"I play a clerk who is delivering some typewriters to headquarters," Bob said. "I get lost and end up at the front, where I'm pressed into duty. I'll have some comedy scenes, but the studio said they wouldn't stop the plot for me to go into one of my routines. That's the way I want it."

The picture was delayed a week, much to his delight. Newhart, who likes to recall the bad old days, observed: "I was paid $2,500 to play golf for a week. That was $1,100 more than my total earnings in 1958."

His income will continue to mushroom as he embarks next fall on his own TV show. He describes it as a variety half-hour, as opposed to a situation comedy.

Mahoney's View

Trickery Seen If Demos Take Local Offices

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—State Sen. Walter J. Mahoney says Democrats would bring "morally questionable, political brigandry" to suburban communities if elected to replace Republicans in local offices.

Mahoney, Senate majority leader and Buffalo Republican, spoke Thursday night at the annual dinner of the Republican Town Committee of Oyster Bay in Nassau County.

"The Democrats will stoop to using every conceivable bit of trickery, falsehood, misinformation of half-truth in their sordid effort to seize control of the suburbs," Mahoney said.

Democrats have been making inroads in traditionally Republican communities in many parts of the state.

Trial Date Is Set

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Charges of trespass and disorderly conduct against 27 pickets for integration at the Coney Island amusement park will be heard June 8.

Stealing of Livestock Reported in HV Area

A rash of cow thefts have been reported by dairy farmers throughout the Hudson Valley in the past few weeks.

The most recent loss was reported at a farm north of Saugerties where a five-year-old Holstein valued at $400 was taken away.

The operation usually takes place late at night or in the early morning hours. A truck pulls up near a field with grazing cows left out overnight and the thief takes his pick of the herd.

The farmer usually doesn't miss one cow, believing it may have strayed. He fails to report it to the authorities because at other times a straying animal returns later in the day or even a day or two later.

By the time the authorities are notified the animal has been slaughtered, the meat sold and the remaining evidence destroyed.

Residents who reside near cow pastures are requested to note descriptions of trucks and license numbers of vehicles parked late at night. This information should be passed on to the nearest law enforcement agency.

FBI Apprehend Ulster Fugitive At Poughkeepsie

A former Rosendale man sought by Ulster County district attorney's office for unlawful flight to avoid confinement in connection with an assault case, was arrested Thursday, Harvey G. Foster, special agent-in-charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office, New York City announced today.

Andrew M. Cherny, 22, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John B. Garrity of Poughkeepsie and remanded to Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail. He will be turned over to Ulster County authorities on Saturday.

Cherny was previously convicted in Ulster County for assault and received a 2½ to 5 year suspended sentence placed on probation. He later violated probation and a local warrant was issued for his arrest. Based upon his unlawful flight to avoid confinement for the crime of assault, Ulster County District Attorney David W. Corwin requested the assistance of the FBI in locating Cherny.

Meeting Raises Hopes of Break In Laos Deadlock

GENEVA (AP)—The head of the pro-Western Laotian government agreed today to meet the other two princes heading his nation's two Communist-supported factions, raising some hope of a break in the deadlocked negotiations here and in Laos.

Prince Accepts Bid

A spokesman for the royal government said Prince Boun Oum, the premier of the Vientiane regime, had accepted Prince Souvanna Phouma's invitation to a conference with him and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong.

Souvanna Phouma calls himself a neutralist but is recognized by the Communist bloc as the premier of Laos. Souphanouvong heads the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

Boun Oum's spokesman here said no date or place for the conference had been fixed and that Geneva or Nice, on the French Riviera, had been suggested.

The East-West conference on Laos here in Geneva and negotiations in Laos between the Vientiane government and the Communist-backed factions are both deadlocked over what to negotiate on first.

In Geneva, the West is insisting that new instructions be sent the international truce commission in Laos to enable it to stop rebel attacks that have continued on Vientiane forces, particularly resistance pockets scattered through territory that is nominally controlled by the rebels.

Hopeful of JFK Aid

The Communist delegates at Geneva insist a cease-fire is in force and that the political future of the Southeast Asia kingdom should be discussed.

The general hope on the Western side at Geneva is that President Kennedy, at his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend, can get the Soviets to modify their stand and that progress then can be made. The chief U.S. delegate to the Geneva conference, U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, flew to Paris today to join the President for the Vienna trip.

Demands Jersey County Be Left Out as Jetport

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J., demands that the Port Authority of New York quit its efforts to set up a jet airport in Morris County, N. J.

The congressman said Thursday that a new Port Authority report on the virtues of the Morris County site is largely a restatement of the authority's 1959 stand "and again flouts public opinion."

The report Wednesday in effect rejected 16 other possible sites for a proposed $220 million fourth airport for the Metropolitan New York area.

The report made no flat recommendation for a site, but reiterated findings of 18 months ago that a fourth jet airport is greatly needed and that the Morris County site comes nearest to meeting criteria such as physical suitability and nearness to population centers.

Frelinghuysen is chairman of the Jersey Jetport Site Association, which opposes construction of such an airport in his home county.

Frelinghuysen told a news conference:

"The expenditure of $537,000 by the Port Authority to restate its original position is outrageous."

He contested authority findings that the site, near the so-called great swamp area, is relatively underdeveloped.

He said it is a growing residential area, that 18,000 residents of Morris County alone would be affected by noise, and that 195,000 persons live within 7.5 miles of the center of the proposed site.

If there is a need for a fourth airport, he said, the "pine barrens" area of Burlington County would be more appropriate.

If your cake has a tough crust the recipe may contain too little fat or sugar or too much flour; or you may have over-mixed the batter before baking.

Leaders to Relax At Vienna Fete Given by Schaerf

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— Even if the meetings of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev will be mostly serious affairs, the fun-loving Austrians will see that the two leaders relax at least once.

That will be at the dinner President Adolf Schaerf gives for them Saturday night in the vast and glittering great gallery of the Schoenbrunn Palace.

The Vienna State Opera Ballet will dance, the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra will play and a top caterer will make sure they are wined and dined properly.

A spokesman of the Austrian government said about 200 guests will be invited to the dinner. They include the American and Soviet delegations and their ladies and the Austrian government leaders and their wives.

The sprawling 1,400-room palace in the Hietzing suburb was begun in 1694 under Emperor Leopold I and was completed 55 years later in Empress Maria Theresa's reign.

Up to the end of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy in 1918 the palace served as an imperial residence. Since that time it has been used as a public showcase and for special government receptions.

Mrs. Meta Thoden is spending a few weeks at her son's home here.

Mrs. Abbie Worsley and son of Kingston were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Thoden Monday.

Union Center Community Church worship services will be conducted Sunday 11 a. m. by the Rev. Robert Baines, pastor. Sunday school will meet 10 a. m.

Graham Defies Orders

LONDON (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, ill with a throat ailment, today defied medical orders and left his sick bed to join his evangelical campaign in the north of England.

Aides said Graham, 41, would go by train to Manchester to speak Saturday evening to an expected crowd of 60,000.

Pennsy to Take New Look at Basin Compact

BUSHKILL, Pa. (AP) — The Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin meets here today and Saturday for a fresh appraisal of what is in store for the populous valley.

Rep. Francis Walter, D-Pa., will address tonight's dinner meeting. He is credited with steering the engineers' recommendations for the basin to congressional approval.

But Pennsylvania has yet to ratify the interstate-federal compact for the Delaware Basin. Delaware, New Jersey and New York have done so.

The association's second annual meeting winds up with a Saturday tour of an area between Shawnee-on-Delaware and Port Jervis, N. Y., which would be turned into a national recreation center at a cost of $178 million.
